Coal-Short Railroads Cut 25 Pct.

ICC Action Cites Low Level of Fuel; Big Operators Halt Talks With UMW

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Federal Government yesterday moved to conserve the supply of coal for railroads.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered a 25 percent cut in operations of coal-burning locomotives by railroads that have coal supplies of 25 days or less.

The order was issued shortly after representatives of the largest group of mine owners broke off negotiations with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, who have been on strike since September 19.

The ICC acted because of the "dangerously low level" of soft coal available for railroads. The order is for two months, beginning midnight Tuesday.

"An emergency exists requiring immediate action in all sections of the country," the commission declared.

Impact of the reduction order, in terms of trains withdrawn and employes laid off, will not be known fully until the middle of next week, an ICC official said. He added, however, it is unlikely that Washington train service will be cut on through trains, but that the effect of the order will be felt on branch lines.

Railroads operating out of Washington into suburbs and small communities will need a day or two to determine how the ICC order will affect their schedules.

The Association of American Railroads estimated that coal-burning locomotives supply 28 percent of the Nation's passenger service, chiefly in the East and South, and that some 35 railroads had 30 days or less coal supply on hand.

Outlook for peace in the steel strike, which began October 1, also worsened yesterday, as Federal Conciliation Chief Cyrus Ching ended a four-day discussion with U. S. Steel Corp. representatives with the grim comment that the walkout is "no closer to settlement." Ching will renew talks with U. S. Steel next Monday.

Negotiations between the UMW and Northern and Western operators — who produce 60 percent of the Nation's soft coal — broke down yesterday at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

In walking out of the conference the mine owners' representatives declared:

"In his race for power, John L. Lewis is impoverishing our employes and is willing to destroy the coal industry. Therefore, we are leaving this conference. When the union leaders show some disposition to consider our employes and the industry . . . we will meet with them again . . ."

Lewis, visiting his ailing mother in Springfield, Ill., made no response, but UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy said the operators had refused to negotiate on anything that would increase the cost of mining coal.

"If their theory were carried out in general practice," Kennedy charged, "there would never be

Reds Convicted Of Conspiracy, Fined $10,000

6 Amtorg Officers Also Indicted for Failing to Register As Foreign Agents

By John London
Post Reporter

A District grand jury yesterday afternoon indicted the Russian Amtorg Corporation of New York City and six officers for failure to register as foreign agents.

The indictment charged that the corporation served as an information clearing house for the Soviet Union.

Immediately the FBI arrested five officers of the company headquarters at 210 Madison ave. in New York. They were held under $15,000 bail for a hearing next Wednesday morning on removal to the District.

Five Put in Jail

Unable to produce cash bail, they were jailed in the Federal House of Detention—where 11 American Communist leaders, sentenced yesterday, were being held.

The sixth Amtorg official indicted was reported to have left this country for Russia last February.

Aleksei Vasilievich Zakharov, president.

Aleksander Aleksasdrovich Istchenko, secretary.

Gennadi Nikolaevich Ogloblin, former assistant treasurer.

They are the only officers of the corporation and all are members of the board of directors.

When they appeared before United States Commissioner McDonald in New York, Isadore G. Needleman, Amtorg counsel, demanded they be accorded diplomatic immunity. This was denied.

Then, in arguing against high bail, Needleman said:

"There is no wilfulness here. We have been discussing it with the Department of Justice for the past six months and wrote only recently and then this happened."

"There is no question that the men will appear and if you want them to appear, they will appear."

"Prefer $15,000," He Says

Edward E. Richey, speaking for the Government, broke in:

"I prefer $15,000 to the counsel's word."

Needleman's secretary, Bella Solacko, acted as an interpreter during the proceedings.

Also on hand was Lev Tolakonikov, attached to the Russian Embassy. He argued that at least three of the defendants had diplomatic passports and therefore should enjoy diplomatic immunity from such charges.

The six and the corporation are charged with failure to register with the Justice Department, as foreign agents, under the 1938 Foreign Agents Registration Act.

Shortly after the indictment was announced to the press at 4 p. m. in a statement from Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, the Russian charge d'affairs, Vladimir I. Bazykin, called on Undersecretary James E. Webb at the State Department.

Bazykin remained seven minutes.

War Hero Given Term of 3 Years; Notices of Appeal Filed Within Hour

New York, Oct. 21 (AP).—Ten of the 11 top Communists in America, branded a menace to their country, were sent to prison for five years today and fined $10,000 each.

The eleventh, Robert G. Thompson, a decorated Pacific war hero, got off with three years and a $10,000 fine.

The defendants, held without bail since their conviction a week ago today, were returned to jail.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina pronounced the sentences and again refused bail.

Within an hour after court adjourned, notices of appeal from conviction and sentence were filed.

It was the first step in a post-trial legal battle that may finally end before the United States Supreme Court.

The party leaders were convicted of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the United States Government. Their nine-month trial was one of the longest Federal criminal cases in history.

U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey pleaded for 10-year prison sentences. He said the "potential danger of these men is incalculable."

But Judge Medina held that a change in the Smith Act, under which they were convicted, made five years the limit.

"If it wasn't for this change in the statute," the court said, "I would be thinking in terms of more than five years."

The defendants sentenced to five years were:

Eugene Dennis, 44, general secretary of the Communist Party and one of its world leaders.

Henry Winston, 35, Negro and organizational secretary.

John Williamson, 46, labor secretary.

Carl Winter, 43, Michigan State chairman.

Benjamin J. Davis, jr., 46, Negro and New York City councilman.

Gilbert Green, 43, Illinois State chairman.

Irving Potash, 46, vice president of the CIO Fur and Leather Worker Union.

Gus Hall, 39, Ohio State chairman.

Jacob Stachel, 49, education secretary.

Vishinsky Is Sarcastic On U. S. Rights Defense

Flushing, N. Y., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky waxed sarcastic today over the conviction of 11 American Communist Party leaders in New York.

Scoffing at American charges that human rights had been violated in recent Balkan church trials, Vishinsky told the United Nations General Assembly:

"United States policy of defending the rights of man was proved in the Peekskill riots and in the actions of (Federal Judge Harold R.) Medina . . . who succeeded not only in convicting the defendants but in passing judgment on counsel as well."

Out-of-Town Coin Machine Man Indicted

N. Y. Operator Accused Of Shakedown Try in Prince Georges County

A "coin-machine operator" from New York City was indicted yesterday by the Prince Georges County grand jury for allegedly threatening a Brentwood tavern keeper.

One count of the two-count grand jury indictment said that Sam Lano, 37, on August 10, 1949, "with a view to gaining money from the operation of certain coin-operated devices on the premises of one John Duffy . . . feloniously did threaten to accuse the said Duffy of a crime of an indictable nature, to wit the crime of having obtained money under false pretenses."

Duffy is the operator of Duffy's Tavern at 4308 Rhode Island ave., just over the District line. Lano said he has lived at 1206 Lebanon st., Silver Spring, Md., for approximately six months. Prior to that, he lived at 310 East 44th st., New York City. He gave his occupation as "coin-machine operator."

Ignatius J. Keane, Lano's lawyer, said last night that his client owns "approximately $25,000 worth of slot machines" in Prince Georges County.

Indictment of Lano recalls reports that out-of-town men advanced Prince Georges County tavern keepers money to operate their slot machines in the expectation that slot machines would be legalized.

On June 2 Prince Georges County voters approved slot machines, 22 days later Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury invalidated the law under which the

Red Feather Show Plans Canceled By Chest Heads

Plans for a Red Feather Show, scheduled to be held Tuesday at the National Guard Armory, were canceled yesterday by Community Chest campaign officials.

The show originally had been planned as a general opening rally. Fewer than 1000 tickets had been sold at the time the cancellation was announced, officials said.

CIO-UE Files Non-Red Oaths After 3 Years

Big Left-Wing Union Losing Membership Because of NLRB Bar

Officers of the United Electrical Workers, largest of the CIO's left-wing unions, have abandoned their three-year fight against filing non-Communist oaths, the National Labor Relations Board reported yesterday.

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, unions seeking to use NLRB machinery—as in representation elections—must file affidavits by its officers that they are not members of the Communist Party or affiliated with it. They must swear also they don't belong to or support any organization believing in the overthrow of the United States Government by force or illegal unconstitutional methods.

The UE non-Communist affidavits include those of Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer, and James Matles, director of organization, both of whom have been called Communist leaders at hearings before a congressional investigating committee.

Recently, left-wing unions, which had been shunning the NLRB to avoid having to sign the loyalty oaths, have changed tactics and signed up. Reason for the change is that, barred from participating in elections conducted by the NLRB, the "lefty" unions have been losing members to right-wing unions in both CIO and AFL.

The Electrical Workers, which at one time had about 600,000 members, now has less than 500,000. UE acceptance of the loyalty oath will give the left-oriented union the opportunity to participate in elections among company employes.

23 Appointed U. S. Judges, Six for D. C.

President Truman yesterday made recess appointments of 23 Federal judges, including six for the District of Columbia and two the Senate had pigeonholed because of political objections.

The appointments, which will fill the jobs until January without Senate confirmation, came two days after Congress adjourned.

One of the nominations, that of Carroll O. Switzer of Iowa as Federal district judge for the Southern District of Iowa, was called by Senator Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa) a "personal affront" to him.

Senator Gillette had recommended the names of two other Iowa attorneys for the judgeship.

The other controversial appointment renewed by the President yesterday on a recess basis was that of Wills W. Ritter as Federal dis-

Norwegian Declares Reports by Americans Helped Soviet Work

Paris, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Gunnar Randers, Norway's chief atomic expert, today said publication by the United States of official reports on the atomic bomb had saved Russia two years of research.

Randers said, "There is no doubt that Russia now has the atomic bomb." He specifically mentioned the Smyth Report published by the United States in 1945 as "extremely helpful to everybody working in atomic research."

Randers, chief of the board of Norway's Institute for Atomic Energy Studies, said Norway as well as Russia was able to make great strides in research as a result of the Smyth Report and subsequent reports published by the United States.

The Smyth Report, published under the title, "Atomic Energy for Military Purposes," was written by Henry D. Smyth, chairman of the department of physics at Princeton University and consultant of the Manhattan Project. It was written at the request of Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, head of the Manhattan Project, "for the purpose of conveying epoch-making scientific information to the public."

The Norwegian scientist, describing Norway's current research, said the Atomic Energy Institute now is constructing an atomic pile designed to generate 100 kilowatts of heat. He compared this with France's pile, now in operation, which he said generates only from 5 to 10 kilowatts.

Randers said progress in Norway's pile depends on the country's ability to mine and refine uranium which, he said, came from within Norway.

'Idiotic' Secrecy Blamed for Impeding Progress in U. S.

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Harold C. Urey, one of America's chief wartime atomic scientists, yesterday predicted that in about two years, Russia "could and probably will" effectively wipe out the United States lead in atom bombs.

Urey said it is obvious Russia now is making the kind of headway in atomic work America did during the war. It can make a stockpile "in a relatively short time," he added.

Meantime, he concluded, the American atomic energy program is "inefficient at present" and its progress since the war has not been commensurate to the effort of 1942-1945.

The statements appeared in the October issue of the authoritative Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, which appeared yesterday.

Red Progess Called Rapid

Urey, a Nobel Prize winner and one of the Nation's most eminent nuclear physicists, said the United States atomic energy program is insufficient because of the excessive emphasis on security and secrecy laid upon it by Congress. Those requirements have driven good scientists out of the Atomic Energy Commission, he said, because they are unwilling to work under such conditions.

He expanded this point in a speech last night in Philadelphia with the statement that:

"There are almost no first-class scientists working on atomic energy in the U. S. now."

Contract Accord Averts East Coast, Gulf Dock Strike

New York, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—East and Gulf Coast longshoremen voted tonight to accept terms of a new contract agreement, thus averting a threatened strike which would have tied up Gulf shipping and coastal shipping from Maine to Virginia.

The new contract grants the dockers increased employer contributions to pension and welfare funds. It is valid for two years on working conditions but contains a clause allowing renegotiation of wages after one year. The new contract provided for no wage increase.

Joseph Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said he considered the agreement "the best the committee could possibly get at this time."

'No One Asked Me to Quit,' Says Sullivan

Boston, Oct. 21 (AP).—Defense Secretary Johnson's assertion today before a House committee that he asked for John L. Sullivan's resignation as Secretary of the Navy met with a flat denial tonight from Sullivan.

The former secretary, in Boston to attend a reunion of his Harvard law school class, said that "neither Johnson or any one else ever requested my resignation."

Sullivan announced his resignation last April 26 with a blast charging Johnson had halted construction of a proposed Navy superaircraft carrier without even consulting him.

Yesterday Johnson told the committee:

Baby-Sitter Has Own Baby

Port Angeles, Wash., Oct. 21 (AP).—You may be slightly confused by this story about expectant father Robert Covault.

So was Covault, who told it this way:

He was waiting on the fidgeters' bench at the hospital. At home his 4-year-old daughter Joan was being cared for by a baby-sitter—or so he thought.

Then the nurses came by. They were wheeling the baby-sitter into into the delivery room. He rubbed his eyes and looked again.

It was the baby-sitter and she had had her own baby, a 6-pound 8-ounce girl.

Mrs. Covault also had a baby, a 6-pound, 2-ounce daughter who was the aunt of the first baby.

Unity Probe Ends; Johnson Scores Critics

Make Peace, Chiefs Are Told; Hoover And Marshall Heard

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Elder statesmen and congressional leaders yesterday told service chiefs to make peace and get together behind Defense Secretary Johnson, as the curtain dropped on the sensational defense probe.

They spoke after Johnson—a target of the protesting admirals—appeared before the House Armed Services Committee to answer Navy charges that the Nation's military polices are unsound.

Hits Back at Critics

He denied any plans to scuttle the Navy and struck back at his critics by declaring they had built a "strawman" by "misleading" statements. Explaining away some points and giving assurances on others, he vowed to go ahead with his economy program under the present unified defense policies.

But Navy sympathizers on the committee considered his statement so "temperate and conciliatory" that they abandoned plans for a stiff cross-examination. The hearings were adjourned in an atmosphere of "let's all get together, boys."

It was not a clear-cut victory for anyone. Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) told his committeemen to "go home, study and evaluate the testimony, and come back in January prepared to reach a decision on a course of action."

Asks Support for Johnson

Then the veteran Congressman, who has been very critical of the Defense Secretary during the probe, declared that Johnson "deserves the full support of the country in his difficult task."

A few minutes before, former President Herbert Hoover had made an identical statement. And Gen. George C. Marshall, former Secretary of State, came in from Leesburg, Va., to advise that "unity is absolutely mandatory" to properly divide the limited amount of money available for national security.

The trouble, said Marshall, is that defense spending must be limited to avoid economic trouble. What is needed, he added, is "an approach to the subdivision of funds that has only in mind the security of the country" rather than the attitude of any one service.

Requirement of Freedom?

Hoover told the committee the "public washing of linen" before it in the past two weeks was regrettable but probably "one of the requirements of maintaining freedom."

"But an equal requirement," added the only living former President, "is that we settle down afterward to loyal cooperation and constructive action."

Wearing a hearing aid and reading his statement slowly, Mr. Hoover declared that large savings can and must be made within the unified military establishment.

ICC Suspends Fare Increase Arnold Line Set for Monday

A fare increase scheduled to go into effect Monday on the Arnold Bus Lines was suspended yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission until May 23, 1950, pending further investigation.

The ICC order immediately raised possibility of a strike November 2 by drivers and maintenance men to enforce a wage increase granted at arbitration September 9. The company had told the employes' union it could not pay the higher wages unless fares were hiked.

The ICC decision, handed down in an order late yesterday afternoon, came on the regulatory body's last business day before the increase had been published to become effective.

It made no mention of reasons for the action, except "further investigation," and set no date for hearings. However, a number of municipal and civic bodies in Arlington and Fairfax Counties, served by Arnold, had objected to the rate rise.

The increase scheduled was 5 cents a zone on cash fares, and a hike in the price of tokens from four for 50 cents to six for $1.

Neither Joseph L. Arnold, president of the Washington, Maryland and Virginia Coach Co., known as the Arnold Lines, nor Bernard Wahle, general manager, was available last night for comment. Wahle was reported in Massachusetts until Monday.

The AFL Amalgamated Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes Union, which represents the 215 drivers and 65 maintenance men, threatened to strike during the summer to obtain a wage increase. The case went to arbitration and on September 9 an award was made of an increase of from 10 to 17 cents an hour, over an extended period, and with certain retroactive payments.

The company failed to pay the increase and told union representatives it could not be paid until the fare increase was received. On September 27, the union local met and voted to strike at 12:01 a. m. November 2 unless the payments were made.

H. A. Harris, president of the local, said last night he was sur-

Hospitalization Rates to Be Raised

Whitehead Fights Vote Proposal

Accomac, Va., Oct. 21 (AP).—A leading opponent of the Campbell constitutional amendments said today that Virginians should not be driven into adopting the suffrage proposals by "prophesies of what the Federal Government may do between now and the congressional elections next year.

"It would be better," said Robert Whitehead, "to endure the ills of one election than to impose upon the people of Virginia for years to come a new set of suffrage provisions which may be thoroughly unacceptable to them and may well result in unfortunate consequences."

The Nelson County member of the House of Delegates, speaking to a meeting of the Woman's Club of Accomack County, then added:

"The wise course to pursue is to reject these proposed amendments and then start afresh and afford the people an opportunity to intelligently vote for or against poll tax repeal with the necessary provisions to insure an informed electorate."

Whitehead said it was a source of regret that the people couldn't express just their preference on the poll tax as a voting requirement at the November election instead of being confronted with numerous and far-reaching changes wrapped up in "omnibus suffrage amendments."

He ticked off his opposition to a number of proposals embodied in the amendments, particularly with respect to the broad option they would give the General Assembly.

On a prime controversial point, the provision for the reregistration of all who registered before January 1, 1904 and the annual renewal of such registration "in such manner as may be proved by law," Whitehead had this to say:

"No person now knows what 'renewal of registration' will be, or what it will mean. However, we do know two things: (1) that registration must be renewed every year in some manner, and (2) that the method of renewal will be whatever the General Assembly may by statute from time to time prescribe.

"One Assembly may set up one set of requirements. A succeeding Assembly may change it all and require something entirely different."

Group Hospitalization, Inc., which insures some 410,000 persons here against hospital costs, will raise its rates again and extend its membership privileges.

The double-barrelled announcement was made here yesterday by Joseph H. Himes, president of GHI, the area's largest hospitalization insurance organization.

The new rates, effective December 1 on new contracts, or thereafter on expiration of present ones, range 20 to 50 cents a month more than present costs. Last November 1, subscribers' costs were upped even more substantially.

Himes' announcement yesterday actually contained six changes in GHI operations, designed to "strengthen and improve the protection" of its contracts. They included:

1. Raising present subscription rates from $1.10 a month to $1.30 for single coverage; upping family rates from the present $2.75 to $3 a month, and discontinuing the special husband-and-wife rate of $2.50 a month, to insure couples under family rates only.

2. Opening membership to individuals, but at a rate which it is estimated will be 20 percent higher than those enrolled through employed groups — and without maternity benefits.

3. Liberalization of benefits for hospital care in nonmember hospitals outside the Greater Washington area.

4. Discontinuance of the $1 enrollment fee.

5. Removal of the present 10-day limitation on paying hospital costs for polio patients.

6. Paying hospitalization costs on ailments existing when the subscriber joined, when such hospitalization is incurred more than 10 months after joining. This would include hospitalization for removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Though the changes announced concern only GHI contracts, they will likely be extended—excepting rate rises—to participants of the Medical Service Plan of the District of Columbia, according to Dr. Frank D. Costenbader, its president. The plan, which insures wholly or partly against surgery bills, is administered through GHI and open only to subscribers of the hospitalization plan.

Himes said the new contract rates were made necessary by rising hospitalization costs which have cut heavily into GHI's reserve fund. Present GHI reserves, he said, are down to about $500,000, or $1,000,000 less than the fund has been at its peak and $1,500,000 less than the "stabilization" goal set for it.

Enrollment on an individual basis is expected to be begun shortly after January 1. Despite its restrictions, the move is regarded as a significantly forward step by proponents of voluntary prepay hospitalization plans, who point out that a majority of the nation's population are ineligible to participate in group contract plans.

Officials Purged By Communists

By The Associated Press

The Communist governments of Poland and Czechoslovakia were reported last night to have fired or transferred from key ministries in recent days many officials known to have contacts with the West.

The purges, which so far have not touched any top officials, became known here as a result of information to government officials.

This information states that in Warsaw more than a dozen men in responsible positions in the Foreign Office and Economic Ministry are missing from their usual posts. The group includes Victor Groz, who was the Foreign Office information chief.

No information was available on the number of those who have been purged from government office in Prague. But the shakeup was possibly extensive.

U. S. Asks State Help on Infant Prematurity

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The United States Children's Bureau yesterday asked State health department officials to help them wage an all-out fight against infant prematurity, greatest single cause of baby deaths.

In a special symposium before the annual meeting of State and Territorial health officers, the bureau presented an array of medical authorities to point up the problem.

One of these, Dr. Harry H. Gordon of the University of Colorado Medical School, told the health officers bluntly that too many premature babies die simply for lack of good care.

It costs money, education and cooperation to save them but programs already underway show that they can be saved, he said. Too little is known about why some babies are born too soon, but ways are known to delay that birth some, to give them a better survival chance, and to care for them properly when they are born.

Gordon told the health officers, assembled in the Federal Security Administration building here, that more than a third of all United States deaths in the first year of life are caused by premature birth.

Though admittedly the best treatment would be provided in special "preemy centers," the death rate could be cut considerably by improving treatment programs in regular maternity wards, he said.

Dr. Gordon said the problem of prematurity is too expensive for the average parents to bear, and said the Blue Cross, pre-pay hospitalization plan, has been asked to consider insuring subscribers against such costs. Average hospitalization stay, with all the special services required, is about 30 days for premature babies, he said.

He pointed out that most prepay hospitalization plans do not cover hospitalization expenses for infants beyond the mother's stay, about five days. Other speakers estimated that the extra cost of hospitalizing a child through prematurity ranges from $300 to $2000.

Dr. Vlado A. Getting, commissioner of public health in Massachusetts, said special premature centers and other services have been started in 47 Massachusetts hospitals under health department direction.

Court Told Doctors Refused Medical Plan's Patients

Portland, Oreg., Oct. 21 (AP).—A witness in the Government's anti-trust suit against the Oregon Medical Society today testified the society had adopted a definite policy against accepting patients of certain prepaid medical plans.

The Government is trying to prove the State Medical Society tried to monopolize the prepaid medical field through its Oregon Physicians Service.

C. C. Bechtold, general manager of the National Hospital Association, testified Oregon doctors who had cooperated with the association suddenly stopped accepting the association's subscribers.

Bechtold said a personal friend, Dr. Banner R. Brooke, explained to him that the Multnomah County Medical Society had met with Dr. Morris Fishbein of the American Medical Association and discussed a movement to refuse to accept patients of hospital associations.

A letter to the association from four hospitals was entered as evidence to support the argument.

The letter, written by the Coquille, Bell Knife, Mast and Bandon Hospitals, notified the association they would not accept its patients after March 1, 1940.

"This action is in compliance with the standards governing contract practice as recently set forth by the State Medical Association whereby it is considered against the best interests of the patient to have a third party (that is, a layman) come between the physician and his patient," said the letter. "Hereafter, only hospital associations owned and operated by physicians will be acceptable to us."

The trial then recessed until Tuesday.

Tito May Get Civilian Aviation Equipment

The United States and Britain are considering lifting their ban on shipment of civilian aviation equipment to Yugoslavia, diplomatic officials reported yesterday.

This move is being considered as another means of encouraging Marshal Tito to stand up against Russia and her Balkan satellites.

The Yugoslav government anticipated a favorable decision and already have applied for permission to buy some equipment from an American airline, it was learned.

Scottish Rite Council Set In Philippines

Dr. Frederich Stevens of Manila was made an active 33d degree Mason yesterday to organize a Supreme Council for the Philippines.

Dr. Stevens

The action was taken by the Supreme Council for the Scottish Rite, Southern Jurisdiction, at an executive session in the House of the Temple, 1733 16th st. nw.

The council also named T. Graham Hall of Nashville, Tenn., as the sovereign grand inspector general for Tennessee and made him an active 33d degree Mason.

Last night the 33d degree award was given to 200 honorary inspectors general, concluding the biennial session of the council here.

Amtorg Chartered In New York in '24

The Amtorg Trading Corp., which was indicted yesterday with six of its officers for failure to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, derives its name from the first two letters of "American" and four from the Russian word "torgovlya," meaning trade.

Chartered as an American organization under the laws of New York State, it was first set up in 1924 to handle the commercial interests of Russia, which then was not recognized by this country and so had no official representatives here.

It buys and sells articles in this country for Russia. In 1947, total purchases here amounted to some $88,500,000, while sales in the United Staees totaled 52 million dollars.

Among its purchases that year was a supply of restricted atomic-research instruments, it was revealed last summer when the FBI opened its counter-espionage files for evidence in the Judith Coplon espionage trial here.

One shipload eluded the FBI, another was located in New Jersey on board a ship being loaded and was removed.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman described the equipment as "not secret devices—they are used in thousands of laboratories in this country for experimental work with radio isotopes."

However, he added that they were "indispensable in developing and atomic energy industry, whether for peacetime or wartime uses."

Amtorg's staff peridoically changes on a rotation basis. It is now composed of some 50 Russians with diplomatic passports but not diplomatic status, according to the Justice Department.

10 Top Reds Given Maximum 5-Year Terms; War Hero Gets 3

When muttered "No comment . . ." when reporters asked if he had made a formal protest. He strode off briskly.

A State Department official said that the Justice Department had been trying for three years to get them to register as an American corporation subject to American laws.

Six weeks ago the State Department wrote a formal note to the Soviet Embassy asking it to look into the matter. No reply has been received.

Attorney General McGrath stated the FBI had "conducted a long and extensive investigation of the activities of the Amtorg Trading Corporation."

McGrath then referred to the indictment that specifically charges that since October 1, 1946 Amtorg:

"(1) . . . has acted . . . and held itself out to be the agent and representative for;

Ogloblen Rebrov Istchenko Zakharov

for and has reported information to;

"3) it has disbursed money for; and

"(4) it has acted at the order and request and under the direction of, the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, including its government-controlled instrumentalities."

$10,000 And 5 Years Maximum

The indictment states that the six Amtorg officers "unlawfully and willfuly failed to cause Amtorg to execute and file" a registration statement under the 1938 act.

They face a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and five years in jail. The corporation could be fined $10,000 if found guilty.

The indictment charges failure to register only since October 1, 1946, because the corporation was exempted from registration during the war, Attorney General McGrath's statement said.

He explained: Under the act, the President could, and during the war did, by proclamation, exempt agents whose foreign governments were deemed vital to the defense of the United States.

The Soviet Union was one of the countries so exempted, but on September 30, 1946, the President withdrew this exemption from all countries.

Has About 50 Employes

Today Amtorg has about 50 employes, all Russian officials with diplomatic passports, but not entitled to diplomatic immunity, a Justice spokesman said.

It was anticipated, however, that Russia would claim diplomatic immusity for the five men arrested, as it has repeatedly for Gubitchev, the suspended Soviet employe of the United Nations, who was arrested in New York last March. He faces trial November 9 on charges of conspiring with Judith Coplon, former Justice Department employe, to spy on the United States.

During the Coplon trial in Washington last summer, testimony was introduced that Amtorg had shipped out of this country to Russia some half dozen kinds of restricted atomic-research instruments.

One manufacturer had reported Amtorg orders "general paralleled those of the Atomic Energy Commission."

Notes found in the purse of Miss Coplon when arrested contained reference to Amtorg. The prosecution said they were based on a decoy memorandum written to trap her in spying.

She was told by Justice officials to take notes from the memorandum "in connection with the possible prosecution of Amtorg."

The memorandum said that Needleman, Amtorg's lawyer, had become an FBI informant. Government witnesses said this was false and designed to arouse her interest.

One source of information here said that the FBI succeeded in breaking Amtorg codes and confirmed that the company was collecting and transmitting general military and ecenomic information about this country to Russia.

Shevchenko

A State Department official indicated that the indictments were more of a Justice Department affair than a State Department move.

He intimated the Government's attitude is:

"The law has been on the books for several years. Amtorg has been asked repeatedly to register, as it should and hasn't. There's no reason they should be exempt and others not."

It was explained that Russians in this country have been extremely sensitive about the word "agents" in the title of the statute, Foreign Agents Registration Act.

To Russians the word means spy and they regard it as an offense to expect Russia to declare publicly that their officials here are spies.

Nevertheless, several Russian organizations in this country have registered, after much hesitation. These include Tass, Russian news agency, and Artkino, the official said. The persistent refusal of Amtorg has not been understood by the United States Government, he added.

It was pointed out that if Amtorg contends it is not an agent of a foreign government it would have to explain away the fact that during the war it filed an exemption statement under the act, listing its foreign principal as the Russian government.

The indictment was returned by the regular October term grand jury in the court of District Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

About 2 p. m., while attorneys were holding a bench conference in the trial of Herbert J. Burgman, accused of broadcasting treason for the Nazis, a court clerk whispered to the judge.

Then Judge Holtzoff announced: "We will suspend proceedings while the grand jury makes a report."

The grand jurors crowded up to the bench. After a roll call, the judge asked the foreman if he had a report. He handed up a sheaf of papers.

William Hitz, assistant United States Attorney, who with United States Attorney George Morris Fay and Nathan B. Lenvin, Justice Department special attorney, presented the case to the grand jury, then said:

"We request that this indictment be sealed since the defendants have not yet been arrested."

Judge Holtzoff granted this request. When informed that $15,000 bail was requested, he expressed surprise: "$15,000 each?" He was informed that was so.

For the next two hours reporters made frantic efforts to discover the names of those indicted. They could only learn it was a "story of national importance."

At 4 p. m. the Justice Department released a statement and a copy of the indictment, indicating five defendants had meanwhile been arrested in New York.

Drew Pearson, columnist for The Washington Post, predicted on October 5 that "the Justice Department is getting ready to tighten up on Amtorg . . ."

Wife Charged In Slaying of U. S. Airman

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 21 (AP). Mrs. Andrew E. Madsen, dark-eyed Brooklyn beauty who left a party alone in a huff early Thursday, was charged today with murdering her husband, a United States Air Force lieutenant—shot when he followed her home.

Authorities sought a motive. Reports of a feminine spat at the party were studied for clews.

The victim was a ground officer in the Military Air Transport Service at the Rhine-Main Air Base and a former airlift pilot. He was 32.

His widow, Yvette, 22-year-old mother of two chuldren, appeared in a United States court today on a first degree murder warrant. Pale and poker-faced, she sat impassively while her temporary attorney obtained postponement of her arraignment until Monday to permit her to arrange for counsel.

Madsen was felled by one bullet from a .45-caliber service pistol in the living room of his home near the air base, about 2:45 a. m. Thursday.

Mrs. Madsen had left her husband at the party, in the home of friends, a short time before. Friends of the two said they had not quarreled at the party.

Air Force officials said Mrs. Madsen had left alone in the family car after offense at a remark made by one of the women guests. One source said the remark was to the effect Mrs. Madsen was "temperamental."

Madsen was driven home by a friend at 2:30 a. m.

Twenty minutes later Mrs. Madsen pounded on the door of the home of Capt. W. C. Hinman, Air Base provost marshal, who lives across the road. She told him her husband was injured.

Amtorg 4th Red Agency To Be Indicted by U. S.

Uncle Sam's crackdown yesterday on Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, for alleged violation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act was the fourth such case brought by the Government against agents of Russian principals since the act was passed in 1938.

The Government has brought indictments in a total of 20 cases under the act. Of these, 11 involved agents of German principals; one case involved Spanish principals; one, Rumanian; one Finnish; one Japanese and one Italian, according to Nathan B. Lenvin, senior attorney, foreign registration section, Justice Department, who is prosecuting the present charge with Assistant United States Attorney William Hitz.

The act, which amended in 1942 to transfer administration of it from the State Department to the Justice Department, requires that all persons who act as agents of foreign principals in the United States register with the Attorney General.

Certain exemptions covering activities of a religious nature or in furtherance of bona fide trade are allowed.

The first case involving agents of Russian principals stemmed from the indictment in 1939 of the Bookniga Corp., of New York and three of its offices. Bookniga was the predecessor of Four Continent Book Corp., registered now as agent of the All Union Book Combine of Soviet Russia.

Bookniga was fined $1000. Raphael Rush, an official, was sentenced to 8 months to 2 years on one count and 6 months to one year on a second count. Another official, Norman Weinberg, drew a 6 to 18-month sentence; while a third officer, Morris Liskin drew a 4-18-month suspended sentence on one count and a sentence of 8 months to 2 years on a second charge.

In 1940, World Tourist, Inc., of New York, an agent of Intourist USSR travel agency was fined $500 and Jacob Raisin, sole stockholder and officer, was fined $560 and given a suspended sentence of 4 months to 1 year.

Among the more noteworthy cases involving agents of a German principal were those of George Sylvester Viereck and Laura Ingalls.

Viereck, writer and publicist, was reindicted here in 1943 after an earlier indictment had been dismissed. He was convicted on six counts and sentenced to 2 to 10 months on each count to run consecutively.

Miss Ingalls, noted aviatrix, was indicted in 1941. She was convicted in 1942 for failing to register as an agent of the German government and sentenced to serve 8 to 24 months.

Tito Blasts Poland for 'Hostilities'

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 21 (AP). — While Belgrade's press blazed with headlines telling of Yugoslavia's triumph in the United Nations, the government sent a bitter note to Poland today, accusing her of "ceaseless hostilities" against this country.

The Polish Embassy was given the note as a formal answer to Poland's renunciation 22 days ago of her treaty of friendship and alliance with Yugoslavia.

The reply blamed Russia for the rift. It said Poland had "joined the plot organized by certain leaders of the U.S.S.R. . . . without cause." It recalled Yugoslavia's aid to Poland when that country was down and out, including 100,000 tons of grain in 1947 which it said had proved of "tremendous political help."

The note also recalled with bitterness the praise of Poland's president, Boleslaw Beirut, three years ago, when he said Yugoslavia was "marching ahead" of other Communist countries.

Yugoslavia has replied to other Cominform nations which have cancelled their friendship treaties. But its charges against Poland were specified: That Poland stole Yugoslav diplomatic mail in Warsaw, that she ousted employes of the Yugoslav Embassy without cause; that she furnished refuge to "traitors" from Yugoslavia, sabotaged the Polish-Yugoslav economic cooperation treat, made excessive demands for increase of ore shipments from Yugoslavia, postponed deliveries of goods needed by Yugoslavia, and refused to return advances received for industrial equipment.

Attlee to Outline Super Austerity Plan for British

London, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—The Labor Government was reported ready tonight to lop a billion dollars off the budget in a super-austerity program that will make Britons pull in their belts tighter than ever before.

The cabinet gave its approval today to the plan which reliable sources said would affect food, gasoline, public workers, tobacco, the "sacrosanct" health plan, housing and even defense in an effort to make Britain solvent.

The government immediately clamped down strict security to guard against any premature leaks of the new program that Prime Minister Clement Attlee will explain personally Monday night to ration-weary Britons. Ministers were instructed not to discuss the program to prevent possible speculation in commodities affected.

Attlee will present the program to Commons on Monday. The program was made necessary by the devaluation of the pound from $4.03 to $2.80 with a resultant threat of inflation that would upset the Labor Government's economic plans still further.

Informed quarters believe the latest cuts will affect:

1. Import of food and perhaps changes in food subsidies.
2. Gasoline for Britons, already rationed to 90 miles per month.
3. Public works, including construction of schools, hospitals and government offices.
4. Supplies to the armed forces.
5. Possible changes in pensions and allowances.
6. Possible retrenchment in Britain's health program.

Skimpy 'Shoes' Pinches Painfully

By Richard L. Coe

THAT condensed version of "High Button Shoes" at the Warner has been dehydrated into something even less appetizing than an Army breakfast.

I hate to say this, because there's nothing wrong with the idea of melting down a hit musical into movie menu lure, but this doesn't seem to be it. What makes it more awkward is the fact that it's been so long since our Unnatural National gave us musical comedy, some people may get the notion this skimpy job is what we oldsters have been missing.

The trouble with it is that it's pretty sluggish. The two comedians represent severe cases of malnutrition, and since much of one's time is devoted to watching them, the irritant becomes a constant pain.

On the credit side, a lonely credit side, is the celebrated Mack Sennett Bathing Beauty Ballet, which manages to be lively, colorful and slightly amusing, though the telescoping of the story removes much of its point. It's rather frantic going, albeit, just enough of a taste of the real thing to irritate while it tries to amuse.

What story line is left isn't strong enough to give point to several of the songs which I assume once had something to do with something. Having deprived myself of the pleasure of seeing the original, I can't fill you in on the differences, but if this is anything like a hit musical comedy, then I'm all four Marx Brothers.

Don Rice, who used to be an amusing enough fellow when doing a single on the Capitol stage, has the Phil Silvers comedy lead and will, I trust, consider this the low point of his career. Nanette Fabray, who scored as the whistling mother in "Papa Won't You Dance With Me," must have been rather wonderful in that number. Betty Bonney, who's doing it now, is the most likable girl in the cast and her "Castle Walk" is nice. The football hero is the best man in the company, Chris Robinson, a straight-forward sort of chap with an acceptable voice but not enough to sing.

Capsuling like this "High Button Shoes" is not going to revive vaudeville.

Nor does the Warner screen do itself proud in "Mr. Soft Touch," starring Glenn Ford and Evelyn Keyes.

Why the screen writers are so obsessed with gamblers who steal loot that's probably theirs from crooked partners is something that must lie in the sunny atmosphere of southern California.

This time they've constructed a story, full of holes, for the always likable Ford, showing him as one of those poor boys who wants to stay above the gutter. He once was a gambler; while he was in service the partner did him dirt; he's stolen a hundred thousand, is about to take off for Yokohoma, but meets a Good Girl.

She is Miss Keyes, wheelhorse of a settlement house run the way script writers always imagine settlement houses to be run—all inspiration and no sense. Evelyn falls for Glenn, wants him to see the light and, finally, after he's been pumped full of a half-dozen bullets, he does.

"MR. SOFT TOUCH." Columbia release produced by Milton Holmes. Screen play by Orin Jannings from a story by Holmes. Directed by Henry Levin and Gordon Douglas. Photographed by Joseph Walker. Music by Heinz Roemheld. At the Warner.

This could have been a good story if the writers had stuck to human beings and not hauled in the stock characters. They push their plot laboriously along and not even Ford's genial nature can make you forget you're watching one more shell game with the thugs moviedom finds so fascinating.

PETER LAWFORD — in the flesh, girls—will be along for a whole week on the Capitol stage beginning November 3 . . . This British-born lad who's become the joy of our sweet young things soon will be seen in "The Red Danube," latest of his long line of Metro starring roles . . . The screen attraction during Pete's week will be another M-G-M special, "The Midnight Kiss," starring Kathryn Grayson and newcomer Mario Lanza.

DAMON RUNYON week begins today at the Hippodrome, with two of the short story master's human comedies, "Butch Minds the Baby" and "Tight Shoes" . . . Pairing the masters is becoming a habit—at the Little you have two Marx Brothers' hits; at the Dupont two Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur draymas.

Timing Hurts Mt. Vernon's 'The Rivals'

THE Mount Vernon Players have opened up their 1949-50 season with Sheridan's eighteenth century comedy of manners, "The Rivals."

Briefly, the story concerns a romantic young thing who attempts to foil her domineering aunt by having a whirlwind romance with Captain Absolute. Discovering that the captain of her clandestine dreams is the same chosen by her aunt, Mrs. Malaprop, she nearly rejects him before the end of the play, at which time everyone is properly united and lives, so they say, happily.

The play, primarily carried by the excellent acting of Seigert Bran and Dorothy Ohliger, suffers by heavy handling on the part of many in the cast. Bram, playing the forlorn lover Faulkland, veers radically from the interpretation Sheridan intended, but what he turns out is polished and sure. Dorothy Ohliger, as the saucy maid, adds a nice touch of spirit and enthusiasm which otherwise was often lacking or entirely overdone throughout the performance reviewed.

Epilogue Helpful

Struggling with the usual number of disadvantages which generally beset a small group, the Mount Vernon Players make up in enthusiasm what they lack in polish.

The small stage was adequately and unobtrusively decorated with simple flat sets designed by Michael Curry.

Timing seemed to be one of the primary difficulties of this performance. The first act got off to a flying start, but the action slowed down by the middle of the second. Some of Sheridan's lines were overemphasized, which may account for the slowing down. Don Pimm, director of the group this year, uses a few novel tricks for effect, but unfortunately sticks to the Restoration habit of having the third person eavesdropping in full view of the audience. The epilogue is handled with ease, and gives the play a final lift which did not seem to be likely by the end of the second act.

"The Rivals" will continue at the Mount Vernon Playhouse, 900 Massachusetts ave., until November 5.

The New Slacks
specially designed to wear without a belt or suspenders

Sir: If you are a man who gets around a lot and is always keeping that torso of yours moving—or if you are the relaxing type of fellow who likes to sit around in an easy chair—then you will want to have a look at these new "Sleex" slacks, with special designing that lets you wear them without a belt or suspenders—which means slacks that permit and promote plenty of hip and waist room . . . lots of room to stretch in, unfettered—Yes, slacks that let you be oh-so-comfortable and still look smooth and unrumpled. Tailored of 100% wool gabardine in gray, forest green, navy, brown or tan. Sizes 29 to 40.

Rubberized inner waistband keeps slacks snugly against body. Eliminates necessity of belt. Prevents shirt from "hiking up." Gives you more than a full inch of extra stretch whenever you need it.

Horizontal hip zippers—which operate with magical fingertip ease—"let out" or "take in" the waistline of your slacks, enabling you to adjust your trousers instantly to conform to the shape and size of your existing waistline, thus assuring perfect fit and trimness at all times.

Probe Ends; Chiefs Told to Make Peace

lest cold war spending bring on infiltration and ceonomic disaster. Members of the committee gave him a standing ovation as he finished.

Johnson's statement, while moderate in tone and lacking in personal references to his critics, gave no concessions to their case.

"National defense should not end and will not be run in the interests either of professional seamen, professional airmen, or professional soldiers," he told the committee. "It should and will be run solely in the interests of the American people and for the furtherance of world peace."

The "stresses and strains" upon the national economy today, Johnson went on, "make it impossible for any service to get all that it wants, whether in dollars, in manpower strength, or in material."

"It should be borne in mind," he continued, "That the 1950 budget—and the 1951 budget as well—is based on an overall plan for the defense of this nation—a plan evolved by the best military minds in this or any other country—a plan which was evolved and subscribed to by all the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and General Eisenhower."

The big, bald-pated Secretary was in an affable mood as he read his lengthy statement.

"The war plans which the Joint Chiefs of Staff have unanimously evolved bear only the slightest resemblance to the erroneous picture that was painted by some of your witnesses," he said.

"A strawman was built for you by those who would have you believe that we expect to win a war by push-button tactics and atomic blitz."

Johnson did not get into the argument over the vulnerability of the B-36. He urged that judgment be withheld until tests are made by the weapons system evaluation group.

But he admitted that the case made for the big bomber may be as open to attack as that made against it. The arguments, "both pro and con," Johnson declared, "are based on such an oversimplication of the problems of bombing and bomber interception that it is probably true that there is no single statement made by either side which cannot be questioned."

The Secretary denied Admiral Denfeld's charge that the Navy had not been admitted into "full partnership" at the Pentagon. He recited a list of the Navy men holding Department of Defense posts and declared the Navy has, "if anything, more than its share of key positions."

Then he took a veiled sock at the admirals by stating that their complaint seems to be a "comment on the quality, rather than the quantity, of its representatives."

But he hastened to add that he personally thought they were "extremely able—a grand lot."

Taking up Denfeld's accusation that he had ordered construction of the Navy's 65,000-ton aircraft carrier canceled without hearing their case for it, Johnson declared the matter had been thoroughly considered.

Denfeld said a mimeographed press release announcing the action had been issued last April 23 40 minutes after Johnson had received a Joint Chiefs of Staff paper giving the arguments for and against the carrier. Johnson said he had discussed the question daily with all of the chiefs and President Truman for a week before this and had received preliminary drafts of their arguments.

"Nothing that has happened since April 23 has caused me to feel that I was in error in the action which I took," he added.

Vinson, who backed Johnson's cancellation of the big carrier at the time, said he still did so.

Johnson charged that while the Navy attack had centered on other matters, "the continuous overtone has been an attack on the theory and the administration of the unification law."

He declared that any attempt to make economies in the military services inevitably invites "loud cries of anguish." He repeated assurances that his economy program would be saving at the rate of a billion dollars a year in fiscal 1951 and at the rate of 1½ billions within 18 months.

As for the much-criticized 1950 budget cutbacks, which reduce the Navy 9 percent, the Army 8 percent and the Air Force 3½ percent, Johnson insisted they are tentative.

Navy chiefs, including Secretary Francis Matthews, said the $353,000,000 slash in the Navy was ordered without consulting them as to its effect and testified it would cripple national security. Johnson said a hearing of the Navy's case—and of the other two services—had been ordered.

Revelation of these planned cuts in the 1950 budget last week—at a time when the funds were still before Congress—prompted Vinson to accuse Johnson of "grandstanding." He said the Secretary wanted to take credit for savings instead of suggesting that Congress trim the appropriation bill before passing it.

"I do not take offense at that," said Johnson, smiling broadly at Vinson. "You can call it what you will, but we will continue to try to make savings where we can."

The Defense Secretary told the committee that both the Army and Air Force have kicked about not getting enough money, but made them through Pentagon channels. He said he'd been criticized for opposing a 48-group Air Force instead of a 58-group force such as just voted by Congress.

Questioned by Vinson, Johnson said he didn't know whether or not the President would spend the money voted for the larger Air Force or not.

Beyond confirming that a defense spending ceiling of 13 billion dollars has been set for 1951, Johnson did not comment on the Navy statements that heavy cuts in the fleet and naval aviation—disproportionate to those planned for the Army and Air Force—are in view.

Likewise, he passed up comment on some other of the Navy changes, stating that General Bradley had covered them in his statement Wednesday. He praised Bradley's testimony as "excellent and comprehensive."

Johnson gave the commitee these assurances:

1. "I believe in, and wholeheartedly support, the form of unification provided in the National Security Act. He added that he believed in the roles and missions of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force as set forth therein and in the Key West and Newport agreements."

2. There is "an essential and honorable role" for each of the armed forces under the present strategic concept of national defense. Navy chiefs charged that he contemplates reduction of the Navy and Marine Corps to a point where they can no longer perform their functions.

3. Conceding that "false" rumors of "my alleged views" undoubtedly have caused concern in the Navy, Johnson said he does not "advocate a single chief of staff for the armed forces, a general staff system for all or any of the services, or transfer of the Marine Corps out of the Navy.

The Defense Secretary endorsed a proposal of General Eisenhower that the House and Senate Armed Services Committee be kept advised of strategic plans and budget making plans. He invited them all to come to a meeting to be arranged in January and meanwhile to attend an "orientation conference" for civilian leaders next month.

As the unprecedented defense row probe ended, members generally agreed with Chairman Vinson's view that their report be put off until winter. This will give the public as well as themselves a chance to weigh the issues and come to a mature judgment. It also will give the warring factions a chance to patch up their troubles, they said. Navy men generally took the view that they are satisfied with the way their case was presented and will abide by the people's decision.

Reply Made By Sullivan

about Mr. Sullivan's resignation. No one has ever heard me say an unkind word about him. Mr. Sullivan was not for unification and would not support unification. On March 25 or 26, one or two days before I was sworn in as secretary, he tendered his resignation to the President. He knew it would be accepted as I had told him that there was no room on my team on the civilian side of the Defense establishment for any person who would not support unification."

This, too, met with a strongly worded denial from the former secretary.

"I worked hard for unification while I was the Secretary of the Navy," he said in a statement. "From outward appearances, it would seem that unification made more progress while I was in the Navy Department than it has since I left."

Sullivan's statement went on:

"If, when Secretary Johnson said I was against unification, he meant that I was against abolition of Marine aviation, against the slow death of the Marine Corps and naval aviation through restriction of functions, the laying-up of carriers, and the disproportionate choking-off of funds appropriated to the Navy by the Congress, then Secretary Johnson was correct in saying I was opposed to that kind of unification.

"In my opinion, it seriously jeopardizes the national security."

A-Bombs Away

Navy Plans Air 'Attack' On Carriers

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 21 (AP).—A land-based long-range Navy bomber will make a mock A-bomb attack on a large carrier task force off the New Jersey coast next month, the Navy disclosed today.

Carrier-launched fighters and ships' guns will try to bat down the bomber in an operation that will seek to simulate how the fleet would fare against the real thing.

The land-based bomber—the Neptune type, which holds the record for nonstop, nonrefueled flight—will drop a flare intended to be the big answer to carrier-plane attacks on "enemy" air installations at Quonset, R. I., and Atlantic City.

The fleet that the "bomb" will try to disperse will be made up of more than 100 ships, all of which will take part in full-scale maneuvers in North Atlantic waters off Newfoundland.

The second task fleet will sail from Norfolk, October 31 under command of Vice Admiral D. B. Duncan. Six carriers, including the big Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Midway, 5 cruisers, 16 destroyers and 19 submarines will participate. The force will comprise 42,000 officers and men.

There will be no Air Force members along this time as observers, Duncan said in an interview. He added that this had nothing to do with the interservice squabble going on in Washington now. Last year 25 Air Force members were along on an operation in the South Atlantic in which an A-bomb drop was simulated.

Bonn Rejects West Berlin As 12th State

Bonn, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today banned admitting West Berlin in the West German Federal Republic now, but promised its acceptance "as soon as the international situation permits."

The Allied High Commission, backing his decision, made its stand known indirectly in a statement approving Adenauer's proposals for economic assistance to the city, beset by a deficit and unemployment.

Political sources here said Adenauer, leader of the Christian Democrats, feared admittance of Berlin as a twelfth state would narrow his parliamentary majority dangerously. Berliners voted predominantly Socialist in the last city election.

Adenauer said the Socialist mayor of West Berlin, Ernst Reuter, had promised city legislation would be coordinated with that of the republic to pave the way for the city's admission to the Bonn regime.

Still Inefficient

Regardless of what one may think of the legislation that has come out of the concluded session of Congress, it has proved that Congress is grossly inefficient. A few details will serve to clinch the point. Nearly half of the bills passed at the 1949 session, up to a few weeks ago, were private measures. Congress wastes an enormous amount of time passing private bills in a hit-or-miss fashion, doing injustice to the claimants and robbing itself of the time needed for national and international legislation. Days and even weeks, when the totals are added, were also lost in roll calls. In the Senate a quorum call takes 15 minutes; in the House 45 minutes. Electrical voting equipment such as many State Legislatures use would make it possible for legislators to record their presence or their preference in regard to a bill almost instantaneously.

The session just ended should have proved to the satisfaction of the most obstinate admirer of things as they are the obsolescence of unlimited debate in the Senate. It is absurd to suppose that the results of the session are any better because of the Senate's tolerance for the tyranny of talk. Its persistent slowdowns resulted only in keeping Congress in session long after its members should have been free to renew contacts with their constituents and to undertake constructive thinking outside of the high-tension atmosphere of Washington. The Senate needs desperately to require that its debate be germane to the measure under discussion, as in the House, and to limit debate as soon as windbaggery begins.

Some of the most effective criticism leveled at the present Congress has come from one of its ablest members, Senator Estes Kefauver. Among the contrasts he noted were—> efficient performance by the lower house and many appalling delays in the upper body; a Congress heavily handicapped by nonlegislative chores and serious procedural defects; parties lacking control and discipline; fair and unfair investigations; reforms only 50 percent operative and further drastic changes badly needed.

Senator Kefauver sees the possibility of vast improvement in the performance of Congress through the choosing of committee chairmen by the party leadership instead of by seniority; through strengthening of party responsibility, systematic legislative-executive cooperation, inclusion of all appropriations in one bill and adoption of Senator Myers' legislative budget. As the congressional leaders prepare for another full session in 1950, we hope they will not forget the acute need for further improvement of their own working methods.

The Cost Of It

Every week that the steel strike continues, some 450,000 steelworkers have to forego the 30 million dollars that they would be earning if fully employed. Nearly 400,000 bituminus coal miners are likewise forfeiting a good many millons of dollars each week, although in view of the depressed state of the coal industry a considerable number would no doubt have been idle or working only part time even if John L. Lewis had not ordered them to quit work. Nonstrikers are also being deprived of wages due to layoffs resulting from fuel and steel shortages.

Coal-carrying railroads, for instance, have furloughed about 45,000 employes whose weekly wage loss is estimated to be about three million dollars. And the New York Central has just announced that dwindling coal supplies necessitate the canceling of 89 trains, including some passenger trains. Owing to lack of steel the Ford Motor Co. and the Chrysler Corp. will have to suspend production within a few weeks, thereby idling about 200,000 workers. Numerous other companies have either curtailed operations or will soon be compelled to do so, unless the coal miners and steelworkers soon return to work. Stores, too, in strike-bound areas have suffered sharp declines in sales, and those losses will be felt by manufacturers through cancellations and reduction of orders for goods.

Even if settlements of the coal and steel disputes are reached within the near future the depressing effect of the strikes will be felt for a long time. For most strikers and furloughed workers will reduce their spending in the coming months either to meet payments on debts incurred during the period of idleness or to build up depleted savings. Moreover, any increases in pay, direct or indirect, that may possibly be secured by the striking miners and steelworkers will be much too small to offset the shrinkage in buying demand resulting from strike-caused wage losses.

The mounting evidence of industrial distress indicates that within a few weeks the country's major industries will be prostrate and its transportation system demoralized if the coal and steel strikes continue. The President still hopes that Federal mediators will be able to bring the principals together and effect a settlement of both disputes. However, he cannot afford to wait much longer for his hopes to be realized. For time presses; it is no longer a question of whether a settlement can be achieved eventually without resort to drastic emergency measures, but whether it can be achieved before disaster overtakes us. Unless the President has reasons for optimism that he is withholding from the public, it seems to us that he is playing a highly dangerous kind of waiting game.

After the Blow-Up

It has been said that not until the present generation above a certain rank dies out will there ever be a true unification of the armed services. But neither the national budget nor the national security can wait for such a consummation. At what point the military budget would turn this country into a military state is a matter of guesswork. But two witnesses at the final hearing yesterday know that the borderline is not very far from the present budget. They are Mr. Hoover and General Marshall. Both of them have warned against a sort of stumbling into a war economy. One of General Marshall's last acts as Secretary of State was to restrain the military budgeteers. As for Mr. Hoover, his commission showed the way to get more defense for less money, and the demonstration lay along the route of more unification, not less. It is this thankless task that Secretary Johnson has undertaken, and, if in the process he has trodden on many toes, most of the trouble has been inevitable in the circumstances. The way of the economizer is hard when vested interests have been allowed to develop and separatism to harden.

Mr. Vinson would reverse the present procedure under which the President cuts the military slice of the budget pie for congressional consideration. He would have the services put a price tag on the military achievement of high policy as set out by the Security Council. One can imagine the height of the budget if this practice were followed! It would probably involve a return in practice to a three-budget system. One of the best features of the recent Unification Act was the enactment of the one-budget system for the national defense. The wisdom of this reform has been apparent from the Navy testimony before the Vinson Committee. The Navy wants to be allowed to develop what it considers to be its own weapons without interference. This independence would be ruinous fiscally, and would, furthermore, pervert the very basis of unification.

And the crux of the Bradley testimony was that the Navy has never accepted the spirit of unification. This is the feeling which, in our view, will be the public reaction after reading all the heated words that have been uttered. There may, to be sure, be some reservation as to the wisdom of the harsh comments of General Bradley. But it must be borne in mind that he has suffered a lot of provocation. A man who is trying honestly to carry out the mandate of Congress would be less than human if he were not riled by the obstructionist tactics and the intrigue in the Navy. Nor does his difficulties come only from the Navy. This week he was the victim of a gross distortion of executive testimony before another committee of Congress for political purposes.

Perhaps the President will be forced to take a hand in the healing process that must now be undertaken. This is something apart from a reassessment of military strategy and the test of the weapons under question which are necessary in spite of the Bradley testimony. The President, however, knows the worth of General Bradley. So do the American people. They know it so well that he will be the first to be indulged for blowing his top. The task remains, in General Eisenhower's above-the-battle counsel: make unification work. And, as is shown by the human conflicts that have developed, this means first and foremost that cross-education—on which Mr. Vinson and Secretary Johnson agreed in the final exchange—must be expedited.

Trade Stimulus

The World Bank announces that loans totaling five million dollars have been granted to Finland and Yugoslavia to assist them in developing their timber resources. Negotiations for a similar loan to Czechoslovakia are also under way, and Austria has expressed a wish to obtain a loan for the same purpose. The loans, which are to be used to finance the purchase of timber-producing equipment, are expected to increase returns from timber production and exports by several times the amounts of the sums advanced. The borrowers undertake to export specified quantities of timber at reasonable prices, and will enter into agreements with European importing countries that pledge the latter to pay dollars for a part of their timber purchases—enough, in short to insure repayment of the Bank loans which run for only two years. Yugoslavia intends to make such agreements with the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, France and Italy; Finland, with Belgium, Denmark and the United Kingdom.

Loans of this kind are the sort of sound, productive investment that the Bank was created to provide. Though small, they will provide the recipients with the dollars needed to develop their own timber resources and supplement the deficiencies of western European countries. At present, the Bank explains, European importing countries are forced to restrict their timber consumption to about half prewar levels, though their need of timber for reconstruction has increased. They have had to rely heavily on imports from North America for these inadequate supplies at a heavy cost in dollars. Through increases in the production and export of timber from eastern Europe, dollars will be saved, since the price of timber shipped from the Western Hemisphere is much higher than the prices that would produce profits for European exporters. Thus the loan will not only provide the aided countries with funds for expanding their productive resources but will also reduce Europe's dollar deficit by helping to stimulate a revival of trade between eastern and western Europe.

These two loans provide a heartening example of the potential multiple benefits to be derived from small capital investments in productive machinery, provided they are carefully selected. Shortages of equipment and obsolescence of sawmill machinery have been major factors in reducing the timber output of European exporting countries. The need for more and better equipment has also been increased by the depletion of the more accessible forests during the war years and the consequent necessity of opening up remoter areas. With the five million dollars of equipment bought with the World Bank loans, it is estimated that the annual increase in the amount of timber exported by Yugoslavia and Finland alone would, if imported from the United States and Canada, cost about 25 million dollars. And those increases are, of course, expected to continue long after the Bank loans have been repaid.

Leopold's Story

Leopold III, King of the Belgians now living in exile in Switzerland, has at last come forward with his own version of the events which led to his momentous surrender of his forces to the Nazis in May, 1940, for which he was so bitterly denounced at the time by Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Reynaud. Their story, which was generally accepted by the American press, was that Leopold's surrender, after he had invoked and received the assistance of the French and British armies in the defense of his country, had come without warning, and was therefore responsible for the collapse of the whole campaign, making possible the raid advance of the Germans to the coast.

Leopold's account is almost directly opposite to this construction. He says he was forced to surrender by the British decision to abandon the Continent to the Germans. On the night of May 25, Lord Gort, the commander of the British Expeditionary Force, had, without any warning to the Belgian command, begun his momentous retreat to Dunkirk. The Belgian flank was thus wholly exposed to the advancing Germans. Nevertheless, the Belgians continued this hopeless fight for three days longer. Then, according to Leopold, it became obvious that—> continuation of the struggle could lead only to chaos and massacre of the soldiers and refugees trapped in a small space under the terrible bombing of the enemy air force carried on without opposition.

Now Leopold's version seems fully supported by the documents left by the late Lord Keyes, Admiral of the Fleet, who was chief British liaison officer to King Leopold. Lord Keyes said that he had drawn up a dispatch to Mr. Churchill pleading that the order for the retreat and evacuation be withdrawn; but Gort, according to Keyes, had forbidden him to append a note saying that the British commander had seen and approved the dispatch. Meanwhile, Leopold had been advised by his ministers that the situation of the Belgian army was hopeless and was urged to flee the country. Lord Keyes said that a dispatch from Mr. Churchill instructing him to offer the same advice to the King was sent from London on May 27, but was not delivered to him until after his return to England.

Leopold, according to Lord Keyes, refused to leave his army. He asked instead for a British counterattack that would enable him to hold his line at Lys. Lord Gort, it appears, would not agree, urging Leopold to fall back. On the day after receiving this message, according to Lord Keyes, Leopold used his last reserves in an attempt to block a German effort to drive across the Yser. By this move, Lord Keyes said, the Belgians delayed the further advance of the Germans just long enough to permit the British to win the race to the beaches.

If the accounts given by Leopold and Lord Keyes are correct, they place the French and British statesmen and commanders in an altogether ignoble light as having attempted to cover up their own military blunders at the expense of Leopold's reputation.

YOU IN THE INDIAN SUMMER

I see you standing in the thin grass
Already winnowed by the first wind of autumn.
Summer lies like a jewel in your hand,
The sky pours over you, wide and pitiless,
Filled with the color of the slow days.
You do not smile. You do not speak.
You pass your hand over the grass
As the wind does.

Under you the earth already knows
The slow withdrawing of the sun-tide,
The stilling of the down-thrusting root.
But you hold fiercely to summer
As to a conjuring word and a symbol.
You wear over the delicate bones
The armor of flesh brown from the sun.
Swings in a slowing arc here in this hour
When the wind comes like a blue river flowing
Over the mellow curve of the world.

"Civil Defense"

I have before me your editorial of October 8, "Civil Defense." I hope you are right about not seeing "the need for actual passage, for congressional action in emergency could be obtained automatically." That has not been our experience before. Just remember the faltering step after faltering step taken in World War II even after the terrific experiences of World War I and all the lives lost by that process.

"Parity Politics"

Would you be so kind as to correct a typographical error which occurred in our article of October 17, "Parity Politics?"

It should have read: "But many first-rate economists think farm supports, in some form, are a good idea. Their argument is that if wages and the price of basic commodities are stabilized there is less likelihood of economic collapse."

By leaving out the word "less," the printer inadvertently reversed the sense of the paragraph.

Army-Navy Strength

The present Army-Navy controversy over strategy reminds me of the same problem confronted by the Japanese before Pearl Harbor. Their high command couldn't agree, for the army wanted to move westward into China, while the navy wanted to move eastward toward Hawaii. Had the army granted three divisions at the Pearl Harbor strike, the war would have lasted much longer with Hawaii in Jap control.

The fact remains that Russia is basically a land power, secondarily an undersea (sub) power; whereas the United States is equally a land and sea power. The tenets of our defense and survival rests on a first line Navy and Army. If we want to fight the war within the U.S.A. then we should scrap our Navy. If we want to fight the war elsewhere we had better have two strong units and I mean the Army and Navy.

"China Kitty"

I feel obliged to comment upon your October 2 editorial, "China Kitty." Nobody wants United States money sent to Chiang. But every Chinese patriot who loves freedom and independence is not a Chiang man.

People in the northwest region of China never get one penny from the United States. Chiang never allocated a single rifle to the local army of northwest China. The tragedy is that while they stand up to resist the Communists, this country treats them as Chiang's followers and withholds moral and material aid from them. The General Mas are not the ones to whom the northwest people are pledged. But there are leaders there who are the only hope of the liberals.

Why does this country keep its hands in its pockets? It is because Chiang still controls and tries to control the rest of China. There is no way he can do it except by holding the gold of the government reserves. And this is the lifeline of non-Communist China.

If this country has made up its mind to check communism, why not extend help to those people who follow Chiang only because of the money he holds? Some might say that this would stimulate the Reds' antiforeignism. However, I am sure this country cannot make friends with the Chinese Communists so long as it cannot get along with Russia, regardless of whether aid is given the Chinese people.

There is no reason for the collapse of northwest China except that the United States held back its help at the most critical time.

"Front Line Of Defense"

I was appalled when I read General Bradley's statement that Washington would be the first target of a Russian atomic attack and was delighted to read your October 18 editorial denouncing the method used by an irresponsible Senator in violating the hearings in executive session.

The following are members of the Senate Appropriations Committee—McKellar, Tenn., Chairman; Hayden, Ariz.; Thomas, Okla.; Russell, Ga.; MacCarran, Nev.; O'Mahoney, Wyo.; Chavez, N. Mex.; Maybank, S. C.; Ellender, La.; Hill, Ala.; Kilgore, W. Va.; McClellan, Ark.; Robertson, Va.; Bridges, N. H.; Gurney, S. Dak.; Reed, Kan.; Ferguson, Mich.; Wherry, Nebr., Cordon, Oreg.; Saltonstall, Mass.; Young, N. Dak.

Might the publishing of this list at least draw attention to the Senator who was responsible and enable him to be called to account?

Adoption Article

This is to let you know how much we appreciate the article in your October 16 issue on adoptions written by Miss Dorothea Andrews. We believe it most useful for the reading public to have presented to it such an accurate statement on a matter as important as adoptions. The article was informationally correct, presenting facts which are the result of experience and best practice.

Thank you very much for sponsoring this kind of writing.

"K. K. Kawakami"

You are to be commended for your eulogy on the Japanese journalist, K. K. Kawakami (October 17). However, I think it only fair to point out that you make an implication that may have been misleading. You say of Mr. Kawakami that "he retained his Japanese nationality." The implication is that he did so by his own choice. Under United States naturalization laws now in effect—and in effect throughout Mr. Kawakami's residence in this country—he was unable to become a citizen. Native Japanese have never been allowed United States citizenship.

Rule Of Authority

In your issue of October 15 there appears a letter by Albert D. Rust of Mount Rainier, under the heading of "Constitution Distorted."

Mr. Rust uses the words "his rulers" in referring to the activities of Congress.

We have indeed come a long way when the sovereign citizen accepts the position of designating those in authority as "our rulers." Before the advent of the "New Deal," those on the public payroll, whether elected or whether appointed, were regarded as "public servants." However, during the past 15 years they have surreptiously assumed the role of "public officials" issuing "rules" directing the activities of the entire populace.

Potato Change

Many years ago a citizen of Baltimore erected a monument to the Irish potato, which, he said, had done the world more good than most of those so honored. Possibly he was right; but the potato has changed since then. Now we tax ourselves and pay high prices to enrich farmers who in return give us the worst potatoes I have found anywhere in a lifetime. They are soggy and ill-savored. Is this the work of our agronomists?

"Battle For Bread"

Four Chinese gentlemen have written to The Washington Post (October 16) taking some exception to a motion picture, "Battle For Bread." This film, sponsored by the United Nations Film Board, shows some of the work of the Food and Agriculture Organization in China and elsewhere. Your correspondents believe that the film claims credit for FAO for work done by others, and supports a "discredited neo-Malthusian doctrine."

Of course there was no intention to claim such credit, or to support such a doctrine, as perhaps further careful review of the film would convince Messrs. Ling, Peng, Li and Cheng.

The film commentary states that the work shown has been carried on by China with certain assistance from FAO technicians. In addition to its own work, FAO inherited certain residual funds from UNRRA for continuance of UNRRA's rural programs. While some projects pictured were begun under UNRRA, the film scenes were made in 1948, considerably after the transfer.

Certainly the film does not intend to (and we believe does not) imply that FAO first introduced Leghorn chickens into China. Improved strains for crossbreeding were introduced, however, and a project begun to control Newcastle's disease of poultry. FAO does not claim to have first introduced vaccine for rinderpest (a costly disease of bovines), though we did assist China in setting up a large control project using an improved strain of vaccine. FAO did not, of course, first bring tractors to China. But FAO inherited a project under which UNRRA had shipped many machines to China, still undistributed at the time of the transfer.

On the other hand, through other media we have rather proudly heralded the fact that ancient and agriculturally skilled China is providing the rest of the world through FAO's mechanism with improved strains of certain crops, such as bell peppers, apricots and muskmelons; and with valuable techniques, such as fish culture and soil preparation.

Finally, FAO—far from holding to neo-Malthusianism — has consistently urged that the world's increasing population can be better fed through a long future if certain constructive steps are taken. These include development of new agricultural and ocean areas, optimum conservation of resources, improvement of production and the protection of the product from waste, freer flow of world trade, and the application of nutritional knowledge.

It is action along these lines that FAO was created to foster. Action must be national perhaps even more than international, for FAO is after all a cooperative self-help organization of 58 sovereign governments, in which the accomplishments and contributions of China, under most difficult conditions, are well appreciated.

Hubbub Forces Mobilize

By Malvina Lindsay

Mr. Clack Returns

"THE EARPLUG business is growing by leaps and bounds," gleefully announced Mr. Jitters McDervish Clack, promotion director of the National Non-Thinkers League, on his arrival here yesterday. Mr. Clack further reported din and dither on the upgrade everywhere, noises getting louder and screechier, hubbub winning its race against technology's gift of leisure.

Mr. Clack is here to testify next week on behalf of what he calls "Operation Jukebox" — radio broadcasting in buses and streetcars. "Our league has gained a beachhead and we're not going to surrender it," he shouted above the clangor and buzz of his portable video set, his walkie-talkie, and interplanetary aerial. "What's more," he added "we're going to see that people get snappier band music in their public conveyances so passengers can jitterbug in the aisles. And what about some big give-away programs? That would surely pack 'em in!"

"But they're already packed," protested a reporter.

"So what! People love being jammed together. Look how they flock to crowded places. It gets their minds off things."

"What things?" he was asked.

"Things that are none of their business." Mr. Clack paused to utter a loud command to his cigaret holder. A glow appeared at the end of his cigaret. "It lights by sound wave," he explained. "Soon we'll get all our work done by uttering commands to our utensils. Think of the noise that will make!" He rubbed his hands as he smirked happily.

A REPORTER started to ask another question but was drowned out by a low-flying airplane, the rumble of a passing truck, and the clatter from a steel framework for a large building.

"Fine!" exclaimed Mr. Clack. "Washington is right up front with its noises. All these new buildings should keep things humming—I mean rattling—for some time. And the trucks! Say boy, are they coming in with the heavy brass! Just try to spend the night in a hotel on the main street of a small town—in fact, any town.

"By the way," he continued, "we're going to get motor horns higher pitched soon. Do you know what noise is best guaranteed to drive any and all ideas out of the mind? It's the screech. Our research department found that out. I tell you we're going places!"

"What places?" asked an editorial writer.

Ignoring the question Mr. Clack turned his video to a wrestling match and simultaneously put in a call on his walkie-talkie for the United Nations and sent out a code message on his aerial. "I always try to do at least three things at once," he said. "It prevents concentration."

"I'm contacting my agent at the U. N.," he explained, "about Operation Coma. We've got to stop this subversive scheme to have the delegates spend a minute in prayer or meditation at the start of sessions. Good heavens, it's dangerous enough for them to think, let alone meditate."

AS HE talked, Mr. Clack changed his video program from wrestlers to bathing beauties. "I never miss a thing that's going on," he said. "Wait till we get these on streetcars, buses, taxis, stores, churches, theaters, in automobiles. Nobody will have to miss a thing."

"But won't it be dangerous in motor cars, at least for pedestrians?" asked a questioner.

"The pedestrian has no place in modern life," was the tart reply.

"Mr. Clack," megaphoned a questioner, "aren't you increasing the chances of war by keeping people wrought up and excited? Do you carry your zeal for bedlam so far you actually want war?"

"Never!" declaimed Mr. Clack. "I only want to keep people from being bored with their increasing leisure. I also believe thinking makes them nervous, unhappy, gives them notions. Also, I am convinced the average person loves noise—otherwise he would not accept so sheepishly today's growing tumult.

"I am the last man in the world to want war—at this time," Mr. Clack continued earnestly. "Say, do you know there are only two million homes with television sets? If war can be held off, say until 1954, when we have 18 million sets or more, I'll be able to put over a really big deal. I call it Operation Gore. It's to televise the next war—so nobody can miss it."

Navy Neuroses

The spectacle of admirals of the most powerful Navy in existence nailing the crying towel to the masthead is as unseemly as it will prove to be unjustified.

Even such an apologist as Hanson Baldwin finds "Navy a Freudian study," although he rejoices that due to this wailing wall barrage "the sense of frustration has to a great extent disappeared, if only temporarily."

To many the most striking feature of the testimony was not its emotionalism, but its incredible inconsistency. Depreciating the atom bomb, then insisting that we must build supercarriers to employ it effectively, and finally asserting that it is an immoral weapon anyway (unless dropped by naval planes presumably), produced a most unfortunate impression.

Next time the Navy needs defrustrating, some means must certainly be found to prevent getting it off their sea chests in public, to make a Russian holiday.

United Finland

By Marquis Childs

National Unity And Strength

HELSINGFORS, FINLAND.—For a decade now, with one interruption, American newspaper correspondents have been flying into Finland for a quick look at the little country on the doorstep of Russia. Their attitude has varied with the changing winds of world conflict.

Childs

Ten years ago, during the winter war, the Finns were brave heroes resisting in the blood-stained snow the brutal Russian aggressors. Then in the period when the Finns became allies of Germany against a common foe, they were Fascists or, at best, Nazi fellow travelers.

Once again they are heroes, this time heroes of the Cold War. The Americans come now determined to find the smoke of battle and to see the Finns in the role of martyred victims of the East-West feud. One consequence has been a great deal of exaggerated writing about "Life Behind the Iron Curtain" in Finland.

The error may have its origin in that unfortunate phrase—Iron Curtain—itself. One thing the curtain does protect and that is a great American ignorance about the complexities and varieties of life on the other side of the East-West boundary. It is much easier to fall back on a catch phrase.

THIS APPLIES with special force to Finland. First and foremost, Finland is not behind any curtain. Second, the Finns during the past 10 years have been just what they have been for a very long time.

That is to say they are hardy, courageous people with an unflagging belief in their right to independence. With tenacity and skill they have defended that right for more than a century against the threatening and often real hostility of the Russian colossus.

They are doing that today. It is because visiting Americans ignore this background, in their determination to put the Finns in the framework of the Cold War, that they do a disservice to Finland.

They see the Finnish people as a miraculous little Daniel in a den of Russian lions. In order to get into the act, they feel they must prod the lions and make them roar. Doubtful Daniel does not altogether appreciate this attention.

Actually, the Finnish achievement is much greater than this naive attitude implies. It is the achievement of national unity and national strength in the face of overwhelming obstacles and dangers and in spite of real political and economic differences among the Finns themselves. A prime example was the way in which the government—and most of the people—stood up against the Communist-inspired strikes in the wood industry last summer.

"I would guess that when a Finn says "we believe," he comes closer to expressing what almost all Finns believe than can be said of any other nationality. The exact opposite is Czechoslovakia with the divisions and weaknesses that made the Communist seizure of power possible.

What is notable today is the recovery that has come about through unity and heroic national effort. The Russians levied 300 million dollars in reparations and this, mind you, in a country of four million people. The sum was later reduced to $226,500,000. It has all been paid off, except for about 25 million dollars, in goods sent to Russia.

THE EVIDENCE of healthy, vital reconstruction can be seen everywhere. Since the end of the war, a children's hospital and clinic have been built here that for modernity and clean, bright attractiveness would put most American hospitals to shame.

A large new school is going up in the center of Helsingfors that would be the envy of any American city. In the lower schools, which are free, there are only 24 pupils on the average to a teacher and in the high schools, most of which are free, 18 pupils for each teacher.

Here in the capital, two theaters and an opera subsidized by the government are so popular it is almost impossible to get tickets.

I know this account should be full of tales of cold-war encounters between sinister Russians and brave Finns. But that happens to be almost entirely nonsense.

The Finns as a strong and independent people have achieved a sovereign and independent relationship with the Soviet Union. The wounds of the war, and particularly the loss of vital territory to Russia, go deep, but the Finns have not spent their time mourning or complaining. Anyone who tries to break down this relationship is, in my opinion, doing a great disservice to a proud and worthy people who have suffered much. And this goes double for meddlesome Americans who are carrying on their own childish version of the cold war in northern Europe.

Convicted Commies Off to Prison...

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

AFTER SENTENCING—American Communist leaders, sentenced and fined yesterday in New York, leave Federal court in a prison van. They are (from left) Henry Winston (hidden), Jacob Stachel, Carl Winter, Robert Thompson, Irving Potash, Benjamin J. Davis, jr., Eugene Dennis, Gilbert Green, John Williamson and Gus Hall. They were convicted of criminal conspiracy to teach the overthrow of the United States Government by force. John Gates, editor of the Daily Worker, is also in the van, but does not show years, Judge Medina took into consideration his war record. He won the Distinguished Service Cross as an Army sergeant in the Pacific. Thompson, 34, is the party's New York State chairman.

11 Reds Given Prison Terms

All but Williamson, Potash and Stachel are native-born Americans. Williamson is believed to have come from Scotland. Potash and Stachel are Russian-born, but grew up in this country.

About 1000 pro-Communist demonstrators massed shoulder-to-shoulder outside the sealed-off Federal building. They chanted and cheered for a time. Later, they grew strangely silent.

But the crowd chanted "We want bail—we want bail" as the 11 defendants were led from the courtroom at 2:19 p. m. and taken to dentention cells. They will be transferred to Federal prison later.

Long before the scheduled opening of court at 10:30 a. m., more than 100 policemen stood tense guard inside the packed courtroom and outside in equally jammed Foley Square.

All doors to the lofty Federal building were locked except the main entrance. Through this walked the manacled and handcuffed defendants on their way to hear Judge Medina pronounce their fate.

The 11 Communists, the elite of the party in America, took their sentences with a smile. Two of them waved to friends in the court.

Before sentencing them, Judge Medina turned down motions for reversal of the verdict and a new trial. A trial judge seldom grants such motions, leaving them for decision by an appeals court.

Throughout a historic, 39-week trial, even the defense worked on the theory the men were liable to 10 years in prison.

However, the 9-year-old Federal Smith Act was amended a year ago and the maximum prison terms cut to five years. The act makes it a crime to conspire to advocate revolution.

Dennis, responding on the court's invitation, did most of the talking for the defendants during the last moments before sentencing.

He had heard United States Attorney McGohey call him one of the world's ranking Communists.

"We face the future with supreme confidence," Dennis told Judge Medina. "We 11 Communists have been falsely adjudged guilty of a crime. We are not guilty of any crime, least of all the allegation that we conspired to teach and advocate the overthrow of the Government by force and violence."

He went on to charge that "the men of Wall Street and their puppets" should be the ones before the bar of justice.

Dennis said he and his comrades would continue to champion communism "and we will flourish and grow . . ."

"I and my co-defendants calmly look to the sentence of the court," he concluded, his words hanging an instant in the crowded, nervous silence of the compact courtroom.

"The defendants have been accorded every right the law allows," said McGohey, who has been nominated for the Federal bench since the trial ended.

The five defense attorneys had little to say in court. They are due to begin jail sentences varying from 30 days to six months on November 15. Judge Medina found them guilty of contempt after the trial ended.

A new attorney, O. John Rogge, former Assistant United States Attorney General, appeared in behalf of Davis. He did most of the talking.

Rogge called the Smith Act unconstitutional, as the defendants had throughout the trial that began last January 17.

He called the trial, itself, "part of the tragedy being enacted in this country," and said it now is becoming a crime to "say what is in our hearts and to say what we want to say."

"If the Smith Act is a good law," added Rogge, "then we are destroying the freedom which made us strong."

Defense Attorney Abraham J. Isserman joined Rogge in pleading for bail for the defendants. He said a serious doubt existed "as to the guilt of these defendants."

"If I had any doubt, I would allow bail," said the 61-year-old Judge Medina, as he made notes on a pad before him, "but I can't see any doubt."

The defendants were convicted of recreating the Communist Party in the United States in 1945 in a conspiracy to advocate violent revolution.

The party was disbanded briefly during the war. But the Government said it came back to life on orders from Moscow.

The indictments were returned in July, 1948.

Their conviction left the Communist Party of an estimated 70,000 members virtually leaderless for the moment.

United States Attorney General Howard McGrath has said the verdict has not outlawed the Communist Party in this country.

The national chairman, William Z. Foster, was indicted with the others. But he was not tried because of ill health, which has forced him into the background in party leadership.

Urey Says Reds Could Wipe Out U. S. A-Lead

A-bomb, he added, has been more rapid than in this country because of our "idiotic" security restrictions.

Urey's two-year time schedule for Russian superiority in the atomic weapons field immediately provoked the question: How does he know?

Urey's article did not say. The AEC, which otherwise declined to comment, said Urey was not privy to the intelligence reports that led to the disclosure Russia had achieved an atomic explosion.

The only argument Urey adduced was that it appears that Russians had learned to make bombs in two years, have constructed substantial plants for this purpose and nothing prevents them from building as many more as they wish.

Without making any prediction of a date, other writers in the October Bulletin presented a somewhat similar line of reasoning about the Russian potential

Frederick Seitz, physics professor at the University of Illinois, wrote it was evident that Russia, while certainly not possessing as vast an industry as the United States, had "representative segments of industrial knowledge and equipment."

If these are being devoted to the problem of the bomb, and they evidently are, "there is no reason why their rate of progress cannot parallel or surpass our own" provided they have access to enough raw materials, Seitz said.

"This is not a minor probability, but is actually a strong possibility," he concluded.

Eugene Rabinowitch, editor of the Bulletin, pointed out that the Russians must have built a plant comparable to Hanford or Oak Ridge to produce enough material for even one bomb.

Therefore, he said, there is no reason to believe that the Russian plants have not been built on the same scale as ours, "and we have equally little reason to believe that these facilities are not being expanded and multiplied at a rate equal to, or exceeding, that of our rate of growth after 1945."

All three writers discounted the notion that the Russians have conducted only "pilot plant" operations while the United States is "mass-producing" atomic bombs. On the one hand, they said, a "pilot plant" cannot produce enough materials for a bomb; on the other, the nature of the bomb does not permit mass production.

Another writer in the Bulletin, however, drew different conclusions. He was Bernard Brodie, Yale professor and well-known author on military and atomic subjects.

He said the Russian accomplishment did not look so spectacular since they had accomplished in four years after August, 1945, what the United States did in 2½ years after the end of 1942.

"The probability is that we have a commanding lead and that we can retain it indefinitely if we made the effort," Brodie wrote.

The AEC declined to make any comment on the statements of Urey and the others. In private conversations, however, some top AEC officials agreed it was logical to suppose that Russia entered into the business of making fissionable material — the explosive, or atomic fuel, for the bomb — on a large scale.

This did not necessarily mean it now had a stockpile of bombs. But, having exploded one successfully, it could amass more over a relatively short period of time.

As for the AEC falling behind Russia because of hampering security rules or any other reasons, AEC spokesmen referred inquirers to last week's report by the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Commission.

That document, quoting the evidence of many witnesses who testified at hearings, concluded that the AEC had made great progress in the last three years in increasing production of fissionable materials, building a stockpile of bombs and perfecting vastly improved weapons.

Although AEC officials would not go all the way with Urey in his complaints against present security regulations, it is clear many sympathize with his general intent.

AEC Chairman David E. Lilienthal last week himself pleaded that we should "stop this senseless business of choking ourselves by some of the extremes of secrecy to which we have been driven, extremes of secrecy that impede our own technical progress and our own defense."

Train Proves Too Big For British Tunnel

Tonbridge, England, Oct. 21 (AP).—A train puffed up to a tunnel here and came to a sudden halt—its cars were too big to go through.

Taxis and buses took passengers on to the next station.

A spokesman for British Railways said it was a relief train made up in a hurry and the crew hadn't realized the cars would be too big.

Czechs Jail U. S. Clerk, Expel Aide

Prague, Oct. 21 (AP).—Czechoslovakia jailed a U. S. Embassy clerk today and demanded the immediate recall of Embassy Attache Isaac Patch on charges that they were running a spy ring "directed against the security" of this Communist-led nation.

Patch told newsmen the "charges are absolutely baseless." Other officials described them as "entirely without foundation."

The arrested American is Samuel Meryn, a clerk in the office of the embassy's military attache.

The Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry said in a sharply-worded note it had indisputable proof of the charges, based on confessions of Czech members of the alleged ring, all under arrest.

In all, the Foreign Ministry named five employes of the embassy, three of them now on assignment outside Czechoslovakia, as the brains behind the purported group.

The note said the ring was organized in March, 1948, one month after the Communists took over the government.

Revenge Believed Motive

Informed Western sources speculated the motive behind the Czech action was revenge for United States support of Yugoslavia for a seat on the United Nations Security Council sought by Czechoslovakia. Yufioslavia defeated Czechoslovakia in the voting Thursday 39 to 19. The official Czech reaction was that the outcome represented an engineered "American provocation."

(Washington officials indicated there might be a counter expulsion. They recalled that two Romanian diplomats were ordered out of the United States when Romania expelled Embassy Counselor Henry P. Leverich and Military Attache Col. John Lovell from Bucharest on similar charges.

Patch, 37-year-old career diplomat of Gloucester, Mass., was ordered to leave the country within 24 hours. James K. Penfield, American charge d'affaires, said the Czechs refused an official request that he be granted more time.

Besides espionage, the government accused the Americans of forming a "terroristic organization" to help "traitors and reactionaries" flee the country.

37 Czechs Tried In Treason

It named Miss Louise Schaffner, Lancaster, Pa., former Third Secretary of the embassy who is now assigned to Palermo, Sicily; Walter Birge of St. Louis, Mo., former Second Secretary, and Spencer Taggart, a former employe of the embassy, as other ringleaders.

Meanwhile it was reported 37 Czechs are being tried for treason at the Pankrac political prison, on the outskirts of Prague. It could not be determined whether the defendants were connected with the purported spy ring.

The government said the Americans supplied Czechs with radio sets for sending information to the United States—that Meryn had personally delivered four in his own motor car last autumn.

"Those transmitters were of American make and of the most perfect type," it said.

The whole ring was declared to have worked with "the Council of Free Czechoslovakia," which has headquarters in London.

Priests Told To Refuse Pay Raises

Prague, Oct. 21 (AP).—Czechoslovakia's 7000 Roman Catholic priests were told by their bishops today it would be a "gross violation of brotherly love" to take government-proffered pay raises at a time when the nation's people are suffering.

Church sources said the orders were issued after a secret meeting of the bishops or their delegates in Prague last week, three days before the Commdnist-ruled Parliament unanimously passed laws, effective November 1, putting all churches under state control.

The bishops maintained that the laws are aimed at liquidating the Roman Catholic Church and that no priest could approve them and remain loyal to the church.

One law offers higher government wages to priests, making them virtual civil servants, and requires an oath of allegiance to the government. The other places church affairs under control of a new cabinet ministry.

"Do not forget," the bishops' orders read, "that hundreds of your brother priests are in prisons and work camps (some for opposing state control measures). It would be a gross violation of brotherly love to accept the material advantages at a time when many of your brothers are suffering."

"Do not forget," it was added, "that every day many poor people are beating on your doors—people who, in spite of all the progress of socialism, suffer immensely and cannot protect their bare existence. By accepting the privileges (offered in the church control laws) . . . you would bring upon yourself the contempt and hate of those who wanted to have in you a brilliant example and draw from you moral support and inspiration."

Scotland Goes Modern In Criminal Penalties

London, Oct. 21 (AP).—Modern times have caught up with justice in Scotland.

The Commons yesterday approved in principle a bill to abolish such penalties as being drawn and quartered and sentenced to hard labor with crank and treadmill.

The Labor Government's aim is to clear away obsolete penalties in criminal law. By separate legislation, similar action is being taken for England and Wales.

Human Rights Being Violated

New York, Oct. 21 (AP).—The United States charged today that new despotism is sweeping over Czechoslovakia and human rights are being violated systematically in Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania.

This was the first reference in current full-dress debate of the United Nations Assembly to the growing purge in Czechoslovakia and that Communist-run country's continuing battle with the Catholic Church.

Benjamin V. Cohen, United States delegate, assailed the human rights policies of the Soviet satellite countries. He told the Assembly the world was shocked last spring by the trials of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary and of 14 Protestant clergymen in Bulgaria.

Cohen declared violations of human rights in Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary are the result of the world-wide efforts by the Soviet Union to use the world Communist movement as an instrument for "carrying out by force and stealth its own imperialistic objectives."

He spoke in support of a resolution approved by the Special Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly. This proposal asked the International Court of Justice for a ruling as to whether the peace treaties with the former enemy countries provide for settling human rights violations and whether these countries are obligated to carry out the provisions of the treaty.

Cohen also asked how could the Assembly put faith in new Soviet proposals for peace treaties when the Russians, as he expressed it, refuse to abide by treaties they have signed.

"We are opposed," he said, "to the facade theory of treaties under which states render lip service to important principles and then instead of accepting safeguards for the observance of these principles devise easy means of escape and evasion."

In another blast at the Soviet Union, the United States called on the U. N. Assembly to extend the life of the Korean Commission and give it watchdog powers to observe any military activity in Korea.

The Assembly approved this proposal, 48 to 6 (Soviet bloc plus Yugoslavia) and voted down a Soviet proposal to kill the Korean Commission. The vote against the Russians was 42 to 6.

Yugoslavia joined the Russians in voting against the Korean Commission because, Yugoslav Delegate Josip Djerdja told the Assembly, his government is against any interference is the internal affairs of any country. This was viewed as another Yugoslav slap at the Cominform bloc dominated by Moscow.

All Souls' Church Marks Anniversary

Members of All Souls' Church (Unitarian), 16th and Harvard sts. nw., will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of their present building with three events Sunday.

At 11 a. m. Dr. A. Powell Davies, pastor of the church for the past six years, will preach on "Whose Faith Is Our Heritage."

More than 100 persons who were present for the dedication 25 years ago and are still active members of the church will be honored at an anniversary tea from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m.

At 8 p. m. there will be an anniversary assembly at which Dr. George D. Stoddard, president of the American Unitarian Association, and Dr. Walter W. Robbins, president of Meadville Theological Seminary, Chicago, will speak.

Dr. Stoddard, who is also president of the University of Illinois, recently returned from Paris where he attended sessions of the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization.

Organized in November, 1821 as First Unitarian Church, the church had among the signers of its constitution John Quincy Adams, later sixth President of the United States, John C. Calhoun and Charles Bulfinch, architect of the Capitol.

A year later the first church, designed by Bulfinch, was built at 6th and D sts. nw. During the Civil War the building was used as a hospital and church services were held in the Senate Chamber.

A second building was erected at 14th and L sts. nw., in 1878, in spite of the objections of some members that the location was too remote.

Pastor to Turn Ground for New Church

Ground for the new $190,000 Riverdale Presbyterian Church will be broken at ceremonies at noon Sunday at the site of the new church, Queens Chapel rd. and Wells pkwy., Riverdale, Md.

The congregation will be dismissed from the 11 a. m. service early in order to be at the site in time for the ground-breaking.

First shovels of soil will be turned by the pastor, the Rev. W. Keith Gustis; Dr. Joseph S. Caldwell, chairman of the building committee, and John P. Williams, president of the board of trustees.

The new building will contain a sanctuary seating 500, offices and study, and church schoolrooms for four departments.

The present church building on Rittenhouse st. in Riverdale will continue to be used for some church school work, and a shuttle bus will be operated between the two buildings, a distance of about ¾ mile. Eventually, a church school unit will be constructed near the new church.

Organized in 1896 with 8 members, the church today was a membership of 750. The present building was erected in 1897 and an addition completed in 1912. Mr. Custis, who has been pastor of the church since 1928, said the congregation hopes to complete the new church by next fall.

Presbyterians In Fairlington Seek $85,000

Two-year-old Fairlington Presbyterian Church wil launch a drive to erect an $85,000 church building at a meeting Tuesday a 7:30 p. m. in Fairlington Methodist Church.

Plans of the Building Finance Committee call for raising of $35,000 by the congregation within one week folowing the meeting. The remaining $50,000 will be raised through loans and the denomination.

Organized two years ago with 45 members, the church now has a membership of over 200. Its weekly services, led by the Rev. Charles C. Cowsert, former Army chaplain who has been the only pastor of the church, are held in the Centre Theater in Alexandria.

The new church will be erected on a three-acre tract at Shirley hwy. and Leesburg pike. Plans call for a colonial brick building with a sanctuary seating 520, an educational building to serve 500, and social and administrative facilities.

The educational unit, including the tower and steeple, will be erected first. It wil include a fellowship hall, kitchen, church school class rooms and church offices.

The congregation hopes to break ground for the new building in February and complete construction during the summer.

N. B. Etheridge Southern Presbyterian elder from Norfolk, Va., will speak at the meeting launching the fund drive.

Lectures, Films To Be Featured at Bible Conference

Lectures and movies will be features of the annual "Bible Conference on Prophecy and the Jews" at Fourth Presbyterian Church, 13th and Fairmont sts. nw., Wednesday through Sunday.

At the opening meeting Wednesday at 7:45 p. m. the Rev. Sanford Mills, field evangelist of the American Board of Missions to the Jews, Inc., will show movies of Palestine.

Elias den Arend, a Christian Jew from Holland, will speak on his experiences in the Dutch underground on Thursday at 7:45 p. m.

Speaker at sessions at 7:45 p. m. Friday and 3 p. m. Sunday will be the Rev. J. Hoffman Cohn, general secretary of the American Board of Missions to the Jews.

In Silver Spring

Dr. Weigle To Preach On Sunday

The Rev. Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at Christ Congregational Church, 9525 Colesville rd., Silver Spring, Md.

Dr. Weigle

Dr. Weigle, who retired in June after 21 years as dean of the divinity school, is chairman of the Revision Committee for the Standard Version of the Bible.

The son of a Lutheran minister, Dr. Weigle is a graduate of Gettysburg College and Seminary, and received his Ph.D. from Yale. He held a Lutheran pastorate in Bridgeport, Conn., after his ordination in 1903, and from 1905 until 1916 was professor of philosophy at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

He became a member of the Yale faculty in 1916 and that same year became a Congregation minister. In 1928 he became dean of the Divinity School.

As part of the service at Christ Church, Dr. Weigle will baptize his granddaughter, Constance Day Weigle. The little girl is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard D. Weigle, members of the church. Dr. Richard Weigle was recently named president of St. John's College, Annapolis.

800 Churches Will Provide U. N. Services

Special services and prayers will be offered Sunday for the United Nations in some 800 churches of all denominations in Greater Washington.

The services are part of Washington's observance of United Nations Week, which ends Monday, the fourth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations.

The Rev. Richard Williams will deliver the sermon at a United Nations service at 11 a. m. at the Washington Cathedral. Services will be conducted at Foundry Methodist Church by the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor, and Chaplain of the Senate. Similar services will be solemnized in Protestant and Catholic Churches and Jewish synagogues throughout the area.

Participation of all churches was arranged by Canon George J. Cleveland, Dr. E. Frederick Reissig, Rabbi Isador Breslau and the Rev. Thomas B. Dade.

Revivals End Sunday

A seven-week series of revivals conducted by the Rev. W. S. Barham of Texas will be concluded Sunday at Bethel Pentecostal Tabernacle, 230 12th st. nw. Dr. Barham will preach on "We Are Well Able" at 11 a. m. and "When Mercy's Door is Forever Closed" at 7:30 p. m.

Chevy Chase Church Drive Is Surveyed

Volunteer solicitors in the drive for a new sanctuary for Chevy Chase Methodist Church met last night in the parish hall to discuss last minute details in the campaign for $30,000.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of Foundry Methodist Church and United States Senate chaplain, was the speaker, at the dinner.

Goal of the drive, which is being conducted under the leadership of George E. Harris, general chairman, and the Rev. Dr. Clifford Homer Richmond, the pastor, is a new, enlarged sanctuary by 1951.

Plans call for a modified Gothic structure seating 600 persons. Construction is slated to begin in the fall of 1950 or spring of 1951.

The present sanctuary at Connecticut ave. and Shepherd st. was erected in 1935, and is now unable to serve adequately the church membership of over 700. Two Sunday morning services have been necessary for several years, and overflow crowds sometimes have heard the second service by a public address system in the parish hall.

Increased facilities for the church were provided last spring with the completion of a parish hall, which is used for Sunday school and church organizations.

Presbyterians Plan to Honor Moderator

Washington Presbyterians will be host to the Rev. Dr. Clifford Barbour, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. at a service and reception Sunday.

Dr. Barbour

Dr. Barbour, holder of the highest honorary office in the denominati o n, will preach at 8 p. m. at the National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave., and N sts. nw. Following the service, the church and the Presbytery of Washington City will honor the moderator at a reception.

With the service here, Dr. Barbour will begin the tour of Presbyterian churches in the country made each year by the moderator of the denomination.

Also participating in the service will be the Rev. Dr. Halley B. Taylor, pastor of Fifteenth Street Presbyterian Church and moderator of the Synod of Baltimore; Ruling Elder James Sherier, moderator of the Presbytery of Washington City, and the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Church.

Dr. Barbour, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Western Theological Seminary and the University of Edinburg, Scotland, has been pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., for the past 21 years.

Dr. Barbour will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, 1862 Kalorama rd. nw.

St. Luke's Conducting Attendance Program

Eight teams from St. Luke's Methodist Church, Wisconsin ave. and 35th st. nw., are conducting a "See You In Church Sunday" campaign as part of the Methodist Church's program of advance for this year.

At 8:30 and 11 a. m. Sunday the Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Justice, pastor of the church, wil preach on "The Two-fold Function of Religion."

Catholics to Honor Foreign Missions

Roman Catholic missionaries will be honored Sunday when Catholics throughout the world celebrate Mission Sunday.

Largest observance of the day here will be at St. Matthew's Cathedral, 1727 Rhode Island ave. nw., where the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will preside at a mission rally and vesper service at 4 p. m.

The Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, dean of the school of philosophy at Catholic University, will preach at the service.

During the rally, students and teachers who did outstanding work for the missions' cause in the last year will receive the Paladin Medal.

More than 40 priests, many of whom have served in the foreign mission field, will give sermons at churches in the archdiocese. At the services, they will stress the work of the missions in making converts and in relieving material suffering, and will ask for prayers, sacrifices and alms.

In his annual mission Sunday message, Archbishop O'Boyle pointed out that in spite of the difficulties faced by missionaries today, "there are servants of God at their posts in nearly 600 organized mission territories to minister to the 25 million souls placed in their charge."

He reminded clergy and laymen of the archdiocese that "our missions are now in dire need of vocations, spiritual assistance and financial help," and urged them to remember the missions in their prayers and be "as generous as possible" in their financial contributions.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Augustana Lutheran Church, New Hampshire ave. and V st. nw., will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the dedication of its building Sunday.

Dr. Hjelm

At 9:30 and 11 a. m. the Rev. Thorsten Gustafson, presiding bishop, will speak on "Built on a Rock." At the anniversary supper at 6:30 p. m., the Rev. Dr. Arthur O. Hjelm, former pastor, will speak and the original choir will sing. The Rev. Clarence T. Nelson is the present pastor of the church.

Each member of Eldbrooke Methodist Church, River rd. at Wisconsin ave. nw., has been invited to bring a guest to the 11 a. m. service, which is a part of the congregation's observance of Loyalty Month. The Rev. Allan Poore, pastor of the church 40 years ago, will be the preacher.

Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw., will mark United Nations Sunday at 11 a. m. when flags of the nations are displayed in the front of the church. The Rev. Dr. Alfred Wesley Hurst, the pastor, will preach on "Blessed Are the Peacemakers."

Church school teachers from the 90 parishes in the diocese of Washington will attend a service of dedication at 4 p. m. in the Washington Cathedral. The Rev. G. Gardiner Monks, Cathedral canon, will be the preacher.

Dr. David S. Muzzey, American historian, will speak on "Ethics in Daily Living" before the Washington Ethical Society at 11:15 a. m. in the American Veterans Committee Club House, 1751 New Hampshire ave. nw.

The Rev. Philip Gordon Scott, pastor of Westmoreland Congregational Church, will preach at a fourteenth anniversary service of the Chinese Community Church, 1011 L st. nw., at 3 p. m.

A series of four classes in church membership will begin at 6:45 p. m. for members of Congress Heights Baptist Church, Esther and Brothers pls. se. They will be taught by the Rev. A. Lincoln Smith, pastor of the church.

Dr. Frederick Schar, conference superintendent of Evangelical United Brethren Churches in Switzerland and France, will preach at 11 a. m. at Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, 1700 North Capitol st., to mark the beginning of United Nations Week.

Dedication of a new church school room at Memorial Methodist Church, Hyattsville, Md., has been set for 10:45 a. m. The Rev. Dr. Chauncey C. Day, pastor of the church, will officiate at the ceremonies. The room was the gift of a friend and a member of the church.

Catholic U. Professor To Begin Radio Series

The Rev. Edmond D. Benard, professor at the Catholic University since 1943, will begin a series of broadcasts on the psychology of faith on the Catholic Hour over station WRC at 6 p. m. Sunday. The program is sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Men.

McKendree Dedication Set Tomorrow

Dedication of McKendree Methodist Church, South Dakota and Rhode Island aves. ne., at 11 a. m. Sunday will mark the church's freedom from a $75,000 debt.

According to the Methodist Discipline, a church may not be dedicated until it is debt free. Members of the church saw the mortgage burned at a banquet marking the tenth anniversary of the erection of the present church last week.

To Preach at Service

Bishop Charles Wesley Flint, Methodist Bishop of the Washington area, will preach at the dedication service.

In commenting on the debt-free status of the church, the Rev. Dr. Horace E. Cromer, pastor of the church since 1947, declared that it was "simply phenomenal" that the church had been able to pay off its debt "without special drives, but through tithing and consistent giving."

Began In Shop

The church had its beginnings in a carpenter shop on 8th st. near Mount Vernon pl. nw., where a Sunday school was organized in 1844. A year later 63 members were received from Foundry and Wesley Stations (now Foundry and Wesley Methodist Churches) and the congregation was formally organized.

The same year, a church building was erected at 919-921 Massachusetts ave. nw., and in 1872 the structure was razed and a new church constructed on the same site.

Ground for the present church was broken in 1938, and at that time the McKendree Church merged with Langdon Methodist Church, which was then at 24th and Evarts sts. ne.

'Heart of Texas' Stops the Show

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

ELEANOR DAKIN, a New York model, wears on a belt of rhodium-finished silver a diamond medallion which stopped the show of the Nationwide exhibit of diamond fashions in the Big City. Called "The Heart of Texas," the medallion has an 85-carat honey-colored stone once owned by the Russian imperial family. It shows a mounted Texas ranger with lariat, composed of more than 300 diamond brilliants. Miss Dakin also wears a marquise diamond necklace, two diamond bracelets and diamond earrings, to say nothing of a daring dress

Grand Champion Steer Brings $1.50 a Pound

Kansas City, Oct. 21 (AP).—The grand champion steer of the American Royal Livestock Show brought $1.50 a pound when sold at auction today.

Owner of the top steer in the show was Bob McKinley, 19-year-old Future Farmer of America from Dale, Okla. The total price paid by Eddie Williams of Kansas City for the 1190-pound Hereford steer was $1785.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Buddy Ryman, who escaped from the State penitentiary, came back after only one night of "freedom." He celebrated his escape by getting drunk and spent the night in the city jail.

Chinese Red Mission Here? News to State

By the United Press

The State Department has denied any knowledge of a Chinese Communist mission which Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) says is operating in the United States, it was revealed yesterday.

Knowland raised the subject at a closed meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee October 12. Undersecretary of State James E. Webb attended the meeting to urge action on the $1,314,000,000 military aid money bill, since passed. A record of the meeting was made available yesterday.

Knowland told Webb he had "reliable" information that seven representatives of the Chinese Communist government entered the United States, by way of Hawaii, on or about August 25.

He said some were operating around the United Nations headquarters in New York, and the rest in Washington. He asked Webb whether the State Department had approved issuance of passports or visas as to the group.

Webb, in a letter sent to the committee later, after a check of the department's records, said:

"This department has no knowledge of the issuance of a visa to a known Chinese Communist."

He offered to investigate further if the names of the alleged Communist agents were furnished to him.

Committee records disclosed that Webb was questioned closely about the Administration's plans for using—or not using—the 75-million-dollar discretionary fund for military aid to Chinese Nationalists, which President Truman was authorized to spend if he sees fit.

Webb refused to be pinned down, saying only that the money will be used if conditions arise under which the funds would be useful in advancing United States policy.

Mayer to Quit Today Unless Socialists Join

Paris, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Radical Socialist Premier Rene Mayer tonight told France's Socialists they must decide by Saturday noon whether to join his government. If they don't, he will resign.

Mayer said no other Radical Socialist would accept the premiership. This would rule out Henri Queuille, viewed by some Socialists as a "last-hope" candidate. Queuille's government fell October 5 after a reign of more than a year.

The Socialists were in and out of caucus all day long, but failed to give an answer to Mayer, who had hoped to form his cabinet by tonight.

Last night the Socialists were split on whether to support Mayer when he asks the National Assembly for a vote of confidence.

Too Many Speeches

Nehru Came To See, Not Talk to U. S.

Boston, Oct. 21 (AP).—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru dropped today what sounded much like a hint to his American hosts that he wishes he could see more and talk less on his good-will tour.

And that people would quit calling him "Your Excellency" and being too blamed formal.

Nehru has been plied with expensive foods, lionized and called on for statesmanlike speeches and well-turned phrases since he arrived in this country 10 days ago.

He has hobnobbed with statesmen, financiers, industrialists, high society and the intelligentsia. He hasn't had much contact with common everyday people.

And today he spoke out.

"I didn't come here as an excellency, the Prime Minister," Nehru told the girls of Wellesley College in a speech from the steps of the college chapel. "I feel embarrassed by that," he added.

Miss Margaret Clapp, the college president, had just introduced him to the 1700 boisterously enthusiastic girls as "His Excellency, the Prime Minister." She murmured "I apologize," and joined him in a laugh.

"Since I've come here 10 days ago, I've been made to speak four times a day at public and semi-public meetings," Nehru continued, and added that he doesn't care much for speechmaking.

He swung then into a kidding tone, and recalled that two of his nieces are Wellesley graduates. He wound up the speech, told his bodyguards to scram, and had a huge good time strolling about the campus with a queue of chattering students. The students gave their class yells.

Montgomery Boys To Tour FBI Monday

The fourth tour through the Federal Bureau of Investigation building for Montgomery County Safety Patrol boys will take place Monday.

About 200 patrol boys are being escorted on each tour by Sergt. C. O. Seek, safety patrol coordinator for the county police force. The tours were arranged by the police department and Board of Education. The fifth and last tour will take place Tuesday.

Kweilin's Fall Expected Soon In Hongkong

Hongkong, Oct. 21 (AP).—Independent Chinese press reports tonight indicated Kweilin would fall in a matter of days, despite Nationalist announcement that the Red drive against that South China headquarters had been checked.

Kweilin, 250 miles by air northwest of Communist-held Canton, is the base of Gen. Pai Chung-hsi's 200,000-man army, the strongest remaining Nationalist force.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry in Chungking asserted the Red attack had been blunted on the outskirts of Lingling, 110 miles northeast of Kweilin. It also reported a successful counter-attack near Chihkiang, 150 miles north of Kweilin.

Hongkong press reports indicated the Communists were within 70 miles of Kweilin and moving down the railway toward the city.

Official Nationalist reports from Chungking said the Reds also were preparing for a thrust at that provisional capital. They said the Red Nineteenth Army group of 100,000 men was on the move 325 miles north of Chungking.

Noronic Inquiry Adjourned to Nov. 17

Toronto, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Federal Supereme Court Justice R. L. Kellock today adjourned until November 7 the inquiry into the fire aboard the excursion steamer Noronic which burned at its Toronto pier September 17, killing at least 140 persons.

Kellock said he would hand down at that time his judgment on the cause of the fire and whether anyone was to blame for the great loss of life. Hearings have been under way for 17 days.

Coal-Short Roads Cut

any collective bargaining in the United States."

The 400,000 striking United Mine Workers want contract improvements, John L. says, will cost about 30 to 35 cents a ton. Lewis insists the coal operators absorb the extra cost. Negotiations are still listlessly in progress with the Southern coal producers. Breakdown of the talks at White Sulphur Springs probably will bring about a second mediation session here, perhaps as early as next week.

Seventh Firm Agrees

The CIO Steelworkers, who called out half a million men from the Nation's basic steel plants to win noncontributory pensions and social insurance, yesterday ended their strike against the Cooperweld Steel Co., Glassport, Pa., employing some 1100 employes.

The company agreed to pay the 6 cents an hour per worker urged by the President's steel fact-finding board, and 3 cents more an hour than the 4 cents recommended by the board for social insurance. The formula covers also the company's plant at Warren, Ohio.

Thus far, seven steel companies have accepted the principle of noncontributory welfare benefits. The struck companies are willing to pay up to 10 cents an hour for pensions and insurance but want the employes also to contribute.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the fourth largest steelmakers, yesterday ordered a temporary 20 to 50 percent cut in the salaries of employes still on the job.

The Ohio CIO Council, meeting in Columbus, yesterday asked President Truman to take over the basic steel industry.

Court Order Bars Leftists From Union Treasury

Cleveland, Oct. 21 (AP)—Leftist officers in Ohio's CIO United Electrical Workers have been barred by court order from taking money out of the $50,000 district treasury.

Judge Joseph A. Artl handed out the common please ruling yesterday after a group of recently elected rightwing officers charged the group's leftwing leaders aimed to "dissipate" the treasury balance.

Their petition claimed the defendants figured on using large sums from the treasury to help defend 11 top Communist leaders convicted in New York last week.

The court order also bans leftwingers from "calling, holding attending or arranging any meetings."

A hearing on whether the order will be made permanent will be held here October 26.

Capital Store Sales Decline For 4th Week

By S. Oliver Goodman

The downward trend in Washington department store sales continued for the fourth consecutive week, the most prolonged decline so far this year.

Dollar volume for the week ended October 15 dropped 9 percent under the same 1948 week, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. For the four weeks ended October 15, local sales were reported 7 percent under the corresponding period last year.

Regionally, the Fifth Federal Reserve District showed an 11 percent slump in sales for the latest week while nationally the drop was 13 percent.

Merchants here were inclined to look optimistically on the future sales trend. Two factors were pointed out.

One is the more than four million dollars added to local purchasing power this month with the disbursement of some 18,000 checks to District Government employes for retroactive pay increases. Actual pay increase of $330 annually was voted for District workers last summer and made retroactive to July, 1948. Employes have been receiving the boost since last July 1, but Congress voted funds for the retroactive pay only recently.

Another factor is the coming refund on insurance premiums for approximately 146,000 war veterans in the Washington area. The Veterans Administration has estimated that the average payment nationally would be about $175. That would mean, if all 146,000 veterans are eligible here, that some 25 million dollars would be added to purchasing power. Although the actual stream of refunds is not expected to start until the coming January, many veterans are anticipating the windfall and spending from savings and other sources.

HONOR: Miss Lena A. Smith of Brentwood, Md., will be inducted into the Quarter Century Club of Standard Brands, Inc., at the company's annual dinner Thursday night at the Mayflower. Samuel G. Tribble of Washington also will be honored for 25 years' service. Both will be presented with an engraved watch and a certificate.

Miss Smith

Chairman of the dinner arrangements is S. G. Weber, manager of the Langdon yeast plant, where Tribble and Miss Smith are employed. Many other Standard Brands employes in this area are charter members of the Quarter Century Club, with service ranging to 43 years.

BONUS: A bonus of one month's salary to all officers and employes of the Second National Bank has been authorized by the board of directors for the tenth consecutive year, President John A. Reilly announced yesterday. In addition, the bank awarded U. S. Savings Bonds in sums ranging from $25 to $100 to 34 employes whose service amounts to more than 10 years. Among the 34 are 8 who have served for more than a quarter century. They are: Victor B. Deyber, board chairman; Joseph R. Fitzpatrick, vice president and cashier; Stuart S. Ogilvie, vice president; Gerald E. Keene, assistant vice president; Frank Miles, assistant cashier; Miss Elizabeth M. Kintz, Mrs. Margaret Seyboth and Herbert P. Souder.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: William H. Press, executive secretary of the Washington Board of Trade, has been elected vice president of the American Chamber of Commerce Executives, an organization of more than 2000 members. William H. Book of Indianapolis was elected president of the group . . . George A. Hatzes, general agent for the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Washington, recently was given a tenth anniversary dinner by his colleagues at the Hotel 2400. E. A. Roberts, president of the company, commended Hatzes for being the firm's leading producer . . . Lloyd L. Brooks is the new regional sales supervisor of the construction equipment division of the Worthington Pump & Machinery Corp., with headquarters in Washington.

75,000 See Navy Play Favored Penn Today

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—Penn is posted as a three-point favorite over Navy tomorrow, with the only clear certainty being that the game will attract the East's largest crowd of the season thus far.

More than 75,000 fans are expected to jam Franklin Field with Penn risking its undefeated record against a Navy team that is hungering for its first victory over the Quakers since 1945.

In Annapolis today where Coach George Sauer whipped his Midshipmen through their final workout, he summed up Navy's chances with, "We'll have to play our best ball game to make it tough for Penn."

Princeton Only Yarkstick

The Middies will not leave their Annapolis base until tomorrow morning, arriving only two hours before the game. They will be accompanied to Philadelphia by the two top classes of the Midshipmen regiment.

Against the only common foe the two teams have played this season, Navy shows a 28-7 victory over Princeton, which Penn barely nosed out, 14-13. But last Saturday while the Middies were taking a 46-13 beating from Wisconsin, Penn romped over Columbia, 27-7.

Penn pounced on Columbia's mistakes consistently, a fact to alarm Sauer who saw his own heavily sophmoric team make frequent mistakes against Wisconsin. Columbia stopped Penn's inside attack, but was the victim of long passes, a lengthy interception and a 46-yard punt return by the fleet Bob Deuber.

Navy's Powers Sidelined

Coach George Munger of Penn, one of the few top coaches to hew to the single wing attack, is expected to turn the speedy Deuber loose at the Navy ends at the first sign of any stubbornness in the Navy line.

Navy will be without the services of its No. 1 right halfback, Billy Powers, who aggravated his ankle injury against Wisconsin, and won't suit up for tomorrow's game. He will be replaced by little Duff Arnold and Art Sundry.

As usual, Navy's chief hopes will be pinned to the passing arm of Bob Zastrow, sophomore quarterback, whose chief targets are the good Navy ends. Wisconsin slowed Zastrow last week, by rushing him remorselessly, but Sauer has been working diligently for better protection from the Penn forwards.

Probable line-ups:

Navy		Penn
Andresen	L.E.	Roberts
Tetreault	L.T.	Detore
Ridderhof	L.G.	Lemonick
Bryson	Center	Hassler
Harvey	R.G.	Schweder

87-Yard Pass Play Beats Coolidge

By West McLean
Post Reporter

Central's Vikings playing without the services of their star halfback, Jimmy Pantos, edged stubborn Coolidge team, 7-0, yesterday at Central stadium on an 87-yard pass play from Jimmy Sullivan to Terry Gregory, Pantos' replacement, midway of the final quarter.

Central had a touchdown called back in the first half for an offside penalty. Jerry Murphy had intercepted a Colt pass from Arnie Tranen on the Colts' 37 and returned it for the score.

Line play dominated the game with the Central line holding the Colts to a net gain of only 16 yards rushing and 11 yards passing. Central gained 106 yards rushing and 153 through the air.

The passing duel between Arnie Tranen of Coolidge and Central's Jimmy Sullivan was marred as Tranen had four pass intercepted and Sullivan three.

Miami Overtakes Georgia In 3d Period for 13-9 Upset

Miami, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP).—The University of Miami Hurricanes struck for two quick tochdowns and then staved off a desperate rally to upset the University of Georgia in the Orange Bowl tonight, 13 to 9.

A rain drenched crowd of 37,138 saw the underdog Hurricanes come from behind to score twice in the third period and hang up their third victory in four starts this season.

The Hurricanes put up a pass defense that baffled Georgia's Ray Prosperi and the Miami forward wall smashed such ball carriers as Billy Mixon, Lukie Brunson and Jack McHugh.

Georgia scored first midway the second period when Billy Chandler blocked Andy Novak's kick deep in Miami territory. Novak fell on the ball for a safety in the end zone and Georgia led, 2-0.

After the half, Miami started rolling. When Georgia failed to gain the Hurricanes took over on their own 25. Bob Campbell and Clive Shrader picked up 12 in two tries and then Campbell wheeled around left end for 20 to the Georgia 47.

Jack Hackett, Miami's 155-pound quarterback from McKeesport, Pa., sent a long, looping pass to the Georgia 10 where Mike Vacchio snagged it, stumbled, regained his footing on the muddy field and went over for the score. Watson's try for point was blocked

The Hurricanes scored again less than a minute later. Jack Brasington intercepted Prosperi's pass on the Georgia 38 and followed a wall of interference to the nine. Campbell went over on the next play and Watson added the point to give Miami a 13-2 margin.

The final quarter began with Floyd Reid taking Prosperi's long pass on the Miami eight. The Georgia fullback went on to score. Bob Watson kicked the point and Miami led, 13-9.

Young Felton Whips Gavilan

Detroit, Oct. 21 (AP).—Young Lester Felton, a comparative newcomer from Detroit, turned in an upset 10-round decision over Kid Gavilan of Cuba tonight before 13,187 fans at Olympia.

Gavilan is currently the No. 1 contender for Sugar Ray Robinson's welterweight title.

The 20-year-old Felton, who used to be one of Gavilan's sparring partners, won his scrap by simply outrunning the harder-running Gavilan and landing more punches while doing it. It was the first major fight for Felton, a Negro.

Anacostia Drops Into Tie for Lead

By Don Lief

Wilson's Leo Speros and Lee Brinson combined their talents yesterday to sock favored Anacostia, 40-6, before a capacity crowd of 3000 at Wilson.

The loss dropped Anacostia into a tie with Eastern for first place in the interhigh Southern Division.

Speros passed for three first-half touchdowns, ran and blocked well to set up two more; Brinson went on a scoring spree with four touchdowns for the afternoon.

Wilson scored in every period; the first touchdown was a 56-yard pass play, Speros to Brinson. Dick Sebastian made the first of his four conversions.

Anacostia's Bob Chatlin fumbled the kickoff after the touchdown and Chris King recovered for the Tigers on the Indian 28, but Wilson's attack fizzled on the nine.

A touchdown pass, Speros to Don Scott was nullified by a penalty at the start of the second period, so Leo chucked to Tom Sandoz, instead, and, with Sebastian's kick, Wilson led 14-0.

Taking the ball on downs on the Anacostia 42, later in the period, Speros threw to Brinson on the 25.

Catholic U. at Johns Hopkins; Gallaudet, Howard Play Here

Three Washington colleges who were beaten last week try to get back on the winning track this afternoon.

Catholic University, a 9-7 loser to Randolph-Macon, goes to Homewood Field in Baltimore for a 2:30 game with Johns Hopkins, defending Mason-Dixon Conference champion.

Gallaudet, a 12-0 victim of Bridgewater, tries its luck in a 2 p. m. home game with Hampden-Sydney. And Howard, drubbed 39-0 by Morgan, entertains J. C. Smith of Charlotte, N. C., at 2 p. m.

C. U. is placing its hopes on the passing of Joe Dunn and the running of Bill Holl and Bill DeYoung to hand Hopkins its second straight loss. The Baltimoreans dropped a 21-7 decision to Penn Military Saturday. They use the T formation compared to the Cardinals' Notre Dame box and T.

Morgan Tiller brings to Gallaudet a Hampden-Sydney club which has a 2-2 record, and one of the best tackles in the small Virginia schools, Walter Bridges.

Hampden-Sydney holds victories over Eastern Carolina Teachers, 27-7, and Apprentice, 33-7. H.-S. lost to Guilford, 19-13, and Emory and Henry, 26-0.

J. C. Smith dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten in its third game, last Saturday, when Delaware State scored a 10-6 win over the Carolinians.

Howard has a 2-2 record, and is banking on its hometown bred passing combination of Charlie Ross to Hillary Thompson to supply the Bisons with win No. 3.

Doak Walker Will Be Radio Fan

Dallas, Oct. 21 (AP). — Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's All-America halfback, won't play tomorrow's SMU-Kentucky game.

Walker, ill with the flu, had hoped to watch the game from the stands, his doctor advised against this today. He will listen to the game over the radio. It will be the first game Walker has missed in his college career.

He was free of fever that sent him to the hospital Tuesday night, but his throat was still sore.

Mrs. Riley's 85 Wins Ladies Golf

Mrs. Harry Riley posted an 85 to win yesterday's Washington Country Club Ladies Day tournament, sponsored by Mrs. Charles Egenroad and Mrs. George Dailey, jr.

The seven best net scores were: Mrs. Franz Rithey, 101-29-72; Mrs. R. L. Brister, 92-18-74; Mrs. W. E. Niles, 108-33-75; Mrs. M. H. Dineen, 85-10-75; Mrs. A. G. Simmonds, 93-14-79; Mrs. D. B. Monsees, 97-18-79; Mrs. Paul Banfort, 98-18-80.

Haesler's 4th-Period Field Goal Wins Game

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21. (AP)—Georgetown's spoiled his first field goal attempt. His second spoiled Boston College, 10-7, before 22,763 largely unhappy Braves field spectators tonight.

With two-and-one-half minutes left, the Burly 20-year-old place-kicking specialist connected with a sure-shot from the B. C. 20-yard line and the Hoyas realized a 19-year-old ammbition.

The game-winning boot, held by little Lou Miller, more than made up for one he missed when he was called on midway in the final period from the BC 28.

Georgetown hadn't beaten the big Eagles in eight tries since 1930 and had to pull another of its patented upsets over a two-touchdown favorite to do it tonight.

The victory was the big one for the Hoyas, the difference between a mediocre season and a surprising one. Freely picked to lose four of their first five games, they've reversed those figures.

It was well earned, too.

Boston College started off with an 89-yard scoring march from the opening kickoff and had a 7-0 lead after only three minutes, 30 seconds.

Fullback Jack Farrell plunged over from the one, but Al (Crazy Legs) Cannava was the chief ground gainer. He took the kickoff from his 11 to his 24 and chewed off gains of 19 and 7 yards.

Cannava, who lived two blocks from Georgetown Coach Bob Margarita in their native Medford, Mass., hardly was the good neighbor when he went 12 yards to the 1 before Boston College let Farrell do the honors. Fullback Ed Petela converted.

Georgetown soon stormed back 81 yards itself to tie the ball game. Quarterback Frank Mattingly, who outpassed Ed Songin, directed the drive and sneaked over from the 1.

Tommy Hardiman, who made two valuable interceptions to run his season's total to eight, started things innocently enough by taking a BC punt on his 19 and making 5.

In three tries, Lou Surman had a first on the 39 and Mattingly pitched to End Bob Noppinger to midfield. Billy Conn, top ball carrier with 79 yards in 11 attempts, took a pass from Mattingly on the B. C. 45 and went to the 27 for a 25-yard gain.

Brainy Mattingly picked that moment to sneak through bewildered B. C. for 12 yards to the 15. Then he passed to Noppinger and the Baltimorean went to the 1 before he was stopped. Mattingly again was a successful sneak; Haesler was a true booter and the game was all tied.

B. C. knocked at the door three times in the second period. Jack Kivus smartly intercepted a Songin pass in the end zone to kill off the first.

Tommy Hardiman somehow got one while lying on his back on his own 30. With two interceptions tonight, his season total is eight, high in the Nation at the moment. Next time the Eagles moved, Joe Diminick, well bottled all night, fumbled and Don Kitkowski recovered on his 35.

After halftime, it was a Georgetown story. Conn, whose ulcer just seems to make him run faster, took the kickoff 42 yards to his 45.

The Hoyas couldn't do any good so Conn again got them started. From his 22, he went to midfield. He slipped through for 13 more and took a Mattingly pass 14 yards to the 23.

Again Georgetown stalled. And again Conn tried to give them the spark. After staving off the Eagles' last threat on their 17 early in the final period, Conn dashed 20 yards. After Surman made 3, Conn went for 10 more.

Mattingly passed to End Dick Losh to the 37 before he called on 10-yard Conn. Billy made it a first on the 27 and Mattingly's pass to Harry Schmitt was good to the 9.

B. C. held and Haesler missed that field goal attempt from the 28. It was far short and to the left.

Center Bob Keller gave him the all important second try when he intercepted a Songin pass on the B. C. 42 and went to the 30.

Haesler redeemed himself and made this Georgetown team, unbeaten in three starts away.

Court Bars Skins' Use Of Williams

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

The Washington Redskins were thrown for a short loss, or at least no gain, yesterday when the Richmond Rebels were granted a preliminary injunction against the local gridiron pros in District Court.

Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut granted the request of Harry Seibold, owner of the Richmond club in the American Football League, for restraint of the Redskins' use of Joel Williams, 225-pound center, pending a hearing next Thursday.

The bulky pivotman thus will be unavailable to Washington in its all-important Sunday clash with the champion Eagles in Philadelhia. The Redskins remain two players under the limit of 32.

Williams, a Texas University product who was a regular for the San Francisco 49ers of the All-American Conference last season, was signed by Washington's National Football League representatives Tuesday in what was called an illegal "raid on a minor league club. There were immediate repercussions from Seibold, with whose Rebels Williams had signed a contract for $125 a game.

Although Williams' Redskin contract was for more than $400 a game, Seibold had several complaints about the whole deal. He repeated them before Judge Schweinhaut yesterday, in legal language, and mentioned that Williams' loss had cost him $10,000 in damages.

The Redskins, he said, had paid him nothing for his property rights to Williams; they, meaning Redskin owner, George Marshall, had used a high-handed method in getting Williams to leave the Rebels and join the Redskins. Finally, said Seibold, Marshall had called him a "bush-leaguer" in a telephone conversation.

"My purpose in asking for an injunction," Seibold said yesterday, "is to settle once and for all whether the major leagues of football can steal our property at will, with no payment to us."

Seibold admitted that even a permanent injunction, if issued next Thursday, would help nobody except the minor leagues in the future. He is already "out" a football player, Williams having said he would quit football before he would play with the Rebels again. Williams would be out of a job and the Redskins would be neither helped nor hurt appreciably.

Marshall's attitude was expressed at a brief conference between he and Seibold, in the presence of lawyers, yesterday afternoon. He told the Richmond owner to take Williams back, that the Redskins didn't need him if it caused so much trouble.

But Seibold refused the return of his strayed player and insisted on taking the case to court.

Davis Hurls Touchdown, Sets Up One, Scores One

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

George Washington's Colonials whipped Washington and Lee's Generals, 21-19, last night with three cripples and a bookworm as 13,657 looked on at Griffith Stadium.

There was Andy Davis, who has had two knee operations, and twice been pronounced through with football by his doctors. He just scored one GW touchdown, passed for a sesond and set up the third.

Then there was Frankie Cavallo, who dislocated his shoulder three weeks ago. Frankie ripped off his arm sling three times, ran out on the field, and kicked the three deciding extra points.

There was also Johnny Shullenbarger, whose right heel was removed in a childhood operation. He kicked a rallying W. and L. team back on its heels in the last minute with a spectacular 44-yard punt, which rolled out on the Generals' one-foot line.

DuGoff in Top Form

And last but not least, there was the bookworm, burly Al DuGoff, the straight "A" academic scholarship boy. He just ripped and tore the Generals' line to pieces, gaining 111 yards in 27 tries and scored his eighth touchdown of the season.

It was the work of these four Colonials which offset the fine team handling of Washington and Lee's promising sophomore quarterback Gil Bocetti, and gave GW its second straight Southern Conference victory.

Gaining 244 yards through the air and on the ground, Bocetti passed to one touchdown and set up to the other two for W. & L. In the end, the failure of Walt Michaels to convert after the first two General touchdowns failure for Bocetti.

Two Arlington (Va.) lads sparkled for the Lexington team, Halfback Ray Leister, who scored the game's first touchdown on a 25-yard off-tackle jaunt, and Tackle Rollo Thompson, who threw Dugoff for his only two losses of the evening.

After Leister's scoring run in the first quarter, Davis quickly pitched GW back into a tie. He covered 33 yards on a long pass to Charlie Jones, who was pushed out of bounds by Wes Brown on W & L's two. Dugoff hit the Generals' line twice to score. Cavallo converted and GW led, 7-6.

In the second quarter, Bocetti hit Talbot Trammell for a 17-yard touchdown pass on the end of an 84-yard drive. But Dugoff and Davis got that back on a 72-yard

At Raleigh

Maryland Favored Today Over North Carolina State

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 21.—Maryland crashes North Carolina State's homecoming tomorrow, a two-touchdown favorite to spoil the party for the Wolfpack and 20,000 of their old grads.

Idle since October 8 when they held powerful Michigan State to a 14-7 victory, the Terrapins are not in the best physical trim for their fourth test of the season.

Their defensive stalwarts, Tackle Ray Krouse and Guard Bobby Ward, are ailing. Krouse will play with a special brace protecting a bone break in his right hand and Ward, if he plays at all, will operate with a banged-up knee.

Krouse and Ward were the key men in the defense the Terps threw at Michigan State's powerful single-wing attack and were counted on to do the same against the Wolfpack, who'll also operate from the T-formation.

Marv Kramer and Bob Dean will spell Krouse at defensive tackle with Tom McHugh ready to fill in for the 180-pound Ward, a truly brilliant guard.

If the victoryless Staters crack their four-game losing streak, they'll have to do it in the air and not on the ground. Even with Krouse and Ward not up to snuff, the Terps are potent enough defenseively to stop the running efforts of Ogden Smith, Ed Mooney and Paul Dinan, the Wolfpack's big three.

But when Smith, a deft passer, starts pitching the football around, he could make things too interesting for Split T-Tatum and his Terrapins.

With no passing attack of its own to speak of, Maryland once again will have to depend on the strong blasts of Mighty Mo Modzelewski and the speed of Vern Seibert, Johnny Idzik and Jimmy LaRue to run up the yardage.

Sophomore Halfbacks Buck Early, Bob Shemonski and Lynn Davis have been worked hard for the past 10 days and indications are they'll be turned loose tomorrow as the Terps bid for their third success in four outings.

IN SHORT—Maryland's 110-piece band will be on hand to furnish musical support. Director Spike Secora and his hornblowers leave College Park at 4 a. m. Saturday for the 275-mile journey . . . The Terps haven't beaten State since 1923. The last tussle, two years ago, wound up in a scoreless duel . . . The 44-man squad arrived here this afternoon, flying down from Washington. As per custom, no drill was held today. Two squad meetings were conducted, however . . . The kickoff is set for 2 p. m.

Eastern Wins, 7 to 6, Ties for Division Lead; Tech Romps

Lynn's Kick Beats Out Western

By Harrison Hagemeyer

Eastern went into a first place tie with Anacostia in the Interhigh Southern Division by defeating Western, 7-6, yesterday at Eastern.

The Ramblers protected their one-point lead, made on a second quarter conversion by Harvy Lynn, throughout the second half.

Western scored the first time it got the ball, going 91 yards in 9 plays.

Taking an Eastern punt on its own 9, Western put together a 10-yard pass from Ted Dayharsh to Dale Larsen, an 8-yard run by Dick Casey and a 13-yard pass from Larsen to Bill Muehake to move the ball to Eastern's 37.

There Quarterback Paul Weinstein passed to Dayharsh who caught the ball on the 25 and went over for the score. The attempted conversion was blocked.

The Rambler's touchdown came in the second quarter when Desmond MacLearen recovered a Western fumble by Jim O'Leary on Western's 41. Danny O'Neill circled right end for 39 yards but an attempted end run lost 8 yards.

The MacLearen caught a jump pass from Danny Cookman over the center of the line for the touchdown and Lynn made the extra point that was to win the game.

In the second half neither team advanced beyond the opposing 40-yard line.

Chamberlain Defeats Bell

Chamberlain's Volts scored their first Interhigh victory of the year yesterday when they trounced winless Bell, 31-7, at Anacostia.

The Volts scored in every quarter in entering the win column. Bell avoided a shutout by scoring a touchdown in the last two minutes of play.

Buddy Wood scored two touchdowns to pace the winners.

Polesitter Inspires Trinidad Boys Club To Raise Funds for Uniforms and Franchise

By Bill Gilbert

The Trinidad Boys' Club just refuses to give up.

This season its 140-pound football team lacked funds. So, in an effort to raise some money, Club Director Fred Naley climbed up the 77-foot flagpole atop the clubhouse and there he stayed for 17 days.

After he was taken to the hospital suffering from exposure, the boys were so inspired that they went out and organized a team themselves.

They also managed to scrape up enough money to buy uniforms and then they had to dig down into their own pockets to raise enough money to get a franchise in the Arlington Recreation League.

Then Fred Graff, Jack Colbert and Sal Trapani, Trinidad coach and trainer-manager, got an idea—a special game against the 7-Up team Sunday night, October 30, the proceeds to go into the club's treasury.

There will be several well-known figures on hand. Attorney General Howard McGrath is coming. So is Police Chief Robert Barrett and Lorraine De Boe, "Miss Television of 1949."

The United States Navy has answered the call and is sending a large band. The Naval Gun Factory has sent word that its Veterans of Foreign Wars junior drum and bugle corp will perform.

Tickets for the big show can be obtained at the club, 1119 Wylie st. ne., all Georges' Radio Stores, the Sports Center, Atlas Sports Shop, Arena Sports Shop and the Fairway Sports Shop.

And you don't even have to leave your house to get tickets if you don't want to. Just call TR. 4052 or HU. 8109 and as many tickets as you want will be sent to your door.

Landon Beats Out Friends By 13 to 12

Bill Gess scooted around end for 10 yards and a touchdown early in the fourth quarter and Bill Brawner plunged over for the decisive extra point as Landon nosed out Sidwell Friends, 13-12, in an Interstate Academic Conference game yesterday at Landon.

Larry Banfield scored the other touchdown for the winners, on a 38-yard run in the second period.

George MacWhorter, on a 75-yard kickoff return, and Harry Bolton, on a 40-yard pass play with MacWhorter throwing, accounted for the Friends' scoring.

Roosevelt Loses, 35-6; Fox Stars

By Howard Flieger, Jr.

Scoring three touchdowns in the first quarter, McKinley Tech went on to defeat Roosevelt 35-6, yesterday before 1500 people at Roosevelt Stadium. Three touchdowns by Ray Fox set the pace for the Trainers.

Breaking around the right end, Fox scored the first of his two first quarter touchdowns from the Roosevelt 20. His second tally came as he bulled his way through the center of the Rough Riders line, going over from the 3 yard line.

Stoney Jackson followed Fox's first touchdown with a score, when he broke around left end, reversed his field and raced 32 yards to the goal.

The Trainer line held Roosevelt to a net gain of seven yards at the end of the first quarter when the score stood at 21-0.

In the third quarter Fox set up and scored the fourth Tech touchdown. He picked up 50 yards on an off-tackle play to move the Trainers down to the Roosevelt 16. He then crashed the line and went all the way for the score. Ed Hudgins added one of his five conversions for the 28-0 score.

Roosevelt scored in the fourth period when Larry Mardinocchi grabbed a 6-yard pass from Bill Smith. The Rough Riders moved from their own 30 to the Tech 6 on two pass plays from Smith to Irving Friedman and George Burch, for 30 and 34 yards, respectively.

After Roosevelt's touchdown in the fourth quarter, Tech came right back with a 51-yard run by John Wege, who spun, charged the line and went all the way to the end zone.

On Strange's Good Ride

By Walter Haight

Laurel, Md., Oct. 21.—Taran, owned by S. W. Labrol, jr., of Annapolis, Md., overcame some poor racing luck to win the Crack Brigade, a test for fair 3-year-olds featuring the final Friday program here.

Taran had to out-photograph D. A. Rosenbaum's Friendly Frank to take the decision by a neck margin. Breckinridge Long's Loraine was third in the compact field of five.

Taran, a nonwinner since last June at the Detroit track, was a heavily backed favorite and returned a $4.60 win mutuel. The brown colt stepped the mile and a sixteenth in a creditable 1.46 3/5.

Jackey Bobbie Strange, who has been riding in excellent style here, shared the glory with Taran. His riding saved the day for the backers of the choice.

Friendly Frank went to the front at the break and set a good pace with Bearing Clear and Loraine closest. In the meanwhile Strange was saving ground with Taran.

At the far turn, Bearing Clear began to drop out of contention and it was evident that Strange, wanted to get Taran to the outside for the final run. However, he found the way blocked by Loraine. Without hesitation, Strange headed for the inside rail and got through.

Friendly Frank appeared to drift out entering the stretch while Taran, going after the leader, cut the corner. The pacemaker then lugged in toward the rail. However, Strange disregarded Friendly Frank and drove into the narrow opening.

In the final drive, Taran simply outgamed his rival and was going away at the end. Loraine was a distant and died there.

The victory was the third of the year in 16 starts for Taran. The $2275 he picked up today brought his season's earnings to a substantial $12,800.

The program brought the first disqualification of the meeting. Ringador, owned by Mrs. Gustave Ring of Washington, was first to the wire but his number was taken down with R. B. Archer's Navy Ace moved up as the winner. Kee-Dee Stable's Gary Leslie was third.

Ringador, ridden by Jockey Dick Williams, did not keep a straight course in the stretch but few believed he interferred with Navy Ace enough to be disqualified. The press box consensus was that Jockey Rocco Sisto, in making the objection, was only trying to face-save. However, the stewards delayed the program, viewed the movies of the race and then made their decision. Navy Ace paid $11.60.

Wilson Upsets Anacostia

Lee legged it the rest of the way for the score.

Down 21-0, Anacostia got its only score when Bob Chatlin broke through several tacklers, who could only rip the shirt off his back as he went 42 yards around end. Bill Neal's try for a rushing conversion failed.

In the second half, Ed "Bama" Burt moved from end to the backfield. He and Chatlin moved the ball to the Wilson 27. Burt's pass to Pat Kober was good to the 14, but Anacostia's chance to get back into the game was snuffed out by downs on the five.

Brinson added the next two touchdowns to his credit with end runs of 50 and 25 yards, the latter dash helped by a fine block by Speros.

Tom Caudle recovered an Indian fumble on the 21 to set up the final score. Chris King's pass to Bob Scheele was deflected into Tom Whelan's arms. Whelan ran over for the tally.

none included in his contract with Richmond. Williams claims he went to the Rebels after his release by San Francisco with the understanding that he would be given his release if a major league team wanted him.

He was also promised, Williams said, a weekday job paying $45 a week in addition to his playing salary. This was not provided.

After he was contacted by the Redskins, Williams says, he asked Seibold for his release and was promised it "if I could get a contract with Washington." He signed with the Redskins and then was refused an interview with Seibold, according to the big lineman.

"If I ever get to play with the Redskins," Williams said yesterday, "I'll have to play some brilliant ball to make all this fuss worth while."

"You see," said his honor with judicial thoughtfulness, "I have to appear as a witness in New Haven, Saturday. Yale against someone or other."

Army-Navy Has Roundup Party Of 1949 Events

More than 300 members of the Army-Navy Country Club had a wonderful time last night at a fall roundup party organized by Col. Bert White.

Col. C. M. Boyer was master of ceremonies and Gen. Clark L. Ruffner, chairman of the board of governors, made the welcoming address.

The club's activities for 1949 were reviewed, including the staging of the highly successful third annual National Celebrities golf tournament.

Twenty-three speakers sat at the head table, including chairmen of various activities, golf, tennis, swimming, etc. Championship trophies were presented.

Mrs. Stokes Wins at Manor

Mrs. Walter R. Stokes won Manor Country Club's Ladies Day Golf tournament with a 76 yesterday. Second place went to Mrs. A. B. Bower with 81.

Low net honors were won by Mrs. H. E. Davies, who posted 84-12-72. Trailing her were Mrs. J. R. Dailey with 85-11-74 and Mrs. William Devin with 92-16-76.

In the inside nine tournament, low net prize was taken by Mrs. V. L. Moss, 93-28-65.

Rudolph, Braves Pitcher, Dead

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—Dick Rudolph, righthanded pitching star of the 1914 Boston Braves World Series champions, died at his home late yesterday following a heart attack. For the past two seasons he had been freshman baseball coach at Fordham University.

He was 62 and is survived by his widow, two daughters and four grandchildren.

Bed O' Roses Favored in Selina Today

Laurel, Md., Oct. 21.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Bed O' Roses is the probable favorite in tomorrow's $25,000 added Selima Stakes, richest feature of the 25-day meeting at this turf point which comes to a close with the program.

Overnight the Selima, always an eagerly sought fixture, drew a field of nine. If all face Starter Eddie Blind the race will have a gross value of $40,010.

Bed O' Roses has won four stake events this year and turned in a smart winning performance in an overnight event here to add to her prestige.

Chief opposition for the Vanderbilt hope in the twenty-fourth running of the 2-year-old filly test is likely to come from the Ogden Phipps entry of Striking and Busanda. Striking, winner of the Schuylerville and in the money on three other stake occasions, rates well up despite finishing second to Bed O' Roses last Monday.

King Ranch also will be represented by an entry of Credit Line and Alondra, while single entrants in the race include Walter M. Jeffords' Fais Do Do, Rokeby Stable's Tap Day, Larry MacPhail's Invariant and Mrs. Albert Sabath's Devotional. WALTER HAIGHT.

Marlene Bauer, Berg Finalists

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 21 (AP).—Pro Patty Berg and 15-year-old amateur Marlene Bauer today advanced to the final round of the fifth annual Hardscrabble Women's Open golf tournament.

They will meet in a 36-hole match starting at 10:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Miss Berg, the defending champion from Minneapolis, routed Marjorie Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., 5 and 4, in one semifinal contest this afternoon.

But Miss Bauer, the Los Angeles kid who was runner-up in the recent Texas Open, had to go 21 holes to edge the veteran Babe Didrikson Zaharias, 1 up. Superior putting by the youngster was the big difference.

AT LAUREL

DEAR FOLKS:

Jockey Albert Foot, injured in the Thursday steeplechase, is resting comfortably but suffered a fractured vertabra. Wayne Kendrick, Washington owner, is seeking the services of Jockey Buddy Root for saddle work at Lincoln Downs. Bobbie Strange misses the final day of the meeting, going to Garden State to ride Cornwall in the stake. Pat Smithwick who won the Chevy Chase steeplechase here has won 10 races in the infield this year and just about tops the country's timbertop riders. Instead of banning horses who have not won for $1500, Pimlico has changed the rule, at the request of the horsemen to $1000. Getaway day. See you on the rail.

Shift to Philadelphia Of 5500 Temporary Jobs Still Matter of Doubt

There is still some doubt about the transfer of 5500 temporary jobs to Philadelphia despite the action by Congress.

It all boils down to this: Adequate office space for the people hasn't been found in that city. The search, however, is still on.

The President has recommended the Philadelphia move on the condition that Census be given some of the offices now occupied by the Veterans Administration. But VA kicked like a steer, and Congress, in approving funds for the transfer, did so on the condition that Census be prohibited from evicting VA or any other Federal agency from its offices.

An old warehouse has been located in Philadelphia that could be converted into offices, but to overhaul it would cost many times more than the $870,000 approved by Congress. Everyone now concedes that it would have been far more efficient and economical to have the Census crew here.

STORY: Shortly before the Senate adjourned, Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.) was recognized and his weary colleagues feared they might be in for a 4 or 5-hour speech. Three Wills Filed Here Leave Total Of $500,000

Builder's Estate Of $321,401 Put In Trust for Wife And 2 Children

Three Washingtonians who died recently left estates totaling more than $500,000, probate papers filed yesterday in District Court disclosed.

The largest was $321,401 left by Walter G. Distler, 58, construction company executive who died October 6. Under terms of his will, a trust is set up, with two thirds of the income going to his widow, Mrs. Anna F. Distler, and the other third to his two children, Miss Ann Distler and Walter G. Distler, jr.

At the age of 30, the children are to get the body of the trust. If they die before then and leave no survivors, Cornell University, from which Mr. Distler was graduated, may receive it instead.

J. Walter Stewart, widely known as a former bail bondsman here, left an estate of $165,685.

He died together with his wife at Snow Hill, Va., in a traffic collision October 7 and, according to court papers, left no will.

Claimant for his estate is his sister, Mrs. Jannie R. Johnson, of Charlotte, N. C.

Miss Daisy M. Prentice, sister-in-law of the late Theodore W. Noyes, editor of the Evening Star, left an estate of $58,530, almost all of it in stocks. She died October 5.

Under her will, the First Church of Christ Scientist gets $1500. Almost all the remainder is divided among two nieces, Mrs. Ruth Noyes Sheldon, of 3203 Cleveland ave. nw., and Mrs. Elizabeth Noyes Hempstone, of 5415 Moorland lane, Bethesda, Md., according to the will.

Family Lent County Funds, Official Says

A loan, since paid back, of $30,000 in Arlington County trust money, to John E. DeLashmutt, brother of County Board Chairman Basil DeLashmutt, last night was introduced into the county board election.

The loan was injected into the campaign by Daniel Dugan, nonpartisan member of the board, at a rally for Robert W. Cox, nonpartisan candidate for a seat on the board.

"As ex-officio chairman of the County Employes Pension and Retirement Board, DeLashmutt has loaned at least $30,000 to members of his family," Dugan said.

"This is recorded on a loan document signed by John E. DeLashmutt, brother of Basil DeLashmutt . . . in the county deed book," Dugan declared.

"Don't Like His Politics"

"Whether it is legal or not, no man should ever do a thing like that," the speaker asserted.

"As far as Mr. DeLashmutt's personal integrity is concerned," Dugan added, "I don't question it. He's one of the nicest men I know, but I don't like his politics . . ."

DeLashmutt later explained to a reporter that the Pension Board is authorized to make loans by unanimous vote to anyone meeting certain requirements.

"I am a member of the Pension Board. There are five of us on the board," DeLashmutt said. "The loan was made to John Delashmutt around June or July. The Retirement Board agrees on certain requirements for lending money."

40 Attend Rally

"The requirements are that all loans must be by unanimous consent; must pay 5 percent interest and the property on which a loan is granted must be appraised by double the value of the loan. The loan to John met all these requirements and has since been paid back," DeLashmutt said.

Besides DeLashmutt, other members of the board are Frank Ball, attorney; John Locke Green, county treasurer; Edwin Sherwood, treasurer of the Arlington Trust Co. and Griffin T. Garnett, jr., attorney.

Among other statements made by Dugan at the rally in Colonial Village ballroom attended by 40, was that the county from June, 1940, to August, 1941, paid out $18,666 to a contracting firm headed by two of DeLashmutt's brothers.

Teachers Told They Can End World's Fears

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 21.—School teachers were told here today that they are "the fortunate few" who can bring to an end the "doubts and fears" that have paralyzed the postwar world.

The task of the teacher was outlined by Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of Johns Hopkins University, at the second general session of the Maryland State Teachers Association convention. More than 9000 Maryland teachers are attending the meetings in the Fifth Regiment Armory.

"Hysteria and fears for the future can be subdued only by those who balance emotion with sound thought," Dr. Bronk said, in declaring that teachers have the responsibility to train youth to think.

"In the exercise of democratic living, all are required to think," he said. "The future is endangered less by those who would seize power than by those who dodge their responsibility as citizens."

Prior to Dr. Bronk's speech, the All-Maryland High School Band gave a concert.

In the afternoon the teachers separated to attend 30 discussion groups on professional topics.

Kindergarten, primary and intermediate grade teachers heard Dr. Mildred B. Stanton, consultant for the Connecticut State Department of Education, declare that small classes are the best safeguard of the mental health of children. She said that only in the small class can the teacher take time to know children and their families, and get to the roots of behavior patterns.

The three-day convention will end Saturday with a meeting of the representative assembly, election of officers, and the final session of the general assembly.

New York Rector Named to Post At St. John's

St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, yesterday announced appointment of the Rev. Frank R. Wilson as assistant minister.

Mr. Wilson, who will begin his work here December 1, now is field secretary of the American Bible Society for the Episcopal Church. He was for 13 years rector of St. James' Church, Hyde Park, N. Y., the church of which President Roosevelt was for many years senior warden.

A native of Middletown, N. Y., Mr. Wilson was ordained to the Episcopal priesthood in 1922, and before becoming rector of St. James' held pastorates at New Palz and Cornwall, N. Y.

During World War I he served in the Signal Corps and during World War II had 20 months' service overseas as a Navy chaplain with the rank of lieutenant commander.

Union Assails Capital Transit Sick Leave

Capital Transit Co. sick leave provisions are below those of other utilities and the Federal Government here, an arbitration board was told yesterday.

Eli Oliver of the Labor Bureau of the Middle West, a labor research organization, who is presenting the union's case for a wage raise and other benefits, criticized the present sick leave provisions which provide no pay for the first three days of an illness and limit paid sick leaves to 7 days a year, cumulative up to 35 days.

The union — Division 689 of the Amalgamated, Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, AFL — is asking 12 days paid sick leave cumulative to 60 days.

Isaac N. Collins, 1630 R st. se., a member of the union's executive board, testified before the five-man arbitration board at the Hamilton Hotel, that streetcar operators were subject to more health hazards than other utility workers.

He said that passengers carried "every disease in town" past the operators as they boarded the vehicles and during the winter the driver sat beside heating units opening the front doors to the cold air at frequent intervals, becoming an easy target for colds.

The union also pleaded its request for company-paid life insurance of $2000 each, group accident and sickness insurance providing $35 weekly payments and hospitalization and medical insurance.

The hearing will resume today at 9:30 a. m. and continue to 1:30 p. m. The sessions will then be adjourned to 9:30 a. m., November 2, because of the absence of one of the arbitrators.

Loyalty Sunday will be observed at 11 a. m. Sunday at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave. nw., when the Rev. Dr. Edward O. Clark, pastor, preaches on "Untapped Resources."

Military Post Joint Fare Hit As Unjustified

A joint fare system for bus commuters between the District and Virginia military installations is no longer justified on grounds of national defense, the Supreme Court was told yesterday.

This was asserted in final arguments in a case which will decide whether the Interstate Commerce Commission has jurisdiction over the fares paid by such commuters on two separate transit lines.

The commuters travel on Capital Transit buses or streetcars to the District terminals of the AB & W and the WV & M bus lines, which operate to the Pentagon, Navy Annex and other military buildings across the Potomac.

Fares Set in 1945

The Supreme Court ruled in 1945 that the ICC had jurisdiction over such trips. Joint fare transfers were established, under an ICC order, through voluntary agreement of Capital Transit with the Virginia lines.

Capital Transit attempted to withdraw from the joint fare arrangement in 1947, and was upheld by a three-judge District Court tribunal over the ICC's contention that it had power to continue the transfer arrangement. The Government appealed for the ICC to the Supreme Court.

Samuel O. Clark, jr., counsel for Capital Transit, and Lloyd B. Harrison, counsel for the District Public Utilities Commission, both told the court yesterday that the national defense needs cited by the ICC in the 1945 case no longer apply to transportation to the military posts.

Other Phases Cited

Clark also cited other changes which he said would affect the ICC's right to order Capital Transit to continue the joint fare arrangement. The company no longer operates a through Pentagon route of its own, as it did during the war, and no longer has any agreements with the Virginia lines for joint fare transfers, he pointed out. Its part of the District-Virginia travel is purely intrastate, he said.

Clark had said the joint fare of 16 cents ordered by the ICC for the route was "confiscatory." Joint fare tickets, still being sold by the Virginia bus lines and being honored by Capital Transit pending disposition of the case, now cost 22 cents. Most passengers pay cash fares totalling 23 cents.

In rebuttal, Philip Elman, special assistant to the attorney general, said the amount of the fare and how the receipts should be divided among the bus companies were not part of this case. The only question ruled on by the District Court was that of the ICC's jurisdiction, he told the court.

Gambling Controlled, Jurors Find

Investigating Body In Prince Georges Reports Conditions Seem Satisfactory

The new Prince Georges County grand jury yesterday finished a 12-day investigation of county affairs by reporting "generally satisfactory" control of gambling.

It concurred in a report handed down by the outgoing grand jury last month, but cautioned that "continued vigilance must be maintained if conditions are to remain as satisfactory as now apears to be the case."

The grand jury failed to indorse an earlier recommendation calling for a State-operated lottery, because "it is felt that to do so might be construed by some as a tacit condonation of illegal gambling, which impression this jury does not wish to give."

The outgoing jury, in a report last month, had recommended a State lottery as a means of satisfying the "inherent gaming instinct of those who now patronize illegal operations," and, at the same time, net the State additional revenue.

The grand jury also commended county law enforcement agencies on an "excellent" record, and reported its inspections of the county jail, the County Service Building at Hyattsville and the County Alms House established that all were in "generally satisfactory" condition.

During the 12-day session the grand jury reported it investigated 139 criminal cases and handed down 101 indictments.

U. S. Ponders How Meyers Left Lorton

Bennett E. Meyers again was denied his freedom yesterday in District Court—but the mystery is how he got to court anyhow.

Meyers was supposedly, as far as the Government was concerned, in Lorton Reformatory in Virginia, where he is serving a 20-month to five-year term for subordnation of perjury.

But he appeared in District Court for a habeas corpus proceeding based on constitutional grounds.

A surprised Assistant United States Attorney, Ross O'Donoghue, said he would make an investigation of the appearance, which gave the local court jurisdiction over the case.

O'Donoghue had urged dismissal of the action on the grounds that the Federal Courts in Virginia were the only ones with jurisdiction over the prisoner, but he had to change his tack.

Instead, he argued that since Judge Alexander Holtzoff had disposed of all the issues in the case on a motion to correct judgment, the court shouldn't once again review the matter on habeas corpus.

Judge Holtzoff agreed, but listened to defense arguments that the findings in the Christoffel case on the necessity of a quorum at congressional committees voided Meyers' conviction. Meyers had, the jury found, induced a witness to lie about war contracts before a Senate committee.

Judge Holtzoff said:

"There is some incongruity between this case and the Christoffel case as pointed out by a minority of the Supreme Court in the latter matter. However, this (Meyers) case has already been reviewed by the United States Court of Appeals, and it is beyond the power of this court to again review it. What happened subsequently does not affect the Meyers conviction."

Halloweeners Asked To Avoid Vandalism

Charles M. Orme, Montgomery County chief of police, requested county school authorities yesterday to caution children against Halloween "acts of vandalism."

In a message to pupils, the chief reminded them that "malicious destruction of property is a serious offense."

Family P-TA Night Set in Kensington

The annual fall Family Night of the Kensington Junior High School Parent-Teachers Association will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the school.

Dr. Frank Wiley, P-TA president, announced yesterday that the entertainment will include square dancing and card games.

Girl Charges Sex Offenses In Car Ride

Ragland Nichols

Though she said she had been repeatedly threatened with death if she talked, a Washington girl brought about arrest of three Marines early yesterday, two of them on charges of sex offenses against her, and the third as a material witness.

The three were stopped by Virginia State Trooper R. E. Godsey for allegedly driving 70 miles per hour along Duke st. extended south of Alexandria. The girl, in the car, attracted the trooper's attention by motioning to him, and told him of the alleged attacks on her.

As a result, Pfc. Arvel Nichols, 21, was charged with rape and speeding; Pfc. Robert F. Ragland, 23, was charged with sodomy; and Pfc. Donald E. McMichen, 21, was held as a material witness. All three, from Quantico Marine base, were held under $5000 bond each for hearing at 10 a. m., October 28, in Fairfax Trial Justice Court.

Deny Using Force

Police said Nichols admitted having intercourse with the girl, who lives in the 4400 block of Alton pl. nw., but denied he used force. Ragland admitted he performed an indecent act with the girl, police said, but also denied using force.

The girl told police she struggled continuously with both men, that she had been threatened and that Nichols had hit her on the chin with his fist.

County Medical Examiner Dr. Nelson Podolnick examined the girl in Arlington Hospital and refused comment except to say he found "a few scratches on her hand," but "no evidence of defloration."

Met Trio Thursday

Police said the girl, a former Government worker, told them she met the trio through friends Thursday night. At 1 yesterday morning, at the ballroom of a Washington hotel the girl said she had to go home and accepted the Marines' invitation to escort her there.

Despite her protests, they drove out Shirley hwy., the girl said, and parked in a desolate wooded section.

Detective sergeant Joseph J. Howard and Detective William L. Durrer said they found a button torn from the girl's coat in the back seat of the car, as well as her wrist watch with a broken clasp.

Girl Hears Noise, Soldier Arrested In Housebreaking

Alexandria police yesterday charged a young Fort Belvoir soldier with housebreaking as the result of a 15-year-old girl's sharp hearing.

The girl, Constance Ehrsam, whose mother, Mrs. Henrietta Ehrsman, owns the Not New Shop at 113 S. Roal st. and lives above it, phoned police about 1 a. m. yesterday when the girl heard a noise in the shop.

Police said they arrived to see Pvt. Richard J. Alvaro, 18, dash out the front door, and seized him. The cash register had been overturned, police reported, but no money was missing.

Police said the soldier also was being questioned on two other housebreakings in Alexandria the same night: law offices of Gardner L. and Armistead L. Boothe, 505 King st., and Herby's Motor Co., 115 N. St. Asaph st.

Arlington Man Elected By Veterans Club

George James, 3001 S 17th rd., Arlington, Va., has been elected to head the Veterans' Memorial Keys Club, the first club founded in the three-year old Veterans' Memorial YMCA.

Other officers elected were Samuel Burges, vice president; Robert Yancey, secretary; Benjamin Robinson, treasurer, and Cassel Butler, sergeant at arms.

2 Numbers Small Fry Jailed for 30-90 Days

They Should Know From Newspapers They Violated Law, Holtzoff Asserts

Two numbers writers got 30-to-90-day jail terms in District Court yesterday.

Imposition of these sentences by Judge Alexander Holtzoff was an exception to his general policy of not imprisoning small fry in the lottery racket.

The men jailed were Elbert F. Johnson, 41, and Thomas C. Blackwell, 44, who gave their address as 71 Decatur st. ne.

Knew They Were Wrong

Judge Holtzoff pointed to the publicity given gaming operations here as a reason why numbers writers must know they are violating the law. He said also that the defendants had not worked for a long time, and must have been living off the illegal enterprise.

In another case Judge Matthew F. McGuire gave a three-year probation term to a numbers defendant, Robert H. Spencer, 38, who said he fired the boilers at the apartment house wnere the jurist lives.

Louis B. Elze, 52, a church sexton, 4542 MacArthur blvd., was sentenced to 10 years in prison for shooting and wounding his estranged wife, Augusta. He admitted having a prior felony record for highway robbery.

2 to 6 For Robbery

Woodrow Hickson, 31, of 100 I st. nw., got two to six years in prison for robbery. Also charged with robbery, Fernell Robinson, 37, no fixed address, was given two to eight years.

Albert Anthony, jr., 23, of 1737 8th st. nw., got a two-to-six-year sentence for burglary.

James H. Gross, 37, of 1020 7th st. se., was ordered to serve three to nine years for assault with a deadly weapon, a bottle.

Virgie E. Pollard, 51, a practical nurse, of 1724 Montello ave. ne., received a one-year probation term for performing an abortion on a 17-year-old girl.

Boy, 13, Hurt In Hit-Run Accident

A 13-year-old boy was struck by a hit-run driver at 7th st. and Maryland ave. ne. last night and taken in undetermined condition to Casualty Hospital.

He is Kinzell Kackley, 918 N. Carolina ave. ne. His mother said the boy had been struck by automobiles twice before, once when he was 4 and once last February.

Police Pvt. Remy G. Ducote said the boy had been hopping streetcars eastbound on D st. ne. and was stranded at the corner of Maryland ave. He was struck when he attempted to cross the street.

Ducote said the car which struck the boy at 7:30 p. m. was a black 1936 District Plymouth, tags unknown. Five middle-aged persons were in the car, he said.

St. Jude Novena To Be Conducted At St. Stephen's

The annual novena to St. Jude will be conducted at St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church, 25th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw., beginning Thursday and continuing through October 28.

The Rev. Joseph F. Denges, recently appointed pastor of the church, will preside at the devotions and ceremonies each evening. The Rev. Matthew Hanley, novice master at the Dominican College at the Catholic University, will deliver the sermons.

Masses at St. Stephen's will be at 6:30 and 7:30 a. m. Evening services, including prayers, sermon and benediction, will be at 5:20 and 7:45. A shrine to the saint will be erected for the novena.

Fairfax Citizens Group Urges County Manager Government

A move for a referendum calling for establishment of a county manager government in place of a board of supervisors, is under way in Fairfax County.

Sponsored by the county Federation of Citizens' Associations, the campaign aims at getting 2000 names on a petition to present to Circuit Court Judge Paul Brown. At least 10 percent of the county's registered voters must sign.

The federation at a meeting Thursday night in Annandale School, instructed its County Government Committee to obtain cooperation of other county groups in getting the drive started.

More than 50 delegates heard Harold A. Ward, former president of the group and a member of the county government committee, urge that work toward a referendum be started now.

Ward asserted county residents "are ready for a change." He said, "We have caught the opposition at low ebb."

The delegates also were told by Edwin Lynch, Democratic nominee for the House of Delegates, that he is "heartily in favor" of the county manager form of government.

$2250 in Dope Found Here; Hunted Pair Give Up to Police

Two persons for whom warrants had been issued in connection with the recent narcotics roundup surrendered to police yesterday.

Meanwhile, nine bags of pure marihuana worth $2250 and a carton of empty heroin and cocaine capsules were reported found on the grounds of Soldiers' Home.

Those who gave themselves up to police were Dorothy M. Gray, 27, of 4625 Central ave. ne., listed as a housewife, and Sidney D. Foster, 29, of 1412 T st. nw., a waiter.

Each was released in $1500 bond by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence for hearings October 26 on charges of possession and sale of narcotics.

Of the marihuana cache, Lieut. H. H. Carper, of the Metropolitan Police Narcotics Squad, said he believed the drugs had been thrown away hurriedly by a peddler who thought police were following him.

Thus far, 33 persons have been taken into custody as an outgrowth of raids that started last Tuesday. Police still are seeking James Roberts, 41, of 744 Girard st. nw., reputed "big shot" of the dope ring here.

Local Players Take Top 16 Bridge Spots

By Marian Barre

Local bridge players took the top 16 position in the District Bridge Tournament at the Shoreham Hotel yesterday as the first events concluded.

The womens' championship was won by Mrs. Breckinridge Long of Laurel, Md.; and Mrs. Harold Young, 1811 R st., nw.; Dr. A. J. Steinberg, 4214 16th st., nw., and Lewis G. Tubbs, 846 S. Oakland st., Arlington, Va., won the men's championship. Both tournaments concluded yesterday.

The winning women's team scored 494 points, giving it a 24-point margin over Mrs. Margaret Fisher of Washington and Mrs. J. R. McGhee of Alexandria. Mrs. Edward Behrend and Mrs Hal Whittaker of Baltimore were third.

With 275½ points, the male champs also chalked up a big margin over the Baltimore partnership of Jules S. Chadock and James Surrock with 251. They, in turn, had a large lead over S. M. Ruhlen and H. D. Sheitelman of Alexandria.

Mrs. Freda Bentley and Lou Levinson, both of Washington, entered the mixed pair finals with another big lead over the next team of Mrs. Jennie Bryant and Leroy Thurtell. Mrs. M. Boshan and Simon Gerber were close behind. Gerber lives in Arlington; the others are from Washington.

The open pair championship, ranking event of the tournament, will be played today. Qualifying rounds begin at 2:15 p. m., with the finals scheduled for 8:15.

Talks Set Today

How to Ease Israel Crisis Is Topic Here

Ways to lessen Israel's economic crisis will be mapped out at the National Conference for Israel, sponsored by the United Palestine Appeal, which opens today at the Shoreham.

Because of a vast increase in Jewish immigration to Israel, more than 85,000 now are living in primitive conditions in reception camps, UPA officials said.

A year and half ago only three camps with a total of 5000 immigrants were in existence, according to Judge Morris Rothenberg, New York, UPA acting national chairman.

Berl Locker, chairman of the executive of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem, will make his first report on the situation when he addresses the two-day meeting at Sunday's afternoon session.

Principal speakers slated to address the conference are: Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former military governor of the American zone in Germany; Eliahu Elath, Ambassador of Israel; Maj. Gen. John H. Hilldring, former member of the American delegation to the United Nations; Henry Mogenthau, jr., general chairman, United Jewish Appeal Campaign; Daniel Frisch, president of the Zinonist Organization of America.

And Dr. Israel Goldstein, American section, Jewish Agency; Mrs. Rose Halpin, president of Hadassah, Jewish women's organization; Charles Ross, president, Palestine Foundation Fund; Max Kirshblum, executive vice-president, Mixrachi Organization of America; Nahum Goldman, chairman, American section, Jewish Agency.

Mrs. Annina Parreco

Requiem high mass for Mrs. Annina Moschetta Parreco, 72, who died Thursday at her home, 4012 19th pl. ne., will be sung at 10 a.m. today at the St. Francis de Sales Catholic Church, 2021 Rhode Island ave. ne.

Mrs. Parreco

Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

A native of Italy Mrs. Parreco came to this country in 1901 and had resided in the District since 1932.

Her husband, James Parreco, who established the contracting firm of James Parreco & Sons here, died two years ago.

Annie Peyton Luckett

Miss Annie Peyton Luckett, daughter of the late James T. and Lucy Peyton Luckett, and sister of R. Samuel Luckett, Alexandria City councilman, died yesterday at Alexandria Hospital after a short illness.

A native of Alexandria, she was retired from the Southern Railway System where she was employed as a clerk for 48 years in Washington and Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Luckett lived at 112 S. Patrick st., Alexandria, since her retirement in 1946. She was a member of the Washington Street Methodist Church.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Lucy L. Bargamin of Alexandria, and Mrs. Edwin Bilhimer of 9717 Connecticut ave., Kensington, Md.; three brothers, Hayward D. of Columbus, Ga.; William H. of 2910 18th st. nw., and R. Samuel Luckett of Alexandria.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at Demaine's funeral home, 520 S. Washington st. Burial will follow in Union Cemetery.

Leo H. Ley

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 21 (AP). — Leo H. Ley, 61, traffic manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., died last night at his home following an illness of several months.

A member of several fraternal groups, Ley had directed some 300 amateur theatrical productions in Cumberland.

He also was the founder and first president of the Tri-State Traffic Club, an organization formed during the war to interpret orders of the Office of Defense Transportation.

He was a native of St. Marys', Kans., and came to Cumberland in 1920. He is survived by his mother, his wife, two sons and five daughters. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Ralph Graves

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 21 (AP). — Ralph Graves, 82, for many years an inspector for the Virginia Commission of Fisheries, died today at his home at Seaford.

Mr. Graves, who also served 12 years as deputy treasurer of York County, is survived by a daughter, son, brother, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Sunday at Zion Methodist Church.

Van Wagoner Resigns As Chief in Bavaria

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Murray D. Van Wagoner will retire Saturday as Commissioner of Bavaria, the United States High Commissioner's office announced today. He will be succeeded by his former deputy, Clarence M. Bolds.

Van Wagoner, once Governor of Michigan, asked to be allowed to resign as early as last summer, but consented to stay until the change from Army to State Department administration of Germany was completed.

All Aboard in the Trolley Home...

Optometrist's Family to Live In Streetcar

Dr. Albert V. Alder, 25-year-old District optometrist, and his family, are moving into a streetcar Sunday.

Life in this streetcar, however, promises to have all the conveniences. It's an old Capital Transit trolley, converted into a two-room apartment at a cost of $300.

The streetcar, bought three years ago for $75 by Richard McClellan, an engineer of Franconia, Va., is on the farm of a relative four miles west of Alexandria on Franconia rd. It has electricity, a small heating plant, an oil burner.

The made-over trolley also has a kitchen and a combination living-bedroom. Four windows have been boarded up on one side for privacy, but plenty remain for the Alder family to enjoy the "pleasant woodland view."

Dr. Alder, a veteran, was graduated last May from optometry school. He and Mrs. Alder and their year-old daughter, have been living with his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Alder, 4517 Arkansas ave. nw., while they searched for a home.

They chose the streetcar, for one thing, because they wanted plenty of fresh air for their child, Mrs. Alder said. Rents being what they are, the Alders also found the monthly cost of $40 reasonable.

Marine Group Urges Congress To Keep Corps

The Marine Corps League's Tull-Deeton detachment, of Alexandria, has adopted a resolution urging the following steps be taken to preserve the United States Marine Corps:

Establish a department of the Marine Corps, with 100,000 men, under the Department of Defense; representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff by a Marine Corps general; strength of two Marine divisions and two Marine air wings, plus supporting elements; funds to participate in fleet exercises this fiscal year, and elimination of the Collins plan.

The resolution has been sent to Senator Byrd (D., Va.), Representative Smith (D., Va.) and the House Armed Services Committee, a detachment spokesman said yesterday.

Funeral services for Samuel S. Snyder, 75, retired auditor, who died Thursday at his home at 12 4th st. se., will be held today at 3 p. m. at the J. T. Morriss and Son funeral home in Petersburg, Va. Burial will be in Blanford Cemetery there.

A native of Petersburg, Mr. Snyder worked there as an auditor with the British-American Tobacco Co. for 15 years before coming to Washington in 1930. He was with the Marlow Coal Co. here for a short time. In 1934 he joined the General Accounting Office, where he served as an auditor until his retirement in 1946.

He was a member of the Blandford Masonic Lodge in Petersburg and the Epworth Methodist Church, 13th st. and North Carolina ave. ne.

Mr. Snyder is survived by his wife, Mrs. Martha E. Snyder; a son, Henry W. Snyder, of Petersburg, and a grandson, Charles B. Snyder.

'Face-Down' Bandit Suspect Not a Parolee

Although the District of Columbia Parole Board has supervision of prisoners released for good behavior before the end of their sentences, it does not arrange those releases.

This statement was issued yesterday by Col. Campbell C. Johnson, chairman of the board, following a police report Wednesday that Eral U. Holloman, identified at Lorton Reformatory as the "lie-face-down" bandit who allegedly robbed four stores here, was on parole when the crimes were committed.

Colonel Johnson pointed out that the law makes it mandatory for prisons to release inmates early if they have a good behavior record. During the remaining time, they are subject to the Parole Board's supervision. But they are not parolees, he said, and Holloman was not one.

Under the indeterminate sentence law in the District, the Parole Board may consider applications for parole by a prisoner after he has completed the minimum portion of his sentence. If the board considers him a subject for parole, he signs an agreement subjecting himself to close scrutiny of all his activities.

Du Mont, Aide Of Pure Oil Co. Here, Dies

Walter du Mont, 65, Washington representative of the Pure Oil Co., Chicago, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home, 2800 Woodley rd. nw.

Mr. du Mont, a native of West Park, N. J., had been with the oil company here and in Chicago for 15 years. He previously had been president of a Standard Oil subsidiary in New York.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Theora A. du Mont, and a son, John du Mont, Austin, Tex.

Funeral services will be held today at 2 p. m. in Gawler's chapel, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Peruvian Embassy Dinner Honors Hiram Binghams

THE PERUVIAN AMBASSADOR and Senora de Berckemeyer were hosts at a dinner last evening at the embassy in honor of former Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham.

Mr. Bingham received a decoration from the Peruvian Government several months ago, but was out of town then and was unable to accept it in person. He has done archaeological work in Peru for a number of years.

Today the Ambassador and Senora de Berckemeyer will entertain at cocktails for the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Edward G. Miller, as a farewell before Mr. Miller leaves on a South American trip.

Benards Hosts

THE ECUADOR Ambassador and Senora de Dillon were among the guests at the informal dinner given last evening by the First Secretary of the French Embassy and Madame Benard.

Champagne and Orchids Party

LAST night's annual champagne and orchids party in the Mayflower Lounge was, as usual, one of the gala occasions of the autumn season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rediker, just returned from their honeymoon, entertained a group of intimate friends. Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, jr., had with her Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Williams, and Mrs. Helen Dern was hostess to a party of eight.

As usual, trays of orchids greeted guests at the door and each lady was presented a corsage.

Mrs. Chamblin Entertains

MRS. WALTER CHAMBLIN entertained at cocktails and a buffet supper last evening at the Carlton Hotel, taking her guests later to the Champagne and Orchids opening in the Mayflower Lounge.

Envoy Returns

THE EGYPTIAN AMBASSADOR and Mme. Abdul Rahim, who expect to spend the season in New York while the Ambassador attends U. N. sessions, are at the embassy for the weekend. Yesterday they asked a group of friend for cocktails and will give a small dinner tonight for close friends.

Progressive Dinner

PROGRESSING from cocktails through dinner to liqueurs and music, a group of 18 young people met first at Miss Beverly Farrington's house on Kalorama Circle last night.

Next stop was at the home of Miss Elene Essary a few blocks away at 2101 Connecticut ave., for dinner, and Miss Eleanor Burton, at 2029 Connecticut ave., entertained the group for after-dinner coffee and liqueurs.

Gives Luncheon

SENORA DE GUZMAN-CRUCHAGA, wife of the Counselor of the Chilean Embassy, was hostess at luncheon yesterday at her home on Western ave.

Miss Patricia O'Neill Engaged

REAR Admiral Merlin O'Neill, USCG, and Mrs. O'Neill announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Patricia Tuttle O'Neill, to Ensign Richard T. Penn, jr., USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Penn of Little Rock, Ark.

Miss O'Neill attended Fairfax Hall and Bucknell University. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority, the Jangoes, the Army and Navy League and the D. A. R. She was presented to society in Baltimore in 1945.

Ensign Penn attended Carnegie Institute of Technology and was graduated from the U. S. Coast Guard Academy.

With the State Societies

Ready for the Texas Roundup

By Nicha Soure

THE TEXANS are out to round up all the other Texans in Washington.

And the Texas State Society dance and party tonight should be inducement enough. Besides dancing there will be games of bridge, canasta and Chinese checkers at 8 p. m. with dancing starting at 9 p. m. The place will be Gadsby's Tavern.

But back to the Texas roundup. The society believes that there are between 1000 and 2000 Lone Star Staters living in Washington and vicinity and it aims to find them. These Texans are urged to sign up as members of the society and get their names on the membership rolls which the Texans say will be the roll of honor of Texans in Washington.

The society members this year will be divided into the group activity of their choice. One of these groups, by popular demand, is the square dance class which plans to hold weekly square dances at a conveniently located recreational hall.

Mrs. Martin G. White, wife of the Solicitor of the Interior Department, is chairman of the membership drive. On the membership committee are Lieut. Comdr. Herschel Schooley, Mrs. Ken Regan, wife of Representative Regan; Mrs. C. Raymond Wire, Mrs. Francis Bowen, Maj. George Davisson, John S. Mayfield, Robert Simmons and Robert Bartley.

Mrs. Walter C. Hornaday is chairman of the entertainment committee for the dance tonight.

Looking for Volunteers

ALL you former residents of the Volunteer State, take heed!

The Tennessee State Society is trying to enlist every Tennessean living in the Washington area in its new membership drive. Membership is based on the calendar year, but the society is offering membership for the balance of 1949 to those who join for 1950 now.

Further information about the society can be secured at Tennessee's congressional delegation offices or from the president, D. Scott Daniel, secretary of the Federal Trade Commission. Mrs. Griffith Foskett, 2009 Wyoming ave. nw. (Michigan 5009) is seretary of the society.

Party Before Halloween

PLAN to attend the South Dakota party on the day before Halloween.

On Sunday, October 30, the Sunshine Staters will hold a party from 2 to 5 p. m. at the Women's City Club, 1733 I st. nw.

With Halloween in the air, the South Dakotans and their friends are invited to turn out en masse for this "autumn kick-off." The entertainment committee, under the chairmanship of Carl R. Bauman and assisted by Miss Edith Norbeck and Charles T. MacDonald, is promising "tricks and treats" for all, in keeping with the Halloween spirit. Miss Carlotta Reedy, president of the society, says there will be a reception preceding the entertainment program followed by refreshments.

Deadline for tickets is October 22. For reservations contact the treasurer, Miss Georgia McKeever, 1313 Hamilton st. nw. (Randolph 2825) or the offices of the South Dakota congressional members.

Missourians to Dance

THE Missouri Society will hold its first entertainment of the season in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, October 29.

Dancing will begin at 10 p. m. and the intermission program will include community singing led by Miss Grace Lovell and accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Fuhrman. A Technicolor movie will be shown at 9:15 p. m. under the direction of H. L. Kemp, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Clarence McCune, president, will receive the guests, assisted by Mrs. Eric Jansson, reception committee chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude M. Hochins of the Missouri Society entertained at a dinner last week in their home in honor of officers of the Missouri Society. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. McCune, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Morgan, Alden A. Stockard, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Jansson, Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrman, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Mrs. Ola Bennett and Maurice W. Covert.

Halloween Party

THE Maine State Society will hold its annual Halloween party at the Dodge Hotel Garden House at 8:30 p. m., October 28.

On the menu will be cider, doughnuts, and MacIntosh apples which were shipped directly from Maine. The program will include dancing and Halloween games with a prize going to the best costumed persons.

New York State Dance

TONIGHT'S the night the New York State Society will hold its second dance of the season—the Agriculture Department ball. Dancing will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. at the Shoreham Hotel.

Harris & Ewing

MRS. ULYSSES T. CARTER, JR., whose marriage took place October 10 at Tabor Presbyterian Church, is the former Miss Barbara June Pinchback, daughter of Mrs. Walter A. Pinchback and the late Mr. Pinchback of Washington. Dr. Carter is the son of Dr. and Mrs. U. T. Carter of East Providence, R. I. The newlyweds will reside in Providence following their honeymoon in Nassau, the Bahama Islands.

Daughter to Gaudys

Major and Mrs. William T. Gaudy of Silver Spring, Md., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, their first child, on October 6 at Walter Reed Hospital. The baby has been named Bethe Tupper. Mrs. Gaudy is the former Wilhelmina Dargan Tupper. Major Gaudy is on duty at the Army Medical Center.

'Scrubbable' Paper, 'Roll-On' Paint

New Homemaking Aids Shown

By Lucia Brown

WALLPAPER that can be scrubbed with a brush . . . "dye coats" that give your woodwork an even natural blond finish . . . a gadget that will "roll" paint on your walls . . .

These are but a few of the entries in a parade of decorating progress in the Federal Room of Hotel Statler this weekend. Twenty-six exhibits of what's new—as well as what's standard—are shown in connection with the Capital District Council Convention of Painting and Decorating Contractors of America. The exhibits will be open to the public through 10 p. m. today.

The "scrubbable" wallpaper is impregnated with water colors and a plastic preparation. It's the latest in stain-proof papers, stubbornly keeps mayonnaise, ink, and all manner of grease and dirt from soaking in. Even with crayons, the kids can't ruin it! You can get it shining clean, without affecting its colors, by scrubbing with brush, soap and water.

Dark Papers Featured

ALSO shown are wallpapers and wall fabrics protected by a surface coating of plastic. Handsome photo murals of California scenes are on display. Dark papers are outstanding among the plain wallpapers. Colonial designs sell best among figured wallpapers here in Washington, we were told at two of the booths.

The blond "dye coats" were included in one of the displays of light finishes for interior woodwork. They're a stain with "controlled penetration" which can be applied by an amateur without streaked effect. A clear, flat finish goes over them for further protection.

The increasing popularity of light natural-wood finishes for interiors was pointed out by several manufacturers. Stanley Levy of Baltimore, vice president of a firm that's made stain and varnish for 75 years, gives the housewife credit for this development.

"In grandfather's day, woodwork was dark mahogany, often covered with glossy varnish," he points out. "Housewives complained because this was dark and gloomy, and showed fingermarks, too. Light painted woodwork succeeded it in popularity. Homemakers kicked about this, too, because it was hard to keep clean. Now we have such natural finishes as 'Sandalwood,' 'Maple,' 'Bleached Mahogany' and 'Driftwood' that are light but easier to keep clean, and not shiny."

Forest Green Popular

FOREST green is the most popular dark shade for walls now, we were told by Michael Grossberg, representative of another big paint company. Light colors still predominate in the wall-painting field, since the dark ones require so much more decorating skill. "Greyed" shades of light colors are used more and more, though, he said.

And, oh yes, that gadget for "rolling" on paint. It just came out this summer, has a padded roller on one end, a pressure gun on the other. You fill it very much like a fountain pen—but with 2/3 pint of oil-base paint—then roll away to your heart's content. There's no drip, no splatter, as the paint feeds into the roll, then comes off on the wall. And no need for an "elbow cup" either, if you get ambitious enough to paint the ceiling.

Make Your Own

Ask Anne About Household Pests

Recently I moved to another house, and it is full of cockroaches. What must I do to get rid of them? C. L. H.

Because of their flattened bodies, roaches can and do hide during the daytime in sheltered, dark places near drain boards, sinks, behind wall cabinets and radiators, under loose door and window trims, and all such places. When it is dark they come out in search of food.

Therefore, the best defense against them is twofold:

(1) Using a small hand dust gun, force 10 percent DDT powder into cracks and crevices where roaches might hide.

(2) Use a 5 percent DDT oil solution for spraying cupboards, drawers, utility rooms, open storage shelves, under sinks, in bathrooms; in short, wherever roaches have been seen. Before you spray the oil DDT solution, be sure to take all dishes and food from the cupboard shelves and drawers. When the spray is completely dry, the contents may be returned to the cupboards. How successful the treatment is will be determined by the thoroughness with which you spray.

DDT does not immediately kill all the roaches, but you should notice improvement in two or three days. The oil spray leaves crystals on the surface which can kill roaches for several weks after it is applied. If, however, you still see roaches two weeks after the application, it should be repeated.

Where can I find undecorated trays and material for decorating them? I am particularly interested in Early American trays. I. L. N.

Devotees of the art of tray decoration oftentimes use inexpensive already decorated metal trays which can be purchased at dime and variety stores. Larger metal trays are sometimes found in stores which sell old dishes, glass, etc.

To paint these trays, the paint already on the tray is dulled and smoothed, if necessary, by rubbing with sand or emery paper. Then wipe the surface with turpentine on a soft cloth to remove all loose particles and oil before applying foundation paint. Flat black is generally used for the foundation on Early American trays.

Books of designs suitable for decorating early American trays can sometimes be purchased at paint stores which sell artists' supplies.

Artists' paints in tubes are used for the decoration and they, too, can be purchased at paint stores.

When you are ready to paint, a little of the paint from the tube is squeezed on a sheet of aluminum foil or glass, some high-grade clear varnish is mixed into it to give it a good consistency, and it is applied to the tray with a small paint brush.

Inquiries and contributions to the Ask Anne column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address letters and cards to Anne, Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

HALF sizes are the answer for women with "figure problems." Here is a handsome example, done in spice brown Milateen which comes in sizes 14½ to 22½. Made by Murray Sices, it is cut especially for women with shorter-than-average waistlines. Its slim skirt is topped with a long jacket which has curved arrow insets at the waist to further slenderize the silhouette. Colors include black, green, wine and riva teal. United Nations Day to Be Celebrated With Gala Programs

By Genevieve Reynolds

UNITED NATIONS Day observances will predominate in feminine clubdom at immediate and future gatherings. The Woman's National Democratic Club will climax its week with a gala dinner honoring the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, William M. Boyle, jr., and Mrs. Boyle, tonight, 7:30 o'clock, 1526 New Hampshire ave. nw.

Throughout the week, club members have manned U.N. booths at the National Airport.

Count Nicholas de Rochefort, author, journalist, lecturer, will be guest speaker when the International Relations Committee, D. C. Business and Professional Women's Clubs, sponsors a United Nations program, Monday, October 24, 8 p. m. at Mount Pleasant Library. His speech, comparing the "Efforts of the French and American Women Towards Peace" will be the finale of the club's celebration of United Nations week.

Members of the club's International Relations Committee have worked diligently with the National Citizens' Committee for United Nations Day since the first of September. Many have put in long hours as volunteer stenographers, typists as well as planners.

Over at the University Women's Club, 1515 New Hampshire ave., United Nations Day will be celebrated with a tea, 4 p. m., Monday, October 24, Dr. Elmer Louis Kayer, Dean of History at George Washington University will discuss, "The World Today." Miss Mildred Green, chairman of the education committee, will present the speaker. Hostesses will be Miss Elsie Green and Mrs. Leslie Whitten.

Come Wednesday, October 26, B'nai B'rith Women, Argo will observe United Nations Week at their monthly meeting, 1 p. m. at the Jewish Community Center. There'll be a special broadcast, "According to the Record," and a musical program featuring Arthur Tracy, "The Street Singer." Wives of foreign ambassadors whose countries are members of the United Nations will be honor guests at a reception following the program. Mrs. Harry Badt is program chairman.

In final observance of United Nations Week, a luncheon will be held at the Alexandria YWCA, Monday, October 24, 12:30 p. m. under the chairmanship of Mrs. C. J. Lapp. Lincoln P. Bloomfield, assistant to the Executive Director, Office of U.N. Affairs at the State Department, will discuss "The United Nations Day Behind the Headlines."

Kappa Deltas Mark Anniversary

THROUGHOUT the nation, Kappa Deltas will recall that October 23 is the fifty-second anniversary of the sorority. Founded in Longwood College, Farmville, Va., there now are chapters in 77 colleges plus 200 alumnae associations in the United States and Hawaii. Here the Washington Alumnae Association of Kappa Deltas will celebrate Founders' Day with a dinner Monday, October 24, 7 p. m. at the YWCA. A report on the national convention held last summer in Duluth will be given by Mrs. Richard Hiner. Mrs. Harold Rowe, alumnae president will present the Founders' Day service. Reservations are in charge of Mrs. Earl Robert.

ON TODAY"S CALENDAR

Students! Special Review of UN's Career

by the Assembly President

Here's a current history feature of real value to every student of political science — and one every citizen ought to read. On the eve of "United Nations Day," General Assembly President Carlos Romulo reviews the organization's four years, especially for Post readers. Has UN accomplished anything, aside from its East-West squabbles? President Romulo chronicles UN's successes, great and minor, in this timely account. Read it Sunday in Section II of The Washington Post.

Gen. Grant Honored At Legion Banquet

Postlude

7 Composers Represented In Recital

By Paul Hume

Minna Niemann's annual piano recital at the Sulgrave Club was a social event.

Each year the resident artist gives a program of music by the same half-dozen composers. It would be unfair to list deficiencies noted during the playing.

Two Bach chorales, a Mozart sonata, intermezzi by Brahms, and pieces of Chopin, Delius, Inch, and Paganini were all treated alike.

Miss Niemann is apparently willing to present her playing in its present state. It seems unfair to many young highly gifted pianists in our country to give this more consideration in the face of such paucity of musical values.

About 150 persons attending a testimonial for Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d heard the former chairman of the National Capital and Planning Commission described as a distinguished soldier, an outstanding citizen and a loyal Legionaire.

The occasion was the annual banquet of the Cooley-McCollough American Legion Post No. 22 honoring its immediate past commander. It was at the National Press Club.

Speakers included Lynn U. Stambaugh, National Legion past commander from North Dakota, who substituted for Assistant Defense Secretary Paul H. Griffith; Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University where General Grant is vice president; Department Commander Charles K. Dun, Capt. John R. Perry, USN, nad Judge J. Fred Johnson.

General Grant was presented the past commander's jewel by Post Commander Frank Saunders, who paid tribute to the general's activities in war, in peace and with the Legion.

Tavern Owner Fined $300 on 2 Counts

A T B, Md., tavern owner was fined $300 in Upper Marlboro police court yesterday on charges of permitting the sale of liquor on Sunday, and letting a juvenile serve liquor.

Dorothy Good, 40, was fined $200 by Judge Alan Bowie on the first court, and $100 on the second.

She was arrested on the complaint of two Prince Georges County plainclothes policemen, who said they bought drinks from a waitress only 17 years old.

AMA Starts Survey Of Blood Bank Stores

Chicago, Oct. 21 (AP).—The American Medican Association, in long-range preparations for possible national emergency, has started a survey of blood bank stores throughout the Nation.

Questionnaires have been sent to more than 1500 blood banks and to 5100 hospitals which have no blood banks. They seek to determine accurately how much blood can be stored and how much is normally used by the Nation's hospitals.

Policeman Guilty of Intoxication

Police Pvt. James T. Phillips, 34, of the Eighth Precinct, was fined $75 yesterday by a police board after he was found guilty of intoxication on duty.

The officer, a veteran of eight years service with the Metropolitan Police Department, was restored to duty as of 4 p. m. yesterday but loses pay for the duration of his suspension which began October 11.

Lieut. Karl G. McCormick who suspended Phillips told the board the policeman appeared sleepy during roll call and that he smelled liquor on him. McCormick said notes in Phillips' notebook in which Phillips was writing during the formation, were irregular.

The officer, who was shot and wounded by his wife last June after a party in their home, 614 St. Andrew's Lane, Silver Spring, told the board his writing was shaky because of the injury. He said also he had a cold and had been drinking cough medicine on the day of his suspension.

Channel-Conquering Seal Hailed as Hero, Gets City Seal

Hermosa Beach, Calif., Oct. 21 (AP)—Pierre Cillion, the intrepid California seal which swam the English Channel recently in one of radio's more dizzy gags, came home today to a welcome no seal ever received before.

Pierre had been acclaimed abroad after negotiating the choppy channel in five hours and four minutes, to better the human mark by some six hours. He returned to his birthplace to the cheers of hundreds of townsfolk, three beach city mayors and a battery of press agents.

Across the main street an 80-foot sign spelled "Welcome Home, Pierre." The 18-month-old champ rode in an open convertible with his "angel," Ralph ("Truth or Consequences") Edwards and the man who held the leash when Pierre swam the Channel, Bert Kennedy.

President Forrest Murdock of El Camino College, clad in dignified cap and gown, conferred an honorary degree of something on Pierre. Schools took a half-holiday, El Camino tendered him a swimming "letter" and of course he got the official seal of the city.

Uniform Highway Traffic Rules Urged by Lane

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., of Maryland today asked for a uniform highway traffic regulation system. He called it a major national problem for the States to work out.

Lane spoke at the final session of the 14th annual northeastern regional conference on highway and motor vehicle problems sponsored by the New York State Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation and the Council of State Governments.

Lane said means must be devised for taking potential killers off the roads. He warned that deaths and injuries are rising steadily.

He proposed collaboration on a national scale by State agencies in licensing drivers and vehicles, in driver education and in engineering of roads.

Anemia on Wane In Survivors of Hiroshima Blast

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21 (U.P.)—Anemia in survivors of the Hiroshima atomic bombing has almost completely disappeared, a University of Michigan doctor said today.

Dr. James V. Neel said studies of 924 Hiroshima residents showed little difference between their blood and that of persons tested in Jure, a city 18 miles from the scene of the atomic blast.

"Studies made after the bombing showed the people tested had all lost their hair immediately after the blast," Neel said. "Many of these people also were anemic."

Neel said the latest study showed that the persons tested had made an almost complete recovery from anemia.

Neel's studies for the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission were published in the Archives of Internal Medicine.

School Unveils New '20-Power' Atom Smasher

Berkeley, Calif., Oct. 21 (AP).—A big machine designed to lead scientists toward new facts about atomic energy was unveiled today at the University of California.

The machine, called a bevatron, is a working model of a revolutionary and ultra-powerful atom smasher. It was built by scientists in Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence's laboratory at a cost of $350,000 to the Atomic Energy Commission.

The significant thing about the bevatron model is that it proves the workability of an idea that will give scientists an atom smasher 20 times as powerful as anything they now have.

With a full-sized bevatron pounding at the atomic nucleus, almost anything can happen in the scientific sense. It might mean production of "negative matter" or some new nuclear particle that could lead to a new understanding of matter.

The big bevatron, to be completed four years hence on the basis of the working model, will duplicate some of the atom-smashing feats of moderately strong cosmic rays.

Max Truitt, Son-in-Law Of Barkley, Flies Home

London, Oct. 21 (U.P.)—Max Truitt, 45, son-in-law of Vice President Alben W. Barkley, was put aboard an airliner for New York tonight in a wheel chair.

A United States Embassy official said Truitt became ill with a stomach ailment shortly after he arrived here Wednesday from Paris on a business trip.

Funds Sought For Youth Centers In Germany

The General Clay Fund for German Children plans to raise enough funds this fall to keep the handicraft program of the 300 German Youth Activities centers going throughout the coming winter, Mrs. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the committee of sponsors, announces.

"GYA centers, directed by American servicemen overseas, are the only meeting places where German children of all backgrounds can learn democracy in action, through discussion forums, team games and handicraft programs," Mrs. Shouse said.

Servicemen, who personally are paying for the centers, must be supported in their volunteer role as "ambassadors of democracy," Mrs. Shouse said. Contributions, which are tax-deductible, should be marked "General Clay Fund" and sent to CARE, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Shouse added.

Sponsors include, Mrs. Shouse announced: John J. McCloy, United States High Commissioner for Germany; Gen. Lucius D. Clay, in whose honor the fund is named; James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, and Philip L. Graham, publisher of The Washington Post.

Visa-less Hoosier Makes Big Vodka Deal in Moscow

London, Oct. 21 (U.P.)—Edward Dowling, Indianapolis businessman, said today he traveled to Moscow without visa or permit two weeks ago and negotiated a two-million-dollar private vodka deal.

"When Russian frontier guards asked for a visa, I told them I was an American taxpayer and they let me through," said Dowling.

He said he found the Russians willing to supply him with the vodka, at just under $1 a bottle, if he could furnish the bottles.

Dowling said his Moscow hotel served bad food and had no heat. He also said most Russians he met looked on him as a spy.

"I never want to go there again," he added.

School Fountains Stolen

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 21 (U.P.)—Janitor John Lape investigated water gushing on the playground of St. Mary Magdalene School here today and found thieves had taken two drinking fountains.

Conference

A conference is a gathering . . . Of people in a place . . . Where issues are debated and . . . Decided face to face . . . A meeting of the higher-ups . . . In strictest privacy . . . Before they keep their rendezvous . . . With business destiny . . . Or it may be the lame excuse . . . Where bosses want to hide . . . From salesmen and from others who . . . Would like to get inside . . . Sometimes a conference shapes the world . . . In terms of peace or war . . . And sometimes it is just a laugh . . . Behind a bolted door . . . But all that those outside can do . . . Is wait and hope and pray . . . That time and opportunity . . . Will not be tossed away.

Things Are Booming on Local Exchanges

Old-timers around Washington are usually startled to discover that there are now 58 telephone exchanges on the local dial system.

Anybody who tests himself to see how many of them he can remember offhand will probably wind up tremendously impressed with the speed and extent of this city's growth.

And some of the abbreviations aren't very familiar, even after constant usage. For example, how many of these exchanges can you identify from the capitalized dial abbreviations:

AP, AT, AX, CY, HU, JO, KE, OT, OX, TO, TU, TW, WH, two that start with HI, two that start with OL, and three that start with LO.

You'll find a complete list of answers on Page 3 of the white section of your phone book.

RASSLING NOTES

Mrs. Elizabeth Warner of 9719 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md., wants to know why "North Carolina's Favorite Son" at Turner's Arena isn't barred from wrestling.

"I know there must be a villain in every drama," she adds, "but this fellow is entirely too conscientious about it."

Personally, I haven't been able to get very excited about wrestling ever since the night a dozen years ago that I saved $20 for the radio station in Ohio for which I was working at the time.

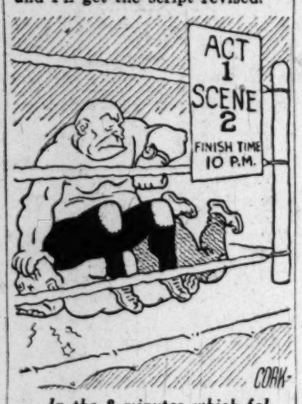
It happened like this. We had a sponsored newscast at 10 p. m. each night, and if it didn't hit the air precisely at 10, the sponsor refused to pay for the program.

On Thursday nights, we carried the wrestling matches. The main go started at 9:30. The first fall always took 30 minutes; we aired the newscast at 10, during the intermission, then switched back to the arena for the second fall.

But one Thursday night there was a delay, and as 10 o'clock approached, the semi-final event was still being decided. Appalled at the prospect of losing the 20 bucks, I picked up our direct line to ringside, and got hold of our sports announcer.

"What'll I do?" I wailed. "I've got to get this newscast started at 10 sharp. It says so in the contract."

"It does?" he replied mildly. "Well, okay then. Relax, kid, and I'll get the script revised."



In the 8 minutes which followed, these things happened, in rapid-fire order: The semi-final match was concluded; the headliners entered the ring and got their instructions; the first fall ended in 3 minutes flat; our newscast started at precisely 10 p. m.

Since that night, I have been rabidly disinterested in wrestling.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four month-old kittens, part-Persian." (Ordway 0844 after 7 p. m.)

"Five tiger kittens, 10 weeks old; very playful and intelligent." (Taylor 0514.)

MISCELLANY

"Why don't you run a picture of yourself at the head of your column, the way Jerry Kluttz does?" asks Mrs. Blanche Eisenberg of 2824 Devonshire rd. nw. . . . what's the matter—aren't the cartoons funny enough? . . . Mrs. E. S. Newman of 4604 Addison rd. ne. reminds me that Girl Scout Week begins a week from Sunday. Girl Scouts of District VI (everything on the east side of the Anacostia) will hold an Arts and Crafts Exhibit at the East Washington Heights Baptist Church, Alabama and Branch aves. se. on November 3 (3 to 5 p. m.), November 4 (3 to 9 p. m.) and November 5 (10 a. m. to 2 p. m.) . . . Mrs. H. A. Zimmerman of Beltsville, Md., wants me to attend a family style turkey and ham dinner to be given from 5 to 8 o'clock tonight, at the Emmanuel Methodist Church. Tickets are $1.50 each, and the profits, if any, will be used by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Beltsville Volunteer Fire Department to furnish a kitchen in the new firehouse. I'm afraid if I attend there will be no profit, and the first thing the fire department will put out will be me.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Where in the world do you get the spelling "clew" that you insist on using? I was taught to spell the word "clue."

Henry J. Brill
Presidential Gardens
Alexandria, Va.

Dear Henry:

I also spelled it "clue," until our proofreaders insisted that I change. They point out that "clew" is Webster's first choice.

My argument is that Webster lists three meanings: 1. a ball of thread; 2. an indication which guides one in solving anything of doubtful nature; and 3. the lower corner of a square sail. Under "clue" Brother Webster refers us to "clew," but admits that for meaning No. 2, the "clue" spelling now prevails.

Nevertheless, our proofroom goes strictly by the book, and I hate to argue with them. They save me from such pitfalls as putting three p's in "Culpeper, Va." Bill

TWIN BILL

Charles R. Creamer, jr., of 1425 Arlington ter., Alexandria, Va., reports that on a drive to Shepherdstown, W. Va., he saw a theater marquee sign that offered:

"Million Dollar Week End," "Hangover Square."

SEEMS LOGICAL

B. R. Morris of Amherst, Mass., reports that his third grade daughter is currently struggling through the mysteries of comparatives and superlatives. Informed that a widow is a woman whose husband has died, she inquired:

"Then is a widower a lady with two dead husbands?"

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

"When a telephone operator is late for work," wonders Jay Aitch, "does she say to her boss: 'Sorry, long slumber.'"

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—When Sarah Churchill and Anthony Beauchamp suddenly decided to be married, in Sea Island, Ga., the neighbors volunteered to help. The bride had no hat, and so Mrs. Harned, wife of the manager of the Cloisters, gathered some flowers, pinned them onto a piece of lace, and this was Miss Churchill's wedding hat . . . Because Miss Church had lost weight recently, her best gown, designed in New York for her by Molly Parnis, was too large. Another neighbor, a Mrs. Altcott, tucked in the gown, explaining: "I'm not a pro, but I'm used to fixing things for my daughter and her friends." And in this tucked-in gown and improvised hat Sarah Churchill was married.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones, who head the Sea Island corporation, told the newlyweds: "A bride and groom should drive away, after a wedding. It's more romantic," and they offered the use of their own cottage and a car and chauffeur to drive them there. The Beauchamps left the Cloisters, waved goodby to the wedding guests and started the winding, romantic nighttime drive through Sea Island. The next morning, when the newlyweds walked out of the cottage, the romantic illusion of distance was shattered when they noticed that the cottage was really right next door to the Coisters, the place where they were married.

Leon Henderson, who just completed an economic survey of South America, reported: "Money isn't everything, of course, but I can't remember any situations in which I found that money made them worse."

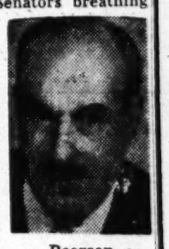
Merry-Go-Round

Congress Has Done a Lot of Work

By Drew Pearson

As the debris of the Eighty-first Congress is swept away and as relieved bureaucrats get back to work with no Senators breathing down their necks, it can be truthfully said that Congress has accomplished far more than veteran Capital observers ever dreamed possible.



Pearson

In fact, the recent session probably passed more of Mr. Truman's Fair Deal program than FDR's Congress passed of the New Deal program, with the exception of his first four years in office.

Chief blot on the Eighty-first Congress was that it failed to pass an old-age pension-social security bill at a time when such passage could have helped settle the coal and steel strikes, and that it failed to pass aid-to-education at a time when the schools were desperately in need of help.

The fact that Congress failed to do this and bogged down toward the end was due largely to absenteeism. Not all the pleading, cajoling and scolding of patient Senate Leader Scott Lucas could muster the votes—for the simple reason that dozens of Senators and scores of Congressmen were out of town.

Absenteeism has become worse in recent years because of free junkets abroad on Army airplanes. In the old days Congressmen went home to mend their political fences. Now many travel abroad on "surveys." Usually it's a good idea for Congressmen to get acquainted with conditions abroad—but not when their votes are needed in Washington.

During the closing weeks of Congress, for instance, the following Senators were "surveying" conditions in Europe:

Survey of Housing—Included Bricker of Ohio, Flanders of Vermont, Frear of Delaware and Sparkman of Alabama.

Survey of Europe Generally—By the Senate Appropriations Committee, including Chavez of New Mexico, McClelland of Arkansas, Robertson of Virginia and Stennis of Mississippi—though Stennis is not even a member of this committee.

Survey of Franco Spain—Undertaken by McCarran of Nevada, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who has nothing to do with foreign relations.

Survey of Military Establishments—By Tydings of Maryland, even though Secretary of Defense Johnson begged him to stay in Washington.

In addition, the following Senators got tired and toward the closing days of Congress packed up and went home: Butler of Nebraska, Reed of Kansas, Thye of Minnesota, Tobey of New Hampshire, Kefauver of Tennessee, Gillette of Iowa and Withers of Kentucky.

Byrd Says Pearson Charges Are False

The following statement about Drew Pearson's Friday column was issued yesterday by Senator Harry Byrd (D., Va.):

"For the third time Drew Pearson has by false statement attempted to involve me in a tax fraud case. He is a master of the technique of smearing public men by lying innuendo.

"The facts in this matter so far as I am concerned are as follows: Some two years ago Messrs. Hardy and Davison, trading as the Arlington Asphalt Co., came to my office and began a discussion of their tax troubles with the Federal Government. As soon as I understood that the purpose of their visit was to discuss an investigation of them by the Justice Department in connection with tax fraud, I told them that in all of my public service I had never intervened in a matter involving tax evasion or fraud and declined to discuss the matter further. I had never seen these persons before this visit and I have not heard from them since. I have never intervened for them with the District Attorney, at the Internal Revenue Bureau, at the Justice Department or anywhere else.

"Pearson's insinuations in his column published in many newspapers today that I participated in a conference with the Department of Justice and attempted in some way to influence United States District Attorney Humrickhouse in his prosecution of this case are direct lies.

"Pearson has made other false charges against me and too frequently has made me the target of his insidious innuendo, but I do not intend to have him maliciously create in the public mind the impression that I am involved in a tax fraud case.

"If Pearson does not adequately correct these lies, insinuations and innuendos I intend to sue him for libel."

Pearson's Reply

Pearson last night replied:

"Senator Byrd was extended the courtesy of giving his side of the case before any publication about him. The first time he exploded with a denial that he had ever talked to Hardy and Davison, the gentlemen in income tax difficulties. Then when Hardy and Davison said they had conferred with Byrd, the Senator changed his statement. I suspect that the only kind of a press the Senator wants in this country is one which lets him insert every comma and semicolon in its news stories about him."
